Proves She Was in Vicinity of Crime.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The graphic narrative of the mysterious Hall-Mills murder case given by Mrs. Jane Gibson was buttressed today by the testimony of two witnesses. The stories that supported her were told by two men who took the witness stand here at the preliminary hearing of Henry De La Bruyere Carpender and "Willie" Stevens, charged with the murder, four years ago of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

The first witness was Robert Ehrling, a millwright, who suppressed his story for four years and told it publicly today for the first time. Ehrling, a thin lipped youth, swore that he saw Mrs. Gibson at the hour the murder occurred, near the spot where the Rev. Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were shot to death.

First Corroborative Evidence.

It was the first time the woman's story, charging the murders to Carpender, Stevens, and Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the clergyman, had been reinforced in any way. Mrs. Hall is at liberty under $15,000 bond. Stevens, her brother, and Carpender, his cousin, are held without bail.

Ehrling told his story under the examination of Assistant Attorney Alexander Simpson, assigned by Gov. A. Harry Moore to reinvestigate the crime four years after its commission. The millwright told how he had been in an automobile parked in De Russey's lane, a mud road leading to the crabapple tree where the killings were done. It was between 9 and 10 p. m., and it was pitch dark. Down the lane came Mrs. Gibson, on her mule to pass and peer into Ehrling's machine. Without a word Mrs. Gibson moved on. With a bashful attempt at chivalry, Ehrling has shielded the name of the girl who was with him in the car.

Told of Looking Into Car.

The importance of Ehrling's scrap of evidence lay in the fact that Mrs. Gibson had testified last Friday that she had looked into a car on her first trip astride the mule, searching for corn thieves on the night of the crime. On the same occasion, she had disclosed how she had seen a sedan near the entrance to De Russey's lane and had recognized Mrs. Hall and Stevens.

Having supported one part of Mrs. Gibson's statement of events of the night of the crime, Senator Simpson put on the second witness, to bear out her assertion about the sedan. Charles Alspaugh, formerly a bus driver, testified that he had seen a Dodge sedan parked where Mrs. Gibson stated she had seen one. Three shadowy forms, added Alspaugh, flitted down an embankment back of the sedan as he drove by, but he was unable to identify the three persons who had apparently sought to escape his notice.

Defense on Fighting Edge.

The introduction of this testimony had the defense attorneys on fighting edge. Timothy N. Pfeiffer, who cross-examined the eleven witnesses heard today, was in frequent clashes with Senator Simpson. Robert H. McCarter, former attorney general, another of the defense lawyers, interposed objections time and again. Caustic characterizations of one another's tactics passed.

Several times the defense scored tellingly. A notable instance of this came during the testimony of William Phillips, a former night watchman. Phillips was counted upon to prove that the woman he saw enter the Hall home early on the morning after the double murder was Mrs. Hall. Today, he declared that he had not paid particular attention to the woman, and could not say that it was Mrs. Hall.

In between the entry of this evidence and the blows struck by Simpson through Ehrling and Alspaugh came the statements of James Mills, husband of the slain choir leader, and the statement of Mrs. Hall herself. Mills was there to testify in person, but Mrs. Hall's account of her movements and emotions was read into the record by Mr. McCarter from her statement of four years ago.

Mills Suspected Nothing.

Mills was the first of the principals to spread his pathetic story of ignorance of the affair between his wife and his rector before the crowd in the [illegible] courtroom. He knew nothing and suspected nothing, he told the prosecutor.

Yes, he monotoned, Mrs. Hall had [illegible] that both were dead. Yes, even before the bodies were found, he

INTERVENTION IS UNWARRANTED BY FACTS SHOWN

Knights Still Seek Proof of Wrongs.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—After a conference with Secretary of State Kellogg at White Pine camp today President Coolidge, it was authoritatively learned tonight, has decided that no ground exists for intervention in Mexico or for any variation of his policy of dealing with the Calles government.

The embargo on the export of arms from the United States to Mexican civilians will not be lifted, despite the pressure brought to bear on the administration by American sympathizers of the Mexican clericals arrayed against the Calles government, nor will any other step be taken that might be interpreted as an unwarranted interference in the domestic concerns of another country.

Will Announce National Policy.

It is understood, furthermore, that there were developments of the utmost significance in the conference between the President and his secretary of state, lasting until a late hour tonight, as a result of which Mr. Coolidge is expected to take an early opportunity, possibly tomorrow, to state to the country the course he hopes to pursue in dealing with events growing out of the warfare between the church and state in Mexico.

One of the developments is said to have been a statement by Secretary Kellogg positively assuring the President that no Americans had suffered indignities or injuries in person or property as a result of the dispossession and expulsion decrees against the clergy in Mexico and other measures for the regulation of worship carried into effect by the Calles government.

Reports Prove Unfounded.

Complaints that Americans had been insulted and injured and deprived of church property in violation of treaty right had proved unfounded upon investigation, according to the secretary of state. In some cases the alleged victims were found not to have suffered injury in person or property, while in others the clergymen and teachers who had suffered indignities were found to be other than American citizens.

The effect of this report to the President by his secretary of state was to confirm the President in his decision that no variation of his Mexican policy is called for by existing circumstances and to join the issue between Mr. Kellogg on the one hand and the Knights of Columbus and the Roman Catholic hierachy in this country on the other.

Knights Held in Error.

The Knights of Columbus made formal demand on the administration to intervene in Mexico to put an end to the persecution of American citizens in the warfare between church and state, the appeal being based on allegations that Americans had suffered a variety of indignities, personal injuries and deprivation of property calling for stern action by the American government. Mr. Kellogg now informs the President in effect that the Knights of Columbus' appeal lacks the foundation claimed for it.

That the Knights of Columbus will act swiftly to demonstrate to the administration and to the country that its demand for intervention was well founded, is not doubted. It is understood that the great Roman Catholic organization took its formal action at the Philadelphia meeting in the light of a staggering indictment of the Calles government.

Flaherty to Keep Up Battle.

The indictment and schedule of injuries and indignities the Knights of Columbus are expected to make public in defense of their position.

It is also expected that James A. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Catholic order, will lose no time in coming here to appeal from Secretary Kellogg to the President. Mr. Flaherty originally asked for an appointment with the President here for the purpose of presenting formally the demand of the knights adopted at Philadelphia.

The President did not think well of that proposition. Perhaps he felt it would be unwise to give great prominence to a demand by American Catholics that the United States intervene in Mexico. The Protestants were already beginning to defend the Calles

Dr. Effie L. Lobdell, noted woman surgeon who has offices at 310 South Michigan avenue and who lives at the Congress hotel, was one of nineteen Chicago physicians whose licenses to dispense liquor were summarily revoked yesterday by Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley on advice of Elbert H. Lloyd, his official attorney. The revocations were for alleged violations of the regulations. There was no court hearing.

Dr. Lobdell has practiced medicine in Chicago since 1891. She has been the chief woman physician on the staff of the Illinois hospital for the insane and was obstetrician and pediatrician at the Cook county hospital from 1900 to 1904. She is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the American Medical association and of the Illinois and the Chicago Medical societies.

Blames Her Own Frankness.

"Yes," said Dr. Lobdell last night, "I know what they revoked my license for. They say it was for some little carelessness on my part. I issued several prescriptions for friends who were going traveling—friends who had been used to it, you know, and had to have it; or perhaps they were ill.

"Then I issued several for culinary purposes—for cooking or for making eggnogs. My mistake, it seems, was in being perfectly honest about it—writing on the prescription exactly what I issued it for. I thought it better to be honest about it.

"You know, we physicians have always resented the act of placing the prohibition problem on our shoulders: that the dispensing of liquor was taken from one class and given to us.

A Household Matter.

"You see, we never have recognized that liquor is more medicinal now than it was before. I think of liquor or brandy as a household thing, for use socially or in the kitchen, as one pleased. My parents were pioneers here, and they thought of it like that."

All the while Dr. Lobdell talked as in a vein of amusement. There was a humorous inflection in her voice.

"I really had no hearing at all," she continued. "I got a notice to appear, but I had no attorney. My attorney was busy in court on another matter and so I just let it go. And then I was late. When I got there, I saw only Mr. Lloyd, the attorney. He looked at my book, and we discussed my case.

"He said it wasn't near so bad as most of them, but I had been careless, I had violated the letter of the regulations and so the best he could do was to take my book for a year.

Ban Doesn't Bother Her.

"'O,' I said, 'that's perfectly all right. It won't discommode me at all. I can get all I want for my purposes from those who still have the privilege. O, no, it won't bother me.' I never got anything out of it, you know. I just gave most of these prescriptions away to my friends and where they were needed. And I never used a book up in the period allotted for a book.

"Why, I don't care. Only it seemed to me at my age——"

"By the way, doctor, how old are you?" she was asked. And she laughed.

"I've forgotten," she said.

IT'S PROFESSOR WHO WORRIES OVER EXAMS IF STUDENT IS PRINCE

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The prince of Wales never worried about "exams" when he attended Oxford university, R. B. Mowat, professor of history there, who is teaching this summer at the University of Washington, said in a published article today.

"You couldn't examine a man who will be your king, you know," he said. "Besides, some one might be found who was better than his highness, and that would be very embarrassing."

The prince, however, was a very good student and obeyed all the rules, said the professor.

Not hearing the roar of an approaching train, a woman drove a small coupé upon the crossing of the Grand Trunk railroad at Torrence avenue, Oak Glen, in the south end of the city, yesterday afternoon. She and two others with her were instantly killed when the train struck the car and hurled it seventy-five feet. The dead:

MRS. BETTY NORRIS, 30 years old, 433 Plummer street, Calumet City, the driver.

MRS. HERMAN WEINNING, 38 years old, his wife.

No Gates at Crossing.

The crossing at Torrence avenue is unprotected by gates or flagmen. Even after the car was crossing the tracks there was time for Mrs. Norris to have avoided the collision, it was said, but her automobile apparently stalled.

Two other deaths during the day raised the 1926 county motor death toll to 516.

Rose Greenberg, 6 years old, 2133 Potomac avenue, was fatally injured last night when she was struck near her home by an automobile driven by Nick Sawchuk, 1621 West Division street. Sawchuk took the child to the Norwegian Deaconess hospital, but she died on the way. He was held pending the inquest.

Steal Auto; Injure Boy.

Matthew Pticek, 46 years old, of Stickney died at the county hospital of injuries received Aug. 10 when he fell from a truck in front of 1110 West 18th street.

Two youths in a stolen automobile ran down a 9 year old boy, inflicting injuries which may prove fatal. Stephan Majcinik, 17 years old, 1628 Holt street, and Andrew Stehlo, 17 years old, 1628 Wright street, stole the automobile and were driving at a fast rate of speed when they knocked down Walter Lyzko, 9 years old, 1430 Noble street, in front of his home. They were arrested.

George Ade in Hospital Here Under Observation

George Ade, Hoosier humorist and author of "Fables in Slang" and other fiction, yesterday entered St. Luke's hospital for what he terms a looking over. Although not sick enough to be confined to his bed, he is receiving medical treatment for a minor trouble, and will remain at the hospital for two or three days, for observation.

Valentino Is Sinking; Has Peritonitis

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—At the Polyclinic hospital on West 50th street it was admitted tonight that Rudolph Valentino, motion picture sheik, may die, though in their bulletin they preserved an optimistic tone, and said the crisis would not be reached for a couple of days.

The first official bulletin was issued by the doctors shortly before 11 o'clock tonight. It follows:

"He is holding his own very well and the surgeons are well pleased with his condition at the present time. It will be forty-eight to seventy-two hours before a definite opinion as to the final outcome can be formed."

Temperature Is 103.

The patient's temperature was 103, pulse 100, and respiration 26 a minute.

The pain in the stomach which caused him to faint Saturday afternoon and caused Dr. Harold Meeker to send him to the Polyclinic hospital for immediate operation was found to have been due to advanced appendicitis, abetted by gastric ulcers which had burst. Infection already had set in when the operation was performed, the doctors said, and a condition of local peritonitis now exists.

If the peritonitis becomes generalized, Valentino's doctors said today, it will be fatal. And they admitted it usually becomes generalized. Valentino's only chance in their judgment, depends upon the resistance to infection which is made automatic by an excellent physical condition.

Actor Very Weak.

Valentino lay weakly in bed tonight, dozing fitfully and occasionally whispering a word or two to S. George Ullman, his personal representative.

The actor's life is insured for $1,000,000 to protect Joseph M. Schenck from loss of investment and good will.

More than a thousand telegrams were received today at the Hotel Ambassador, where the screen star was stricken suddenly yesterday and where Mr. Ullman is staying, as well as at the hospital. Many floral tributes were also received, and Mr. Valentino, through his manager, directed that the flowers be distributed in the other wards.

Ullman, who spent the greater part of the afternoon with the actor, said that Valentino did not realize his serious condition, believing that his operation had been a simple appendicitis case and not knowing that peritonitis had set in.

Thanks His Nurses.

During the afternoon Valentino was sufficiently recovered to thank the nurses for their care of him and even "to pat them on the cheeks," Dr. A. A. Jeller, superintendent of the hospital, said.

Valentino directed his manager to send several messages that he "was all right" to Miss Pola Negri in Los Angeles, also to his brother, Alberto Gugliemi, in Paris, and his sister, Maria Gugliemi, who is in Rome.

Pola Is Wan from Worry.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Pola Negri, film star, appeared "on the set" at the Famous Players-Lasky studio here today, careworn and wan after a night of worry over the condition of Rudolph Valentino, according to her own statement, her betrothed.

"It was almost impossible for me to go on with my work with Rudolph in such a critical condition thousands of miles away," Miss Negri said. "Every one knows my sincere regard for him and I want to be at his bedside to comfort him and help him back to health. The moment my present picture is finished I shall take the first train for New York."

Sped to reality by a gift of $3,000,000 from Julius Rosenwald, a new industrial museum, bringing under one roof realistic, moving miniatures of the great mechanical achievements of the ages, is to be situated, it was announced yesterday, in the reconstructed Fine Arts building in Jackson park.

It is the crystallization of the dream of the capitalist, Rosenwald, that came to him when he and his young son wandered in fascination through the world famous industrial museum in Munich, and saw tiny mines worked by pigmy dummies for coal and ore; turning wheels, minute in replica, of the great machinery of industry; in one chamber's loft the moving planets of the universe in astronomical position; models displaying advances in transportation, and many other marvels of mechanics and science reduced in size for easy comprehension.

Matter Brought to a Focus.

And in the effort to create an even greater museum for Chicago and America, events were brought to a focus at a luncheon given by Mr. Rosenwald to civic leaders at the Union League club yesterday, when——

Mr. Rosenwald made known his gift of $3,000,000 with which to equip the museum.

Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Park board, and John Bain and Michael Igoe, commissioners, indicated their acceptance of the plan to utilize for the purpose the Fine Arts building, for the rebuilding of which a bond issue of $5,000,000 is immediately available.

Industrial and financial leaders, grouped as a committee of the Commercial Club of Chicago, headed by Sewell L. Avery, placed enthusiastic approval of the plan, and gave it promise of their definite support.

Dr. Albert Koch, director of the renowned Deutsches museum in Munich, visited with Mr. Kelly, Mr. Rosenwald, Mr. Avery and others, the crumbling ruins of the Fine Arts building, still suggestive of its surpassing architectural beauty of World's Fair days, and pronounced it most admirably adapted to its proposed use.

Contract Ready for Discussion.

Tomorrow, Mr. Kelly said, the matter will be formally presented to the South Park board, and a contract now being written, stating the purposes already outlined, will be submitted for discussion. However, he and the commissioners are definitely in favor of the proposal, Mr. Kelly stated, adding that he saw no obstacle to immediate launching of the work, which is to begin with the razing of the present structure. Bids for the razing contract will be received at the meeting tomorrow.

A conference will be proposed by Mr. Kelly, he said, to be attended by the art and civic leaders who gave the support that caused the voters to approve the bond issue for raising in exact replica the Fine Arts building, and by those interested in the Industrial museum.

File Papers Shortly.

Within a few days, it was announced by Attorney Leo F. Wormser, who as personal counsel to Mr. Rosenwald is advising the Commercial club committee sponsoring the project, papers will be filed at Springfield seeking a charter for a corporation which will equip and maintain the museum without profit.

When Mr. Rosenwald's guests had assembled yesterday at the Union League club, there were present, beside those named above, Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works; W. Rufus Abbott, president of the Commercial club; Rufus C. Dawes, capitalist; Frank O. Wetmore, chairman of the First National bank; Charles Piez, president of the Link Belt company; George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South Park board; Alfred K. Stern of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and a few other representatives of leading industrial and manufacturing corporations.

For Young and Old.

Then telling of his absorbing experience in the museums of Munich and Vienna, and of how his boy would go to no other place when there, Mr. Rosenwald said it occurred to him that every Chicago boy—and not only the boys but the girls and the men and women as well—should be given the same opportunity of thus visualizing the works of the world.

"I saw a coal mine operating within the scope of my single glance," the millionaire philanthropist declared. "Not one, either, but several, for there was the miner of old with his pick and bucket; there were mule drawn cars, and there was the electrically operated modern mine of today. You could see the veins of coal as they lay in the earth, and scattered about, in orderly precision, were miniature copies of every conceivable mining device, lamps, safety and labor saving equipment, and all. How easily the visitor's fund of mining knowledge is enriched!"

Education In New Form.

Mr. Avery, who as chairman of the committee studying industrial museums went abroad to obtain knowledge of them, told of his passage through the Munich wonder world.

"It is education in a new form," said Mr. Avery, who is president of the United States Gypsum company. "And to know how it seizes the interest you must see it. Never a moment of boredom, nor a hint of the tedium that often comes with book learning does one experience.

"All our great industrial processes are hidden behind the walls of cavernous factories. Few men, fewer children, see these wonders of human ingenuity, and few that see them in their great bulk can understand when they see. Even the workers within those factories often see only one of many processes.

"And there in Munich it has been brought to the scope of every one, and every day thousands are reaping the benefits, gaining a liberal mechanical education."

Most Exhibits Donated.

Attorney Wormser, who accompanied Mr. Rosenthal to Europe and made an exhaustive study of the Munich and Vienna museums, described their equipment, and told of the coöperation given by German corporations, which it is expected will be reflected by American industry.

"Nearly all of the exhibits were donated by the industries whose works were reproduced," Mr. Wormser said. "At an early date the trustees of the new museum corporation will invite representatives of the leading industries in the United States to a conference. The scope and plan of the Rosenwald Industrial museum will be laid before them.

"Their coöperation will be enlisted, and they will be asked to install exhibits of their respective industries in the museum. The officers of the Commercial club and the South Park commissioners are confident of the response that American industry will make, and the Rosenwald Industrial museum ought to become the most complete and important one in the world.

Total of $20,000,000.

Then the lawyer brought up a vision of the proposed museum, which with all exhibits installed will represent an investment of more than $20,000,000, he said.

"A comprehensive history," Mr. Wormser continued, "of the beginnings, development and progress of each of the basic industries, such as mining, smelting, metal working, transportation, engineering, building, textile and agriculture, will be shown on the floor aera of 500,000 square feet.

"Take transportation as an example. There will be a pair of moccasins or shoes, then a drag, a wheelbarrow, wagons drawn by man, wagons drawn by animals, steam engines from the earliest 'Puffing Billy' designed in 1813 to the efficient locomotive of today, oil motors, gas motors, electric engines, and finally aircraft from the simple balloon down to the most recently perfected plane."

Rufus Dawes, who has visited the Munich museum, hailed the Chicago prototype as a most remarkable means of giving practical knowledge, and he predicted that the museum will be a tremendous aid to the city's educational systems. Mr. Dawes was appreciative of the public spiritedness of Mr. Rosenwald, saying:

Boon to Chicago.

Mr. Wetmore's interest in the discussion moved him to remark afterwards that he already had begun to plan a trip to the Munich museum. He, like Mr. Dawes, saw a great boon to Chicago's civic advancement in the industrial museum.

President Kelly also complimented Mr. Rosenwald for his generosity and suggested that the museum be named for the donor.

Plans for the reconstruction of the Fine Arts building, which now include the interior plans for the industrial museum, are being drawn by the firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, architects who built the Field museum and will build the Shedd aquarium. The building will also contain a large convention and assembly hall.

TRACE TOOLS IN DESPERATE PLOT TO BREAK JAIL

7 Prisoners in 'Solitary' to Force Confession.

Seven inmates of the county jail, all desperate characters, were in solitary confinement on a bread and water diet last night while a citizens' committee, recently organized to study jail conditions, were investigating the most daring attempt at jail delivery since the escape of Tommy O'Connor five years ago.

Circuit Judge John P. McGoorty and Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman held a lengthy conference with the committee, which is headed by Frank D. Loomis. Later the committee was taken to the jail and was shown the shattered cell bars, the eight hacksaws, and the improvised weapons used early yesterday by the seven in the plot.

Sheriff Renews Plea.

The committee would make no direct comment, but Mr. Loomis promised prompt action on the renewed plea of the sheriff for nineteen additional guards.

Applicants for the position of warden, to succeed Weideling, are so far conspicuous by their absence, it was indicated yesterday. It is expected, however, that a new warden will be appointed within the next two weeks.

Thirteen names were added to the jail committee. They are: George W. Dixon, William C. Graves, Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, Col. Noble B. Judah, D. F. Kelly, Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, Amos C. Miller, John J. Slaon, Col. Albert A. Sprague, Russell Whitman, Michael M. Zimmer, John Estranger, and Thomas J. Norton.

Sheriff to Force Confession.

The seven prisoners involved in the attempted break will "rot in solitary," in the words of the sheriff, unless they reveal their outside confederates.

"There are just four ways this stuff could get in here," declared Hoffman, indicating the eight hacksaws. "They were concealed in packages of food or clothing from the outside, they got in by way of the lawyers' cage, were passed in by a visitor, probably some girl, or else we have a dishonest guard."

Suspected leadership in the latest plot shifted yesterday from Henry (the Midget) Fernekes, under death sentence, who has already made four attempts at escape, to Thomas Ivers, alias Sullivan, held for murdering a guard while making his escape from Joliet.

Fernekes for some time has been isolated from his pal, Dan McGeohegan, also under death sentence, and among those in yesterday's break attempt, Warden Weideling said.

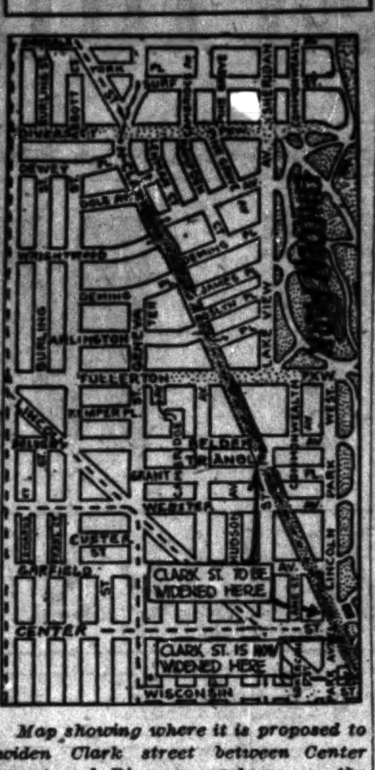
"Sullivan is back of all this," asserted Sheriff Hoffman. "In fact, if he were not such a stout man, and could have squeezed through the opening he made by sawing the bars of his cell, all seven of these men would have made good their escape after murdering several guards."

Others in the plot, according to the sheriff, were Raymond Burns, charged with robbery; William Livingston, held for murder and robbery; Angelo Caggiano, held for robbery and rape; and Gus Peterson and Matthew Siewart, both held for robbery.

Full credit for frustrating the attempted break was given to Harry Brown, a colored guard. Brown, pretending to be armed, rushed upon McGeohegan and the others and drove them back into their cells.

Warden Weideling heard the racket from his office and, calling several guards, hurried to the scent. The shrieks of the infuriated women penetrated to the street and a small crowd collected in Dearborn street.

AIDING TRAFFIC



Map showing where it is proposed to widen Clark street between Center street and Diversey parkway on the north side. Property owners are said to have dropped their objections to the improvement.

Rosenwald Honored for Aid to Russian Jews

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist, has been named godfather of an agricultural colony of transplanted Russian Jews in Crimea, according to a report received today by the United Jewish campaign from its representative in Russia. The honor was conferred on Mr. Rosenwald by the colonists in appreciation of his gift of $1,000,000 to the United Jewish campaign for relief and reconstruction work in eastern Europe.

PLAN TO WIDEN CLARK BETWEEN CENTER, DIVERSEY

City Ready to Break North Side Bottleneck.

Clark street, from Center street to Diversey parkway, one of the most congested traffic bottlenecks on the north side, may soon be straightened and transformed into a modern motor thoroughfare nearly twice its present width.

John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, announced yesterday that the board will recommend action on the project by the city council early this fall. The total cost is estimated at $1,500,000.

The plan for the improvement is not new, but a revival of a similar proposal made in August, 1925, which was blocked by a protest petition signed by a majority of the property owners. Such a petition is effective but one year and the city is now free to make the needed condemnations.

Property Owners in Line.

Although the property owners may still check the project through the courts, Mr. Sloan is convinced after an investigation that they will not take this resort. Many of them have told him recently, he said, that they are now anxious to withdraw their objections.

The street has already been widened to 100 feet from North avenue to Center street, a distance of a half mile. The traffic from this strip is augmented by that from Ogden avenue, which angles into it at the junction of Center street in front of the Lincoln park museum of natural history.

Now 60 Feet Wide.

At Diversey one-third of this heavy stream of vehicles is turned from Clark off into Broadway. But all of it is cramped into the mile link from Center to Diversey. It is this segment the board proposes to improve.

The thoroughfare between these points is now 60 feet wide. Mr. Sloan's plans will make it 100, cutting 34 feet from property on the east side. A short strip would also have to be taken from the west side near Diversey and possibly near Wrightwood in order to straighten out two kinks that now twist the street.

LAKE COUNTY JOINS IN FIGHT TO STOP HIGHWAY AUTO TRAPS

Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney for Lake county, fired the first gun in the anti-speed trap crusade outside of Cook county yesterday when he ordered the arrest of Paul Jenesen, police magistrate of Winthrop Harbor.

Jensen is charged with the operation of a trap in Sheridan road and with malfeasance and oppression in office. Jensen furnished bonds of $1,000 and will appear for trial Aug. 21.

In Chicago new charges of oppression and unjust vehicle law enforcement methods were lodged with Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Muelleer and the Chicago Motor club inquiry bureau against Mt. Greenwood.

The Winthrop Harbor action came after Allan J. Carter, Chicago attorney and son of Orrin J. Carter, former supreme court justice, and J. W. Hussey of Martinsville, Ind., charged Jensen with holding court in a small room in a barn near Sheridan road. Jensen denied he had been unfair.

DECISION TODAY IN FIGHT TO FREE FRANK M'ERLANE

Frank McErlane, gangster and beer runner arrested many times as a suspect in gang killings, but never convicted, will know today whether he is to be sent to Indiana to stand trial for the murder of Thaddeus Fancher, Crown Point attorney, who was killed over a year ago during the robbery of a roadhouse. Judge John P. McGoorty in the Criminal court, who has been hearing habeas corpus proceedings in McErlane's behalf, announced yesterday that he will give his decision this morning.

Assistant State's Attorney James McNeff of Lake county, Indiana, argued to Judge McGoorty yesterday that the gangster should be sent to his state for trial inasmuch as evidence shows McErlane was in Indiana at the time of the crime. He cited the evidence of John O'Reilly, who is serving a life sentence and who testified that McErlane participated in the murder.

Capt. John Stege of the detective bureau has perfected plans to prevent an attempted rescue of the gangster in the event that the judge orders him to Indiana.

CHICAGO-ST. PAUL AIR MAIL STOPS; PLAN NEW LINE

Contract Canceled; Want Passenger Route.

Word reaching St. Paul, Minn., yesterday that the air mail between that city and Chicago had been discontinued started the St. Paul business men on a campaign to inaugurate an airplane passenger service between the Twin cities and Chicago which also would carry mail.

The campaign is headed by Col. L. H. Brittin, chairman of the Greater St. Paul committee, who made the announcement when he was informed that Charles Dickinson had canceled his air mail contract between Chicago and the Twin cities.

Mr. Brittin said plans for the passenger service were well developed, making the prediction that Dickinson's action would speed them to a satisfactory conclusion.

Confer on Dickinson's Action.

As the result of the cancellation of the contract, both federal and local postal officials and air mail traffic executives were in communication yesterday over Dickinson's action. The contract awarded to him specifies that forty-five days' notice of cancellation must be given, and Dickinson informed Supt. A. L. Ruden of the air mail field that if immediate cancellation is refused he will operate forty-five days more in order to get a bond he posted when the contract was awarded in June.

Officials of the air mail service were hopeful that service will be resumed today, temporarily at least, and that the matter would be smoothed out so that service would continue without further interruption.

Death on First Trip.

Dickinson, a flyer himself and a pioneer aviator, is a wealthy man and is reputed to have spent large sums in aviation work in the last dozen years.

The Chicago-St. Paul contract was awarded to Dickinson on a low bid, much below those of competitors. The initial mail transmission was marked by an accident on the northern end of the route, in which Elmer Partridge, well known Chicago flyer, was killed.

CHARGE MURDER ON SUSPECT IN MELLETT CASE

Underworld Character in Jail on Warrant.

Canton, Ohio, Aug. 16.—[Special]—Solution of the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, appeared near tonight when a warrant charging Louis Mazer, bootleg king, with murder was issued by Justice of the Peace A. B. Correll.

The warrant was filed by Michael J. Glenn, Indianapolis detective, working with Attorney Joseph R. Roach of Chicago, who was brought here to investigate the murder of Mellett the morning of July 16.

Held in Cleveland.

Mazer is in custody in Cleveland, having been detained there today after he had been questioned by United States District Attorney A. E. Bernsteen. He will be brought to Canton to face the charge. It was believed here tonight that his case will be brought before the Stark county grand jury, which went into special session today.

Mazer formally was accused of complicity in the Mellett murder on evidence gathered by Detective Ora Slater. Slater's evidence has been corroborated by testimony gathered by Roach and Bernsteen in their own probes of the slaying and the conspiracy surrounding it.

This evidence, in the hands of investigators, is said to conclusively link Mazer with Pat McDermott, for whom a nation-wide search has been conducted. McDermott is said to be one of the three "trigger men" who killed Mellett.

Gunman Brought to Canton.

Investigators have evidence, they declare, proving that Mazar brought McDermott and Steve Koscholk, an informer, to Canton from Massillon, near here, and showed them the Mellett home and gave them the "lay of the land." This was a week before the murder. The gunmen were told then, according to Kascholk's story, that they were to "beat up an editor." Later, Kascholk said, he found the plot was to kill Mellett and he backed out. He has been secreted in the county jail here for his protection.

It is asserted also that the evidence will show Mazer was in the vicinity of the Mellett home a few minutes before the murder.

Carl Studer, another bootlegger and associate of Mazer, was being held tonight in Cleveland on default of $15,000 bond on a charge of violating the federal prohibition laws.

The arrest of Mazer and Studer is said by investigators to be only the beginning of a wide and searching revelation of a ring of vice which has gripped Canton for several years. Before the probe is ended city officials and prominent citizens, as well as underworld denizens, will have been drawn into the federal net, Roach promised.

TRACTION CHIEFS AND ALDERMEN TO MEET TODAY

After months of fruitless long-distance sparring, heads of Chicago's transit lines and the council committee on local transportation will sit at the same table today and exchange views on proposed solutions of the city's traction problem.

Arrangements for the meeting were finally brought about two weeks ago through a personal appeal by Mayor Dever, who, it was reported, flatly demanded a showdown. The traction officials then agreed, after conferring among themselves, to attend today's meeting.

Those expected to attend are Samuel Insull, chairman of the board of the Elevated lines; Britton I. Budd, president of the Elevated lines; Leonard A. Busby, president of the Chicago Railway company; and Frank O. Wetmore, Melvin A. Traylor, A. W. Harris and John J. Mitchell, bankers, representing the lines' security holders. Henry A. Blair, president of the surface lines, it was said, is to be out of the city, but will send a representative.

The city will be represented by Mayor Dever, Corporation Counsel Busch, and members of the local transportation committee. Ald. Joseph B. McDonough [13th], chairman of the committee, will preside. The meeting is set for 11 a. m. at the city hall.

Glencove, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A water spout, sweeping in from Long Island sound, tonight caused extensive property damage for a distance of about half a mile along the Ox Creek road. Two men were killed, another was said to be missing, and two men were injured.

OFFICIALS UNITE TO CATCH, PUNISH GIRL ATTACKERS

CRIMINAL COURT.
Oscar McKenney, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Marcus Kavanagh.

Swift and certain punishment, to put an end to Chicago's sudden wave of outrages against its woman and young girls, will be sought by State's Attorney Crowe, Anton Cermak, president of the county board, Sheriff Hoffman and Chief of Police Morgan Collins and all their forces.

The state's attorney and the chief of police conferred for an hour yesterday and decided that special treatment is imperative. Special steps were taken.

Special Force to Prosecute.

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Nicolai was appointed special prosecutor of all moron cases, and a special corps of other assistant state's attorneys was placed under his command. They will be sent into the Municipal courts to prosecute all rape and other sex crime cases.

"Under no circumstances let their cases be settled in the lower court," Mr. Crowe instructed Mr. Nicolai. "Hold them to the grand jury and we'll settle with them in the Criminal court. Attacks on our women and girls must be stopped. Severe, swift action will do it."

At the same time all county highway police, special officers in the forest preserves, and other outlying sections were told to be on the sharp outlook.

Will Isolate Morons.

President Cermak of the county board announced that he is today starting at Oak Forest infirmary an experimental moron colony, so long advocated by Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court, and others.

Mr. Cermak said he had agreed to start the colony at Oak Forest simply as an experiment, following reports on juvenile delinquents particularly by Judges Victor P. Arnold and Mary Bartelme of the juvenile court.

"I believe that many of the attacks on young women and girls are made by those of known low mentality," Mr. Cermak said. "But I do not see how the state can care for them at this time.

"Judges Arnold and Bartelme have called attention to the fact that there are approximately 24,000 complaints of borderline children, 5,000 of whom came in contact with the juvenile court. I, therefore, agreed to this experiment.

Calls It State's Job.

"It is not the province of the county to handle this matter—it is the duty of the state. But I felt we could experiment with it and by the time the legislature meets we will have sufficient data to present a concrete case for legislation, through which the state can take it over."

While he has begun a colony for morons, particularly feeble minded children—potential morons—with the view of reclaiming them if possible, the president of the county board has not neglected to make provision for a careful patroling of the forest preserves.

Squads of special policemen have been sent into the preserves. These will watch all the roads and penetrate the woods many times each night.

Find Reason for Caution.

The care, however, with which the officials must proceed it was pointed out, was illustrated in the experience of the New City police with Catherine Morgan, 17 years old, who said she lived at 2103 West Fiftieth place.

The girl walked into the station at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. She told a story of having been attacked by three men.

She said they took her to ride in an automobile, drove out to a forest preserve, and then back to a private garage. There, she said they attacked her.

On the girl's vivid story Stanley Wolski, 18, 4859 South Winchester avenue; Flory G. Adrich, 21, 4845 South Winchester avenue, and Charles Stewart, 20, 625 West 54th place, were arrested.

The three admitted all of her story except the attack. They said they had met her walking along the street and had driven with her to the West 50th place address, and then learned that she didn't live there.

"She walked up to the door and the woman there wouldn't let her in," they each told the police. "She came back to the automobile and said she had no home and asked us whether she could sleep in the garage. We took here there and admit we made advances to her—she seemed to court them. But when she repulsed us we let her go and she ran out of the garage."

BERLINS WILL RACE STORK TO AMERICA; START HOME AUG. 25

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Al Jolson returned on the Leviathan today denying reports from Paris that he has been divorced from his wife and conveying to ship news reporters the interesting information that Irving Berlin and his society bride, Ellin Mackay, are returning to the United States on the Homeric, sailing on Aug. 25, because of an expected visit from the stork.

"They want the baby to be born in America," Jolson said, "and they recently changed their plans so as to arrive home in time for the event to take place here."

The comedian said he found Berlin and his bride very happy and that both were looking forward to their homecoming and the arrival of their first born. He said he had been in their company considerably during his stay in Paris.

Prices realized on Swift & Company's sales of carcass beef in Chicago, for week ending Saturday, Aug. 14, on shipments sold out, were as follows: Cows, common to good, 9.00 cents to 13.00 cents; steers, common to medium, 12.50 cents to 15.50 cents; steers, good to choice, 16.00 cents to 18.00 cents; total sales averaged 13.92 cents per pound.—Adv.

Two Homes in Evanston Are Ransacked by Burglars

Burglars entered two Evanston homes in the absence of the families last night and carried out rugs, pictures and other property valued at several hundred dollars. The residence of Frank Spencer, president of the Spencer Petroleum company, 2215 Payne street, was ransacked. Thieves entered the home of Morgan W. Price, 912 Michigan avenue, by smashing a rear door.

ARRESTED FOR BAD CHECK.

Ralph G. Ralston, 1405 Highland avenue, was arrested by detectives yesterday on several charges of passing worthless checks. Formerly a real estate salesman, Ralston recently was engaged in the conduct of a small mail order house and is wanted by the government for using the mails to defraud.

DENEEN LEADER GIVES $4,000 TO B. G. A. PROJECTS

Brennan and McKinley Are Other Donors.

Roy O. West, secretary of the Republican National committee, a leader of the Deneen Republican faction in Chicago, yesterday admitted that he gave the Better Government association $4,000 since the first of January, this year.

This was the third donation revealed as having been the B. G. A. by political leaders.

The first of those disclosed was that of $23,000 or $27,000—there is still some question which—paid over by George E. Brennan, Democratic nominee for U. S. senator. Brennan said he gave it to defray campaign expenses for Hope Thompson in the last campaign for state's attorney.

McKinley's Gift the Second.

Second there was the $2,500 of Senator William B. McKinley, donated just prior to the recent primary fight.

Mr. West, while admitting he paid the Better Government association $4,000 during this year, says he did not give it for any political purpose, but gave it because he thought the association was doing good work; that it was doing in the county what the Legislative Voters' league was doing in the state and the Municipal Voters' league in the city.

"It is written," Mr. West said, "that 'charity vaunteth not itself,' and I would have preferred not to advertise my benefactions. However, since it was developed by Senator Reed's senate committee that I gave $5,000 to St. Luke's hospital at Samuel Insull's request, I feel that it is only fair to state why I gave this money to the Better Government association."

He's in Habit of Giving.

"You believe the Better Government association is a good organization?" he was asked.

"I certainly thought it was when I gave the money," he replied, continuing: "For a number of years I have donated cash to build and to maintain churches. I have given to the support of colleges and special schools, to fraternities and my daughter's sorority; to the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

"I have contributed to hospitals, social settlements, improvement associations, bar associations for war relief, for music, for the education of young men, and to various civic associations. It has been my purpose to help causes that might help social conditions.

"My former pastor, Dr. W. R. Wedderspoon, of whose church I was and am a trustee, was an active director of the Better Government association. I think he still is a director. And so I contributed also for its support.

"I would have preferred not to have anything published about all this, but since I am interrogated I will say that I am informed by the Better Government association that its books show that my contributions to it aggregate $4,000."

BEACH IN TEST TOUR FLIES FROM K. C. TO MOLINE IN 1 HR. 56 MIN.

Moline, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Ten thousand residents of this city turned out today to welcome twenty commercial reliability flyers led by Walter Beach of Wichita, Kas., in a Travel airplane. Beach made the flight from Kansas City to Moline in 1 hour and 56 minutes, an average of 135 miles per hour.

Beach, who appears an almost certain winner of the $7,000 cash prize, took off at Kansas City with his flying mates during a thunderstorm. He arrived in Moline at 1:21 o'clock and by 2:30 o'clock all the planes in the group had landed with the exception of one. The plane piloted by J. W. Livingston was forced down at Baymer, Mo., but is expected to join the tour in time for tomorrow's flight to Indianapolis.

The pilots were guests at a banquet sponsored by the Boline chamber of commerce tonight, speeches by the aviators being the main feature of the evening's program.

TRAIN DASH TO SAVE WAUKEGAN MAN UNAVAILING

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The body of Franklin R. Muller, 49 years old, wealthy business man of Waukegan, Ill., and well known in Chicago business circles, who died here Sunday night from injuries received in an automobile accident, was on its way tonight to Lake Bluff, Ill., his home, for burial.

FRANKLYN R. MULLER.

Mr. Muller died from a fractured skull six hours after a special train carrying his private physician, Dr. Theodor S. Proxmire, Lake Forest, Ill., arrived in Duluth, coming here in record breaking time. The run was made in nine hours and twenty minutes, a distance of 476 miles.

The accident occurred when Mr. Muller made a sharp turn to avoid hitting an approaching car, overturning his own machine. Mrs. William R. Smyth of Waukegan, wife of F. R. Smyth, general manager of the F. R. Smyth company, sustained four fractured ribs, while other occupants of the car escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

CALLES' POLICY AIMS AT MEXICO FOR THE MEXICAN

Influx of Foreign Money to Be Stopped.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

Staff Correspondent of the Tribune, who has returned after a month's investigation in Mexico.

The policy of the Mexican government today is frankly anti-foreign. President Calles, in his enthusiastic policy of Mexico for the Mexican, is doing his best to wipe out the influence of foreign interests, no matter what the cost to the country.

The president may have considered what foreigners, and particularly Americans, have done for his nation, but he professes to believe that the same things can be accomplished by Mexican capital.

History does not support him in his stand. The most widespread, the richest and most beneficial influence in Mexico has been American. In the 300 years or more which preceeded the influx of American money and brains into this land of unlimited opportunities, civilization was practically at a standstill. In the forty years that American money has been invested in large sums, it has brought vastly improved conditions wherever it has penetrated.

Progress on Border Remarkable.

Along the border, where the influence of American money, methods and customs, has been more pronounced, the progress has been remarkable. Leaving aside the border honky-tonks established to cater to the parched throats of thirsty Americans from across the line, forgetting the gambling hells which dot the frontier, one finds in the larger border towns a much higher standard of life and civilization than in most parts of the interior.

The same is true in the mining camps of the interior, where American dollars have found their way, and in the oil districts. Industrial cities in which the predominating influences are American are far and away ahead of other cities and towns of Mexico.

The colonization plans of the Colorado River Land company are among the large development schemes across the frontier. One million acres will be brought under cultivation. Already 200,000 acres are planted. The result? A flourishing city on the frontier, where wages are better and the standards of life are higher than in any other Mexican town of similar size. The frontier city of Mexicali is a modern town, with good streets, clean homes and prosperity. Shoes measure the advance of civilization in Mexico, and in this district I saw more shoes on the feet of peons than in any other part of the country.

Good Schools in Mexicali.

There are not many churches in Mexicali, but there are schools, operated according to American standards. The reason? An investment of about $20,000,000 to develop the land, and an annual crop worth $10,000,000 from the leased lands, the bulk of which goes to merchants and business men and Mexicali. That and the untiring efforts of Gen. Rodrigues, appointed governor of the territory of Lower California, a man educated in American schools, courageous and free from political interests or considerations.

Fourteen thousand persons make their homes in Mexicali and find their livings. Pancakes and ham and eggs for breakfast; good, wholesome food and decent homes instead of hovels. Contrast this town with any of similar size in the interior where the income is produced by agriculture. Shoeless peons, clad in rags, living on tortillas and beans, children uneducated, no atempt at community development, a sordid, miserable existence little removed from savagery. This is especially true since the agrarian act brought the seizure of the best lands of the richest haciendas.

The Mexican peon is a good workman for wages, but when put on the land on his own, as he has been under the agrarian act, he is shiftless and lazy. He plants just enough to half-starve his family and he makes no attempt to market his crops.

Or consider the condition of the Mexican miners employed by the big American firms with those in camps which are operated by Mexicans. The Americans pay better wages, provide proper medical supervision, make possible homes which, while far from ideal, are far in advance of the average grass hut in which peons of a strictly Mexican district live.

Education and higher wages, better housing conditions and better food, go hand in hand with American capital wherever it enters Mexico. The American investor reaped handsome dividends in cash from his money, and the Mexican nation reaped still more important dividends in improvement of the standard of life, in increased revenues and in education.

The Colorado river delta, the valleys of the west coast, the cotton fields of Coahuila, the oil fields of Tampico, were brought to their present development through the participation of foreign capital, most of it American.

But President Calles believes the time has come now for Mexico to handle her own development. The methods he has employed to bring about such a condition have gone so far as to make the operation of foreign money difficult.

The state department does not question the right of the Mexican government to discourage new foreign investments, but it does demand the protection of existing investments, and to date such protection has not been forthcoming.

ASK DISMISSAL OF FALL AND SINCLAIR INDICTMENT APPEAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16—(AP)—Special government counsel today asked the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to dismiss the appeals of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, oil men, from the decision of the District Supreme court, holding valid indictments charging them with a conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills naval oil leases.

The motion was filed under an act passed at the last session of congress prohibiting an appeal to the District Court of Appeals from any interlocutory order in a criminal action.

Government counsel contended that this law strips the appeals court of jurisdiction and asked that the cases be remanded to the District Supreme court for trial on their merits.

One Victim Killed by Heat; Cooler Today Is Forecast

One death in Chicago yesterday was attributed to heat prostration as the mercury climbed to 86 degrees at 3 p. m. Edward White, 65 years old, 430 South California avenue, died at the county hospital. He collapsed Sunday at Flournoy street and Kedzie avenue. The prediction for today is partly cloudy and cooler with possible showers.

government and take issue with the Catholics in the warrant for American intervention.

Possibly the President did not like the prospect of a possibility of getting into a jam betwen Catholics and Protestants on the Mexican question. At any rate, he caused Mr. Flaherty to be shooed away. Mr. Flaherty was informed that his proper course would be to present the resolutions of the knights to Secretary Kellogg and discuss the situation with him. Then, if Mr. Flaherty were not entirely satisfied with his conference with Mr. Kellogg, he was informed, he could come here and the President would be glad to receive him.

It is not doubted hat Mr. Flaherty will now avail himself of this privilege in order to demonstrate to the President that the intervention demand of the knights was warranted by the facts.

Not for Church, but for Citizenship.

Mr. Coolidge takes the position that this government cannot properly interfere in the church and state imbroglio in Mexico, because that is a domestic concern of another country. He will act, however, he assures the country, to exact full protection of American citizens from injury or deprivation of property in contravention of treaty rights. If the Knights of Columbus can present evidence of such injuries the President will take appropriate action, according to the present definition of the Coolidge Mexican policy.

The Mexican situation was only one of a number of foreign policy matters discussed by Mr. Coolidge and the secretary of state. Mr. Kellogg reported that Uruguay had notified Washington it will accept the senate reservations to adherence by the United States to the world court protocol. This makes four nations that have agreed to accept our entrance to the court on our terms.

Fight Geneva Reservations.

The other nations will not answer till after their conference next month at Geneva on the matter. There is much opposition to reservation No. 5, under which the league of nations court would be barred from asking the court for an advisory opinion involving the United States without the consent of this country.

An appointment has been made for Julius Rosenwald to see President Coolidge on Wednesday. He is coming at the invitation of the President to inform the executive on business conditions from the viewpoint of a mail order merchant and to give his views on the solution of the agricultural problem.

CATHOLICS MAKE NEW EFFORT FOR MEXICAN PEACE

Bishops Offer Calles Compromise Plan.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mexico City, Aug. 16.—The Catholic episcopate will present the findings of its meetings of the bishops, which began yesterday at the episcopal palace here, to the government in an attempt to find a peaceful way out of the present deadlock.

"We do not want to be accused of neglecting any or all peaceful means of effecting an agreement," said a Catholic leader today. "And consequently we are making one more effort to reach an agreement with the government by legal means. If trouble comes it will not be through us, and we want to keep our skirts clear."

Every phase of the government-church struggle was considered by the bishops and archbishops and a definite plan of action was outlined and accepted. What this plan will be probably will be announced tomorrow following presentation of the proposition to the government.

Mexican Press Assails Sheffield.

Interest in the return of Ambassador James R. Sheffield to the United States apparently is increasing instead of decreasing. Two morning dailies carry more or less bitter attacks on him.

El Excelsior, the most prominent Mexican daily newspaper, in an evidently inspired editorial says that although numerous American newspapers attacked President Calles' policy toward the Catholic church, President Coolidge declared a policy of hands off. However, the editorial says, Ambassador Sheffield has gone home with the deliberate intention of changing the attitude of the chief executive of the United States.

"Mr. Coolidge has declared emphatically that the religious question is purely local and concerns only Mexico and consequently he will not interfere," the editorial continues. "He maintains this attitude firmly in spite of the opposition papers and Catholic press and organizations. Mr. Coolidge is sure that not even the Mexican Catholics would welcome nor accept the help of the United States if it meant interference with the internal government of the nation. Here we are all of one mind, whether Catholic or government, on the question of outside interference with our internal troubles. We will look after our own house.

Sees Veiled Threat by Envoy.

"Mr. Sheffield, before leaving Mexico, launched a veiled threat that he would continue to place diplomatic difficulties in our path. This we will not and cannot stand for. When Mexico was involved in a national conflict, with passions running high, when a tempest was sweeping the United States against the Calles régime and the American press was unusually bitter against us, Mr. Sheffield seized the moment to state unreservedly that he was returning home to advocate reconsideration of the fundamental laws of our constitution relative to petroleum and land.

"Why should Ambassador Sheffield throw new wood on the fire? And this is what he is doing. Interference of the American government in the religious conflict only would make the solution, now difficult, indefinitely more difficult."

Women Stone Calles' Supporters.

Mexico City, Aug. 16.—Telegrams from Saltillo, the capital of the state of Coahuila, say that a group of women in front of the cathedral there threw stones at a parade of supporters of the Calles religious policy. Grave disorders resulted and thirty women were arrested.

The arrest in Mexico City of alleged plotters involved in a supposed movement against the Calles regime, discovered Saturday night, continues. More than fifty are now in jail. The secretary of the Catholic Women's Defense league was arrested today. The Mexico City offices of the league were searched by police and all documents taken away for inspection.

Plot Aimed at Lower California.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Gen. Enrique Estrada, former secretary of war for Mexico, was named today as the engineer of the latest plot to overthrow the lower California government, foiled near here last night with the arrest of 174 men and seizure of a large amount of ammunition and equipment.

A. A. Hopkins, department of justice agent, said he did not think the Mexican religious troubles had anything to do with the plot.

FOOLED ENGLAND AND THEY WANT TO ARREST HIM

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Kitchener legend remained as much of a mystery as ever today. Nothing was found in the coffin brought from the Norway coast by Frank Power, London journalist, when it was opened this morning by the coroner in the presence of home office and Scotland Yard officials.

The government almost is convinced that it all is a hoax, unexampled since Capt. Kopenick called out the kaiser's guard at Potsdam twenty years ago.

Mr. Power tonight said:

"Really, this is a surprise. You say there was no body in the coffin. F'even sakes. Yes, Scotland Yard authorities were around to see me, but they said nothing to interfere with my movements. I tried to into the Lambeth mortuary, you know, but the bally guards would not let me in."

The packing case supposed to contain the body of Lord Kitchener, who met his death when the cruiser Hampshire, on which he was en route to Russia, struck a floating mine on June 5, 1916, was removed by the police from the morgue where Mr. Power placed it and was taken to another morgue. There it was opened by the coroner. Later the home office issued a statement, saying, "The packing case alleged to contain the coffin and human remains was opened in the presence of officials this morning. The packing case was found to contain an empty coffin which is apparently new and obviously never had contained human remains."

It is learned tonight that Mr. Power's real name is Arthur Freeman. He began his career by studying law, later being interested in criminology, making a study of big crime cases of recent years. His part in the Kitchener investigation is believed to have been undertaken at first in good faith and later through Power's desire to capitalize on his investigations from movie rights, leading him to permit camera men to film his activities in Norway, where he said he had found Lord Kitchener's body.

STATE BACKS UP WOMAN'S STORY OF HALL MURDER

said, but he had not thought about it seriously himself.

Neither Mills nor his daughter, who was present as a reporter, gave much attention to the reading of Mrs. Hall's statement. In it the widow told how Dr. Hall had left his home, presumably to attend to a bill owed by Mrs. Mills, and how he had failed to return. She related how she had gone out at 2 a. m., an hour which Phillips contradicts, with her eccentric brother, Willie Stevens, to search for the rector in the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist.

Defended Husband's Memory.

Mrs. Hall denied that she had ever had knowledge of an intrigue between her husband and Mrs. Mills. She defended him warmly, saying that "His love was the most beautiful thing that ever existed."

After the hearing was adjourned late today until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, Senator Simpson, Chief Patrick Hayes, and Inspector John Underwood went into conference in Simpson's office in Jersey City to discuss the results of the day's proceedings. They said that leads uncovered during the examination of witnesses would be followed tomorrow.

Ehrling was questioned by Senator Simpson on direct examination as follows:

Q.—Did you see Mrs. Gibson in De Russey's lane on a mule? A.—Yes, I saw Mrs. Gibson riding on a mule.

Q.—What time was it? A.—Between 9 and 10 o'clock.

This was all of the direct examination and Attorney Pfeiffer then cross-examined the witness.

Never Disclosed Story.

"When did you first tell this story?" asked Pfeiffer. "Never until just now," was the answer.

Ehrling replied in the negative when asked whether he had told the state police the name of the girl with him near the murder scene that night and the cross examining went on.

Q.—What were you doing in the car? A.—Resting.

Q.—How long did you stay in De Russey's lane? A.—About two or three hours.

Q.—How were you able to tell it was Mrs. Gibson? A.—Because I know Mrs. Gibson.

Q.—How long did you stay at that spot after you saw Mrs. Gibson? A.—About an hour.

Q.—Did you remain in the same place? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you notice that anything took place while you were there? A.—Yes. There were two cars parked on the left hand side of Easton avenue. At first I didn't know they were there, but finally one put on its lights and came in and then backed out.

Heard No Shots Fired.

Q.—You heard no shots? A.—I heard no shots.

Q.—How close were you to the crab-apple tree? A.—About 2,000 feet.

Q.—Did you see any figures moving about there? A.—I saw a lantern moving.

Mills testified that his wife left home about 7:30 o'clock on the night of the murder. Senator Simpson conducted the direct examination.

"Did she tell you where she was going?" asked Simpson.

"She said, 'Follow me and find out,' when I asked her where she was going," Mills answered.

Q.—Did you say anything to her then? A.—No, I just passed it off.

Q.—Did you know of the existence of any letters between your wife and Dr. Hall before that time? A.—No. I saw some letters in a coat pocket in the house about two days before. I saw one of them said something about 'honey,' but I didn't read the letters.

Q.—Didn't you notice the letters were in a man's handwriting? A.—No, they were not in a man's handwriting. They were in my wife's handwriting.

Q.—Did you know of this affair between your wife and Dr. Hall. A.—No.

Mills said that he saw Mrs. Hall at the church Friday morning, shortly after 8 a. m. "She asked me: 'Is there any sickness at your house?' and I said 'no,'" he testified. "She said: 'Mr. Hall has been away all night,' and I told her my wife had been away all night, too. She said: 'Maybe they are dead.'"

Mills said that later that morning Mrs. Hall came to his home and asked him if he had "heard anything." Again at 5 p. m. that day she called on him to ask if he had heard anything, he said. They discussed whether to notify the police and Mrs. Hall told him that she had telephoned the police that morning and asked if there were any casualties, but that she had not given the police her name, he continued.

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH

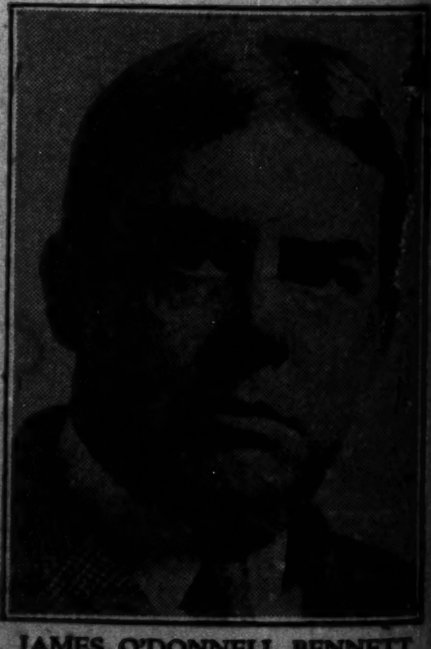
SENATOR WM. E. BORAH, reading The Chicago Tribune, was so enthusiastic about the exquisite story of Abraham Lincoln's life and early love in Old Salem that he wrote a letter to James O'Donnell Bennett. Senator Borah urged Mr. Bennett to write a book about Lincoln for young people. His letter follows:

Dear Mr. Bennett:

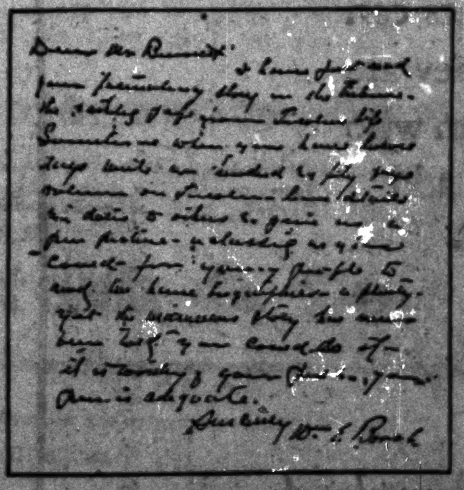
I have just read your fascinating story in The Tribune—the pathetic page from Lincoln's life. Some time when you have leisure days write a hundred and fifty page volume on Lincoln—leave details and dates to others and give us a pen picture—a classic as you could, for young people to read. We have biographies a plenty, yet the marvelous story has never been told. You could do it. It is worthy of your pen and your pen is adequate.

Sincerely,

Wm. E. Borah



JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT



Many inspiring stories already have appeared in the series. If "Made in America" means more to you than a label on your box of safety matches; if you've ever felt a queer tremor run up and down your spine when the band played "Home, Sweet Home" or "The Star Spangled Banner"; if you ever want a destination more satisfactory than a roadhouse when you go touring, don't miss the articles by James O'Donnell Bennett, appearing daily in The Tribune. You will want to save them for reference in planning motor trips and to help you to a better appreciation of our own historical heritage.

Mr. Bennett's series on the historic places of the Chicago Territory will continue all summer . . . . .

Strickland again showed his mettle in the cowboy's bronc riding contest with Denver doing his best to unseat the veteran, who was determined not to dismount until he chose. Strickland has a good chance of carrying off the honors for this event and garnered further laurels by winning the wild horse race, one of the most thrilling features of the rodeo, at the performance last night.

Competition and excitement were keen in the cowgirls' relay races, wherein Mabel Strickland kept the family name on the winning list, nosing out Tad Lucas of Douglas, Wyo., her rival for championship honors, for first place, with Donna Cowan third and Josephine Sherry fourth.

SPAIN SEIZES COIN OF GENERAL WEYLER AND OTHER PLOTTERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 16.—Acting under orders of the government, the Bank of Spain has deducted 500,000 pesetas ($76,350) from the account of Count Romanones, forwarding the sum to a charity commission appointed to administer the funds collected from alleged conspirators against the government.

Count Romanones has, up until now, refused to pay the fine levied by the government following the collapse of the June military conspiracy. Gen. Weyler and Aguilera, who received the next heaviest fines, also have held out against the government orders.

Unwilling to wait until the men made up their minds to come across, the government has gone over their heads, ordering their bankers and administrators to hand over the money or goods of equivalent value. Although this action is extra legal and without precedent, the government has been successful in its collections.

GIRL CRUSHED TO DEATH BY FLAT ELEVATOR

Annette Presance, 11 years old, was crushed to death in the Country Club apartment hotel, 6930 South Shore drive, yesterday afternoon when a panic stricken 14 year old operator failed to close the door of the elevator quickly enough as she ran toward it.

The youthful employé, Robert Young, told the police that the car was standing at the first floor when a ring came from one of the upper floors. He started to ascend, at the same time pulling at the door. The little girl, who had been playing in the lobby, ran in as the elevator went up. She was caught between the car and the shaft.

Annette and her mother, Mrs. Harry Presance of Albany, Ga., had been living at the hotel for two months.

THE PRESIDENT'S FARM PROGRAM.

The President is using his good offices in the formation of a $100,000,000 fund to which conservative banks, insurance companies and mortgage houses will be asked to subscribe. The money will be loaned to farmers' coöperative societies at a moderate rate of interest to enable them to sell the farmers' crops as advantageously as possible.

The President favored the establishment of such a fund by appropriation from the treasury, but his proposal was defeated in congress. The western members who had favored the McNary-Haugen bill insisted on their bill or nothing and they got nothing. Mr. Coolidge is unwilling to let the matter rest there; he is satisfied that financing the coöperatives will go farther toward solving the farmers' problems than any other plan yet brought forward, and if congress will not provide public money for the purpose then he hopes to induce private capital to take over the task.

Demagogues will warn the farmers against the plan. We do not believe the farmers will allow themselves to be hoodwinked by that kind of talk. If their own associations, officered by their own men, can borrow money cheaply when they most need it, we believe the farmers will be only too glad to avail themselves of the opportunity. At least a half of the wheat crop in the United States is thrown on the market in three months. The price of wheat always drops sharply during those months. The President is convinced that an orderly marketing of crops will add greatly to the farmers' incomes and he holds that the coöperatives which have been created for the purpose of orderly marketing are limited in their usefulness by lack of credits.

The farmers have nothing to lose and perhaps much to gain if the plan goes through. As individuals they need not join the coöperatives, though they will probably see it is to their advantage to do so. If they join they will share with other farmers in forming the policy of their associations. They need not borrow from the revolving fund unless they wish to, and if they do borrow the rate of interest will be moderate. The associations will borrow at lower rates than any farmer now pays his own banker.

Some of the farm leaders have indicated that any proposal which comes from the administration at this time need not be seriously considered because it is purely political in origin. The President, it is assumed, is worried over defections in the west, particularly in the corn belt, and is leaving no stone unturned in his desire to placate western opinion. We do not doubt that the President is anxious about the west, but we cannot jump from that fact to the conclusion that the administration's plan is the merest makeshift. If it is, then the President has proposed the first $100,000,000 makeshift that has come to our attention in a long time. It is worth noting that unless the fund is made available the proposal has no vote-catching value whatever.

The President's plan does not go so far in the direction of price fixing as some of the western politicians would like. Nevertheless, the west, and particularly the corn belt which has suffered most severely from farm depression in recent years, will welcome the President's proposal. It will not make all farmers rich, but it will probably go a long way toward increasing the incomes of most farmers.

DENATURING SCOFFLAWS.

The head of prohibition enforcement, to say nothing of the head of the government, is due to a rebuke from Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Haynes and all true blue prohibitionists. Gen. Andrews denies that his experts are trying to find new and better methods of denaturing scofflaws while denaturing alcohol. This must seem a deplorable weakening in zeal and devotion to the great reform. It is obvious that if a scofflaw drinks illicit beverages he has no standing for protest if he finds wood alcohol or T. N. T. is not good for the inner man. Wine was ever a mocker and strong drink was raging even before it contained high explosives, so the scofflaw has had ample warning.

We know that there is objection to the poisoning of alcohol by the government on the argument that if a breach of the Volstead act is punishable by death or blinding, a provision to that effect should be added to the law. There is nothing in this contention. It is notorious that where the death penalty is prescribed for other felonies juries hesitate and fail to apply it, and heinous as a breach of the greatest of the amendments may be, it is to be feared that juries might hesitate to enforce the full and wholesome rigor of the law. It is clearly much more effective to deal with the offender directly by making it certain that every scofflaw shall be certain to fix his own punishment.

We deprecate the injustice done the prohibition enforcement division. We accept without reservation Gen. Andrews' assurance that no novel denaturants are being sought. This may indicate lack of zeal, but we think wood alcohol, T. N. T. and even gasoline or other less urgent denaturants should be given a trial before prussic acid is adopted. Encouraging results are being attained by the mild measures now in use. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company reports that deaths from alcoholism among its policy holders have been steadily increasing since 1917 and the increase of the first six months of this year as compared with the corresponding months of last year is 20 per cent.

We understand how the problem of preventing the unlawful diversion of industrial alcohol stands athwart the path to prohibition. There are some 12 to 15 million gallons diverted annually, according to Gen. Andrews. It is of course impossible for the government agents, though they were increased beyond the fairest dreams of the Anti-Saloon league, to follow all the gallons of industrial alcohol through the various channels of its use, lawful or illicit, from producer to consumer. Therefore what more practical than to poison this vast stream at its source? This will dispose of tens of thousands of the unregenerate, not all by instant death, but in most cases by a gradual process of bodily deterioration which will have the advantage of permitting the sinner time to repent short of the extreme penalty and of presenting to the young a protracted and most edifying illustration of the fate of the unrighteous.

THE WAY TO END SPEED TRAPS.

The vigorous campaign of State's Attorney Crowe against speed traps in the suburbs is producing results. The voting of indictments against a number of constables and justices has been followed by a meeting of the Association of Magistrates and Constables, at which a uniform code of procedure against violators of traffic laws has been agreed upon.

The action of the association is commendable, but it should not divert the state's attorney from his announced purpose of punishing offending justices and policemen. Speed traps have been profitable to some rural officials. They did not hesitate to violate the law of Illinois in order to fleece unoffending motorists and they will not hesitate to violate the code of procedure devised by their association if they think they can get away with it.

The way to stop the abuse is to punish a few of the offenders as severely as the law will allow.

THE TRIAL JUDGE.

In Prof. Sunderland's illuminating analysis of British trial procedure, the expert points out that since the public or state has an interest and responsibility in the administration of justice, it follows that the judge, the public's agent, should have supervision and direction of the trial. Accepting this logic, the British system provides that the judge shall comment on evidence, shall summarize it, and give his own instructions to the jury. He takes an active part in the course of the trial on the sensible theory that the state is interested in the establishment of justice and in the competent application of its laws.

Our trial theory has been described as that of the duel. The parties represented by expert duelists enter the legal arena and engage in a combat of wits over which the judge sits as a referee. He is hardly more concerned with the result than a referee at a prize fight. By letting both sides fight it out under the rules, we have thought justice is most likely to be done.

The American system has its rise in the distrust of government. In the colonies the judges were named in theory by the king and in fact generally by the governor, and the colonials had some memorable battles for their rights in which they did not find the judges their friends, as for example in the fight for the freedom of the press. Even in our time there is distrust of the courts, and both radicals and conservatives in politics would find reasons against endowing our trial judges with the duties and powers of the English judge. The fact that most of our trial judiciary is elective ought to dispose of any fear of overt oppression by government. But it does not dispose of the fear that it may be too much affected by violent gusts of opinion or by less conspicuous pressures or considerations of political self-interest.

As a matter of fact, elective judges are disinclined to assume responsibility and have not used fully the powers they possess to direct the trial or assist the jury to weigh evidence and arrive at just conclusions. A tendency of reviewing courts to ignore substantial justice and exaggerate the importance of technicalities has helped to discourage initiative in trial judges.

We think a long step would be taken toward efficiency and justice in the administration of the law by either appointing or electing judges to serve during good behavior. Security of tenure, which is the rule in our federal courts, would make for independence and efficiency. It would attract a better grade of material, on the whole, and it would justify giving the judge the powers and responsibilities which make him the useful factor he is in the admirable English system.

Editorial of the Day

[The Milwaukee Journal.]

Many critics have recently taken advantage of the Pennsylvania and Illinois slush fund revelations to point to the evils of the direct primary. Some of them have painted pictures of the good old convention days as a sort of golden age, of course leaving the Lorimer scandal and other old scandals out of the picture. What they don't say is how we came to have direct primaries. But the Iowa Republican convention, meeting to name a candidate for the unexpired term of Senator Cummins, reminds us.

Iowa Republicans had just nominated Mr. Brookhart for the full term. The Republican convention following the primary made a great ado about harmony and indorsed both Mr. Brookhart and Mr. Coolidge. But the convention, meeting again, nominated David W. Stewart for the short term. And THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, congratulating the Iowa Republicans on Mr. Stewart's nomination, says: "There is no reason why a Republican convention should nominate Mr. Brookhart."

So the choice of Iowa Republicans voting in a primary is not the choice of the Iowa Republicans assembled in a party convention. That is explanation enough of how we came to have primaries. You tell a man that the freeman's vote rules the country; presently he demands that the fact match the theory.

That the primary has brought new evils is true; that the primary gives too much opportunity for minority nominations and for defeating the very purpose it was designed to serve is true. But it is not likely that the primary will be surrendered on the demand of men who say frankly that a Republican convention need not choose the same person the Republican voters would choose.

ADVERTISING AND HAIR.

THE old time advertisement of hair tonics consisted of a bunch of ladies, some of whom were bald and others who displayed hair from four to six feet long. That style of advertising lost its selling power when people got wise to the fact that it was fiction. One shortcoming of fiction is that it must stick moderately close to probabilities, whereas fact is free to go the limit in the field of improbability.

I am convinced of the possibilities in the line of growing hair. Observations of the hair of Negroes, under treatment for the removal of kinks, has convinced me. I don't think I ever knew of a Negro woman failing to take the kink out of her hair if she went at the job seriously and persisted. Some of them use one patent kink remover. Some another. Results are equally good, whichever one they use. I have seen colored girls get on the job soon after the noon meal service was over and stay at it until time for the duties of the late afternoon to begin. Some washing, but mostly brushing, combing and greasing. Hours of persistent scalp and hair hygiene carried out every day, rain or shine, in season and out. Success meant higher wages, better jobs, new fields of employment and better social standing. That was the goal. Such a goal is enough to change the outlook on life of most any determined person.

There they sat by the hour—combing, brushing and greasing. Which remedy was used was merely an inconsequential detail. What counted was the daily prolonged, combing, brushing and greasing. The result, in every case that I know of, is the conversion of short, flat hairs into shiny, wavy, abundant hair several inches to several feet in length.

Whether or not the flattened hair shaft has been made round I have never seen demonstrated under the microscope, but I do know that the hair can be combed straight, that it remains straight and that in luster and apparent thickness and vigor it is a better article than that of the white.

These observations make me believe in the possibilities of scalp treatment. If the Negroes have done what it is plain they have, then other people can improve the hair crop. Now, then, it is not a question of which remedy they use. It is the minutes or hours spent every day in externally brushing, combing and greasing.

Will they do it? Probably not. Too much trouble. The bald-headed whites lack the urge of increased wages, better jobs, new fields of employment and better social standing.

ADVISES AGAINST TRIP.

M. G. writes:

1. Please let me know if it would injure the health of a baby, now 9 months old, if we would drive in our car to northern Michigan?

2. Why is she subject to night sweats?

REPLY.

1. The best place for a baby is home. If you take the baby on a long automobile trip, give her no raw milk and protect her against flies.

2. Both scurvy and rickets cause a baby to sweat when asleep. Hot weather has the same effect.

CHILD HAS INFECTION.

Mrs. T. S. writes: My boy, who is just 16 months old, starts to get hot every afternoon. He does not seem to want any food except his milk. He stays very hot all night, but toward morning he gets all right again. In the morning I give him orange juice, and he drinks it very greedily. He is cutting his stomach teeth. Do you think that is the cause?

REPLY.

Teething is not the cause of your baby's trouble, although I have no way of knowing what is.

He has some kind of an infection. Since you do not mention diarrhoea nor cough, I assume the infection is not in his lungs or in his digestive apparatus. Malaria, typhoid fever, colon infection of the kidney, infection of the ear are possibilities.

You should have him examined without delay.

USE A CLOTH BINDER.

V. M. writes: My little girl is 18 months old, and her navel extends out quite some. I was told by the doctor to place a weight on it and hold it on with adhesive tape. I do this, but the adhesive makes her very sore. I would like to know if anything else could be done and if in time it will go back in place, as it is so since she was two months old.

REPLY.

Ordinary cloth binder will hold down the projecting navel. In many cases wearing such a binder will cure the trouble.

CLEANING FOR HAZEL AVENUE.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to know why Hazel avenue between Montrose and Galt avenue is not cleaned by the city regularly like any other street in that neighborhood. Also the alley running east and west in the same block has not been swept or cleaned for months. There is a grocery and meat market here and they only have collections of refuse once a month. I have called the health department and referred this matter to the alderman out here, but nothing is done.
TAXPAYER.

I quote report of the superintendent of the 48th ward in reply:

"Hazel avenue is an old macadam street which is cleaned twice a month. Grocer and market have private service on refuse removal tri-weekly. Complainant has just purchased this property and has 'phoned ward office in most unreasonable and insulting manner.' Impossible to satisfy him."
THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

FLUSHING SERVICE IS RESUMED.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—At the beginning of the warm season our block on Western avenue which lies between Diversey and the river was flushed every night. For the last two weeks the flusher goes as far as Diversey and then turns and goes back. I think the men on the flusher are just stalling.
A. C. C.

Western avenue between Diversey avenue and the river is on our schedule to be flushed nightly. Schedule could not be carried out for several nights because of a break down. Service has been resumed.

TENANT'S RIGHTS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—We have a lease on a flat which will expire Sept. 30, 1926, and we are moving before Sept. 1. If some one rents this flat and pays September rent it is all right with us, but if it isn't rented and they make us pay all the rent for September can we prevent the landlord from entering the flat until our lease expires?
H. A. C.

He has no right to enter without your consent until the expiration of the term for which you have paid.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 17, 1861.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. McCall presides at the general court martial trying the leaders of the mutineers of the 79th New York regiment, who objected to being placed in Gen. Dan Sickles' brigade. It is probable that ten will be shot or sent to Tortugas. One of the highest officers of the regiment may have charges preferred against him of feeding the mutiny by making unauthorized promises in the name of Secretary of War Cameron.

WASHINGTON. — Kentucky and Tennessee are constituted the department of the Cumberland, with Gen. Robert Anderson in command.

SPRINGFIELD.—Gov. Yates issued a proclamation to the people of Illinois, calling to arms all companies that will report themselves at Camp Butler within twenty days. He had been appealing to the national administration for many weeks to permit the organization of an army in Illinois sufficient to meet any force which might menace the southern border of the state, and to prepare for offensive operations in the Mississippi valley. His appeals, however, were without avail until after the fall of Gen. Lyon at Springfield, Mo. Immediately after that the governor renewed his importunities, with the result that Secretary of War Cameron sent him this message: "You are authorized to accept all companies of troops willing to enter the service." Gov. Yates at once issued his proclamation.

CHICAGO.—The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, so long dormant, has again started with new life, and affords a prospect of immediate service. It has negotiated its bonds with C. R. Garrison, Esq., of New York City, whose enterprising spirit has been infused into the company which is pushing the work rapidly to completion. The new plant is at the corner of Rucker and South streets, in Green's South Branch addition. A tank or gas holder, 80 feet in diameter, constructed on what is called the telescopic pattern, has a capacity of 200,000 feet.

AUGUST 17, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Developments in the detective bureau scandal which followed the unearthing of a fake expense account filed by Detective John J. Tracey came fast yesterday. Records of the secretary of state's office show that one-fifth of the requisitions sought by the detective bureau during the last two years were not registered in State's Attorney Deneen's office, as required by law. There were 94 entries credited at Springfield to Chief of Detectives Luke P. Colleran and but 76 on Deneen's records. In some of the unregistered cases the prisoners who were brought back suffered little or no prosecution. There is mystery as to how Mr. Deneen's name got on some of the applications for requisitions at Springfield. The state pays the expenses of requisition in offenses above the grade of misdemeanors.

SIASCONSET, Nantucket, Mass.—Wireless messages passed between the incoming steamship Lucania, 287 miles at sea, and the station here for two and a half hours this evening. The Lucania will not arrive in New York for twelve hours, and yet every one on board knows what has happened in the United States since the big liner left the Irish coast a week ago. The system worked perfectly and there seems to be no reason for supposing that wireless telegraphy as applied here is not a success.

CHICAGO.—Application was made to the building department for a permit to construct a $1,000,000 residential hotel on Capt. Streeter's lake front claim. Eastern capital is said to be backing the project.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 17, 1916.

WASHINGTON.—There will be a showdown tomorrow on President Wilson's plan to avert a general railroad strike. For the big conference in the morning 640 district officials of the four great brotherhoods of railway employés arrived here tonight. The President is expected to propose that they be granted an 8 hour day and that they leave the question of overtime pay and other matters to further discussion—perhaps to a federal commission. The railroad managers, unless they change front, will tell the President they cannot accept such a proposition.

PARIS.—The largest single day's gain since the opening of the giant allied offensive along the Somme front was accomplished in today's fighting, according to the French official statement. Systems of German trenches along three sectors, aggregating 4,700 meters, a total of almost three miles, fell before the terrific drives of British and French troops. The Paris account of the fighting indicates the part taken by the French troops is greatly increasing in prominence, although credit is given Gen. Haig's men for assistance in the operations.

CHICAGO.—H. H. Honoré, known as Chicago's grand old man, died in the presence of his three sons and two daughters at the age of 93 from a heart attack he suffered last week. Up to that time he had been as vigorous as a man of 50 and daily walked from his home, 341 Lincoln parkway, to his office in the Peoples Gas building.

On the way the injured one partially regained consciousness, opened his eyes, gazed at the blue sky above, saw about a bushel of shooting stars and a couple of rainbows. He felt the swinging, swaying motion as he was being carried along and cautiously hung his arms over the sides of the stretcher, feebly feeling around with his shaky hands only to find space, nothing but space, then in tones of amazement and utter despair he groaned, "My God! and I ain't come down yet." GERMANIC INFLUENCES ON CHICAGO SPEECH.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—The inquiry of Puzzled Easterner in today's Voice of the People opens up an interesting field of research which, as a philology fan, I have been sedulously cultivating for the last twenty-five years.

The influence of foreign tongues upon the American language is rapidly disintegrating standard English, and in the sentences cited by Puzzled Easterner this influence is Germanic.

The pronoun "me" in the phrase "I got me a hat" is rather a reflexive use than the indirect object and its occurrence in colloquialisms may be traced to the influence of Die schoenste Lengevitch, e. g., "Ich muss down town gehen and kaufen mir a pair of pants."

The Teutonic idiom has made a deep impression on Chicago vernacular, particularly throughout the near north side. For example, renting signs favor "sleeping room," where "bedroom" is the idiomatic equivalent of "Schlafzimmer." The delicatessen storekeeper, sold out on Saturday night, will reply, "The bread is all," because the conversational idiom, "Das brod ist alle," does not call for "gekauft," whereas the English idiom requires "sold" to complete the sentence.

It is, however, among children that the Teutonic influence, both grammatically and syntactically, may be most profitably studied. They will say "Borrow me your pencil" because "borrow" and "lend" are the same word in German. Again they say "I won him" for "I beat him" on account of "Ich habe gewonnen." "Bring," "fetch," and "carry" are quite undifferentiated in a child's mind on account of "bringen." "Learn" and "teach" are misused by them because of the German "lehren."

The syntactical influence of Germanic construction furnishes many interesting examples. I will instance only the use of the preposition.

(a) "Are you coming with?" "Kommen sie mit (uns)?"

(b) "Stop by tonight." "Halten sie bei."

(c) "I want off at Goethe street."

(d) "Baby want up?"

(e) "Get the kids by the door out."

(f) "Make the door to." "Mach die thure zu."

English being an agglutinative language, has a far larger vocabulary than German, and is therefore capable of much greater delicacy of nuance. We have frequently two and sometimes more

DAVENPORT, IA., A GO-GETTER IN FIELD OF TRADE

Wins East to the Idea of Branch Plants.

In story 22 of The Tribune's Chicagoland jaunt we see how Davenport, Ia., adroitly and lavishly makes known to the nation its material advantages, and how it blindly fails to exploit its artistic treasures.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

"Came from the West to get one of our factories, eh! Well the next train for the West leaves here in 20 minutes, and you've got just time to catch it. We'll telephone for your berth."

That is the way Lowell and Lawrence in Massachusetts, and Portland in Maine, and numerous other eastern industrial hives feel—and speak—when the old fashioned type of Midwest go-getter invades their area.

So Davenport, gateway out of Chicagoland to the far West, thought up and is handsomely paying for—$75,000 spread over three years—a different kind of go-getting.

The Davenport Formula.

This is the new Davenport formula now being imparted to Eastern manufacturers by means of personal call and copious "literature":

"You older business men of the East are trying to hold the younger generation at home. Do it by making opportunities for the young men, and make the opportunities by enlarging business. Do that by establishing a branch of your business in the great agricultural area, to link up with the farmers. Come with a branch to Davenport and balance up the food we have out there with more payrolls. We don't want to steal a plant from Lowell. We want Lowell to let us be its western branch. By the way, we need an electrical supply factory in Davenport. Our survey shows it. We know the number of orders that would come into Davenport from our back country."

Wide Trading Radius.

Then the Davenport go-getters, salaried chief of whom is Robert J. Eustace, with the pompous title of "Industrial Commissioner," softly impart the fact that Davenport, with a population of nearly 70,000, has a trading area running 45 miles north, 50 east, 30 south, 70 southwest, and 45 west; that the cost of living in Davenport is 11.47 per cent less than the average of fifty-one large cities computed by the government bureau of labor; that 72 per cent of the workmen in Davenport own their homes, and that the relations between employers and employed are exceptionally good.

With that line of facts Davenport has made men like the Ford people, and the Firestones, and the Edisons listen to its "commissioners" instead of saying "Shoo!"

Mr. Eustace said to me: "Davenport is not chasing after the moon but after specific industries. In picking a city we do it on the basis that it has a business of which we need a branch in Davenport. We don't want to get a plant to move here bodily. We know of 25 factories that moved bodily last year—uprooted themselves. Well, 18 of them are in financial straits. Davenport has no wish to become an industrial graveyard."

Let Them Laugh.

Davenport's industrial missionaries have their troubles. They get facetiously introduced, for example, at conferences in the east as "our friends from Brookhart's state."

"Well," said Eustace, rather ruefully, "all we can do is to let them laugh that off."

When Davenport first started to proselytize in the east it was not understood and it was snubbed. In Portland, Me., forty old members of the Rotary club resigned when they learned that Davenport had been invited to do a little industrial go-getting at one of its luncheons, but one of the young members said "That's what's the matter with New England—sticking its head in the sand and thinking it can build an industrial wall around itself."

That keen old Connecticut Yankee, Meigs Whaples—wonderful name!—aged 84 now and still head of the Hartford Trust company, knew better too, and, apropos of a similar snub, he said:

Gaining in Favor.

But "the Davenport formula" is steadily gaining a welcome in the East. Davenport today is making detailed "surveys" for 36 Eastern manufacturers who are looking with favoring eyes toward this western key city of Chicagoland. In the last three months 116 requests from New England chambers of commerce and manufacturers to "come down and talk it over" have reached Davenport.

Of course all this is pie for Chicago, because what it comes to is that one of the key cities of Chicagoland, in working for Chicagoland, is working also for the capital city of Chicagoland.

Davenport statisticians told me by the way, that their figures show that business in what they call "the Chicago district," meaning the Mississippi Valley area of Chicagoland, is 13 1-10 per cent better today than it was a year ago.

An Editor's View.

Editor Adler—E. P. Adler of the Davenport Times, who maintains in his beautifully clean newspaper plant a free rest room and auditorium that is available to travelers and to conferences and conventions day or night—was speaking of "the Davenport formula," and he said:

"We are getting good results out of it from the east, and I think the reason is that we put it on a systematic, three-year basis. You can't persuade a man to expand and change his business on the first trip—not a New Englander. Besides, we are not trying so much to make a big city as a distinctive and self-providing city. We don't want to do on merely a bigger scale what somebody else is doing."

The "formula" is working. Kellogg, the breakfast food man, says he is more and more going to manufacture where his grain is actually raised. He bought the old Davenport Purity Oats plant when it blew up, and he says he may ultimately have a bigger plant in Davenport than in Battle Creek.

A Symphony Orchestra.

Now all that is fine, and I am not so completely a commercial dumbbell as not to understand that it is bread and butter and more wages to all of us in Chicagoland.

But do you know what Davenport has that it does not exploit, nor send missionaries out to tell the world about?

Do you know that it has cultural treasures that sooner or later would lure to the town every autoist in Chicagoland who has a thought above reaching the roadhouse and the chicken dinner and the bootleg liquor?

Well, you wouldn't learn that from the bales of booster "literature" that I sorted out in my room at the sumptuous Black Hawk hotel, one of the best in this country, before I left Davenport.

The town has sent out 31,000 pieces of booster, boaster mail in the last six months, some of it "specific surveys" as long as 30 pages each!

But no "specific survey," no detailed bragging on the Davenport symphony orchestra of 50 musicians, which Ludwig Becker of the Chicago Symphony orchestra conducts, citizens handsomely meeting the inevitable financial deficit.

Academy of Science.

No alluring free pamphlet printed on costly paper at the expense of the chamber of commerce, with its budget of $55,000 a year, to tell about the Academy of Sciences that has been functioning for 60 years and that, by the provisions of the curious will of a far-sighted benefactor, will one day be one of the richest treasure houses of its kind on this continent.

No loud blowing, so far as I could hear, about the municipal art gallery of more than 300 works by old and modern masters, and pupils of old masters, which C. A. Ficke gave Davenport and which our Robert Harshe of the Art institute values at half a million.

No lure literature for popular distribution about the great Friendly House, social assuager and ameliorator and character builder, which the Frenches of Davenport (Octave Thanet's family) gave their town as a memorial to good Nathaniel French and which is considered a model by social settlement workers all over this land.

Wake up, Davenport, as well as go-get.

What said Sebastian in "Twelfth Night" to Captain Antonio when they landed in Illyria?

"I am not weary, and 'tis long to night:
I pray you, let us satisfy our eyes
With the memorials and the things of fame

EDDY TALK IN RUSSIA CAUSES CHICAGO PROTEST

"Y" Leaders Aroused by "Capitalistic" Charge.

When Sherwood Eddy, a member of an international committee of the Y. M. C. A., informed soviet leaders in Moscow that he was delighted to visit a country that stood as a challenge to "nations ruled by swollen, selfish capitalism," he may have pleased the Russians, but he aroused the ire of local officials of his own organization.

William Francis, president of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., yesterday sent a protest against Eddy's statement to Adrian Lyon, chairman of the association's general board, and to Fred W. Ramsey of Cleveland, president of the national council.

Francis demanded that these officers specifically repudiate Eddy's utterances, adding that the Chicago branch disclaimed any connection with them.

Official Do Not Approve.

In his official bulletin, to be issued next week, President Francis will state:

"For many years Mr. Eddy has been an unsalaried volunteer worker connected with the national council of the Y. M. C. A., as a missionary and later as a traveling evangelist. His views as reported in press dispatches from Moscow, expressing sympathy with the soviet government and reflecting on other nations as ruled by swollen, selfish capitalism are not approved by the officers and directors of the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago, which emphatically disclaims all sympathy with the sentiments attributed to him.

Eddy Is Called Wealthy.

"Mr. Eddy, a Yale graduate, is wealthy. In his individual capacity he is conducting a group of tourists through Europe to study local conditions. He has the temperament and attitude of an evangelist whose views are dictated by his sympathies and emotions, rather than by good judgment."

Mr. Francis asserts that the Y. M. C. A. has no interest in the promotion of either Socialist or anti-socialist doctrines and suggests that Eddy should resign from the councils of the association if he wishes, as an individual to spread propaganda.

More controversy in the ranks of the association may develop over statements that may be made tonight at the Hyde Park department by Dr. E. Ernest Johnson, secretary of the commission on education and research. Recently he published findings of his commission on prohibition, which caused a great deal of opposition among the ultra drys. His subject is to be "Can Prohibition Be Enforced?" and it is reported that he will give even more advanced views.

DETECTIVE SQUADS SHIFTED IN POLICE BATTLE ON CRIME

A general shifting of motorized detective bureau squads, with a concentration of twice the usual number of men in districts where most of the alcohol war murders have occurred, was announced yesterday after a conference between Acting Chief of Police Matthew Zimmer, Chief of Detectives William Shoemaker and Deputy Detective Chief John Stege.

Lieut. Otto Erlanson, Sergts. Al Booth and John Tracy, with their squads, have been transferred to the Grand Crossing district. Their task will be to patrol the south side and to keep the McErlane-Saltis and rival beer gangs in hand. Squads under Lieut. Maurice Byrne and Sergts. John McCarthy, Richard Barry, and William O'Neil will go to the Maxwell street district.

Commands of Lieut. John L. Sullivan, Lieut. Joseph McGuire, and Lieut. Thomas Alcock were brought in from outlying districts to the loop. Lieut. Al Hoffman, Lieut. James OBrien, and Sergt. John Russell, with their men, will take the districts left by Sullivan McGuire, and Alcock.

SOVIET REVISES MOSCOW REGIME; MAY OPEN RUSSIA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 16.—The appointment of Commissar Mikojan of Georgian nationality, head of the interior trade monopoly, was confirmed today by the Moscow Isvestia. The position formerly was held by M. Kamenev, who joined the ranks of the opposition.

Important changes in the foreign policy of the soviet government are expected before Oct. 1 by high officials of the local soviet trade delegation, who believe the foreign trade monopoly will be modified and the restrictions surrounding travelers in Russia will be removed. Until now, all visitors in Russia have been carefully selected by the commissariat of foreign affairs. Few persons have been granted permits to remain in the country.

Moscow still is overcrowded, and the housing shortage continues, these officials say. They point out that the latest census reveals that Moscow contains 4,700 in the soviet bureau, with a total of 220,000 employés. Since March, when the late Commissar Djerjinski inaugurated his campaign for economy, more than 60,000 employés were discharged and many bureaus were removed to Leningrad without improving the housing crisis.

Local soviet officials report that the chief reason why Moscow permits so few visitors is the lack of hotel accommodations and other living quarters, since the arrival of even a few hundred guests would seriously encumber the city's housing commission.

DERHAM'S FATHER BLOCKS CORONER; INQUEST DELAYED

WHITSTABLE, England, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The coroner's inquest into the killing Friday night of John Adams Derham, with which Alphonse Francis Austin Smith is charged, has been adjourned until Aug. 30, brief testimony having been taken today. The public's appetite for hearing the sensational stories of the case, which has to do with notable families, brought crowds to the little parish hall for the inquest proceedings. Mr. Derham's aged father brought an end to the hearing by declining to divulge his son's alleged death statement.

WANTED

Men With Practical Brains

(This is NOT an advertisement of a memory course. It is NOT a cash-your-spare-time advertisement. It is a bona fide statement of a bona fide manufacturing concern's needs.)

Our business has had a sound and steady growth for more than 25 years. Healthy expansion has been due in large measure to the fact that we have been able to discover or develop men with the brains, the push, the knowledge and the background to work and think and guide and direct.

We are one of the largest manufacturing companies in Ohio and one of the largest in the country in our line of business. Our product is distributed around the world and sells for $2,000 and over. We are still growing. Expansion plans now being worked out will soon call for a few big men.

The men we want have sales instinct, brains and training. They are earning yearly where they are from $15,000 to $25,000. They are probably a few years over 30, but we have no hard-and-fast, preconceived formula as to age. They will come into our organization quietly and go about intelligently absorbing the fundamentals and the quirks of our business without asking to have "vice president" lettered on their door for a few months. The key positions they are to fill will be ready by the time they are ready to take them.

In putting out a general call such as this, we will hear from the usual run of "air merchants," floaters and fanatics. But the men we want will write us the kind of a letter that will get them an interview. You know the sort of a letter you would want to get if you were seeking the men—it would be honest and complete.

All correspondence will be confidential, of course.

SAVAGE GAINS FURTHER VOTES AGAINST TRUDE

Day's Count Adds 219 for Crowe's Man.

The gain of 219 votes for Joseph P. Savage, Crowe-Barrett Republican nominee for county judge, and another setback for Municipal Judge William L. Morgan, who ran on the Deneen ticket for renomination and lost, were outstanding results of yesterday's recount of primary ballots.

Recount of 105 precincts in Wards 9, 10, 11 and 13 disclosed a total of 219 votes wrongly credited to Savage's opponent, Municipal Judge Daniel P. Trude, the Deneen candidate. In the same 105 precincts the recount of Savage's vote varried only six votes from the original returns.

Klein Gets McMillan Place.

Leo Klein, Crowe-Barrett candidate for Municipal judge, and Samuel Heller, Deneen candidate, were the only Municipal court aspirants who gained yesterday. Klein, who was defeated in the face of returns, bettered his grip on a nomination by gaining 267 votes while Heller gained 250.

Judge Morgan, who instituted the recount, slipped back another 530 votes yesterday and is 2,667 behind Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. McMillan, whom Klein passed for twelfth and last place of those nominated for the Municipal court.

All of the Republican Municipal court candidates, however, have suffered losses in the recount ranging from 1,166 for Judge Samuel H. Trude to 11,596 for Judge John A. Bugee. Discrepancies in the Municipal court vote exceed by far any involving county offices.

Indictments Voted, Report.

From twelve to twenty indictments naming precinct judges, clerks, and watchers in the 42d ward, including gold coast precincts, were reported to have been voted by the McDonald special grand jury yesterday. James Martin, deputy bailiff of the Muncipal court, was a central figure in that inquiry.

County Judge Jarecki is said to have urged that election judges and clerks be drawn from the territory adjacent to but not from their home precincts, and that ballot counts be made at a central counting station.

The judge also was said to favor registration of voters at a central office, reduction of the number of election days, but longer ballots, and to urge that a general election be declared a holiday.

U. S. COURT ENJOINS OPERATION OF STATE FRANCHISE TAX LAW

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Federal Judge George M. Page issued temporary restraining orders today in three tax cases filed by Chicago corporations questioning the constitutionality of the franchise tax law. The orders directed Secretary of State Emmerson to restrain from turning over to the state treasurer about $18,000 in franchase taxes paid in by the corporations under protest, for the first half of 1926.

The suits were filed by the S. S. Kresge company, protesting $9,197 in franchise tax and additional initial fees; the Wolff Manufacturing company, protesting $6,966 in franchise tax, and the Victor Chemical company protesting $3,390.

The companies allege the requirement by the general corporation act that the initial fee be based upon authorized instead of paid in capital stock is unconstitutional and discriminatory.

CRIMINAL COURT JUDGES IN YEAR SENTENCE 1,760

The judges of the Criminal court from Sept. 15, 1925 to Aug. 14, 1926, sentenced a total of 1,760 law violators, according to a table completed yesterday by Judge William H. Gemmill, one of the seven judges who sat regularly in the criminal branch.

Six of the seven judges disposed of 104 murder cases, and 63 convictions were obtained. Eight murderers were sentenced to death, 17 sent to the penitentiary for life, and 38 others for terms ranging from fourteen years up.

The judges disposed of a total of 3,134 indictments, Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch topping the list with 819. Judge Gemmill was second with 567 indictments disposed of and Judge McGoorty, third, with 501.

CARDINAL PAVES WAY TO SETTLE ROMAN QUESTION

Ceretti Delivers Important Speech.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 16.—A significant discourse which is regarded as paving the way toward the settling of the Roman question and once more uniting the church and state was given by the recently elevated Cardinal Ceretti at Ovietto today, following demonstrations at which civil, military and religious authorities participated.

At the finish of the ceremony the cardinal broke tradition by announcing he was "praying to God to bestow upon all civil and religious authorities present his most select benediction."

"If I am not mistaken, this is the first in recent times that religious and civil authorities, representing every phase of social life, were represented at a ceremony of this kind," the cardinal said. "This is a new fact which is surpassing in importance, more than if this manifestation were merely for me. It is a consequence of the new spirit animating Italy as a whole. I greet it with joy, for it is only with the fusion of all my subjects, with all classes coöperating without condition, with civil and religious authorities with which we can prove our destiny—that place in the world which divine providence has designed for Italy."

Added importance will be given the speech, which the Fascist press interpret and indorse, due to the fact that Cardinal Ceretti, who formerly was auditor of the apostolic delegation at Washington, is one of the leading diplomats at the Vatican.

CATCH TRUANT ELEPHANT; TWO STILL MISSING

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Weak and dazed from her long struggle against 40 men on the other end of a rope, Tillie, one of the trio of escaped elephants belonging to the Sells-Floto circus, was brought into Cranbrook today.

She had been captured by a band of Indians, and examination by experienced animal observers led to the opinion that she had been drugged, stirring her native spirit into revolt, the break for liberty following.

Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance, famous Indian newspaper man and magazine writer, is on the scene and says that the trumpetings heard from Gold Creek indicate that the other two elephants, Charlie Ed and Myrtle, have started a jungle romance, which will occupy at least nine days. This is given as the chief reason for these two elephants being so much harder to locate than Tillie. Charlie Ed and Myrtle drove away every other elephant or animal, then disappeared in exactly the opposite direction. Crushed down trees indicate that they traveled at a race horse pace.

Chicago Policeman Held for Death in Auto Crash

Hillsboro, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Chester Westbrook, Chicago policeman, whose home is in this city, and Thomas Barry, Chicago, were jailed today on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Ed Mullens from injuries suffered in an automobile collision. Both are unable to furnish $5,000 bonds.

NEW COMMERCE AIR CHIEF HOPS OFF INTO WORK

Opens Bids for Lighting Apparatus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—William P. MacCracken, recently appointed assistant secretary of commerce in charge of the development and regulation of commercial aviation, conferred today with Paul Henderson, general manager of the National Air Transport; Luther Bell, traffic manager of the same company, and several other nationally known civil air executives on a number of pressing questions relating to the immediate development of aids for air men.

Opens First Bids.

Following the conference Mr. MacCracken announced he had opened the first bids for the construction of lighting apparatus for airways to be used for night flying. He stated further that he promised Mr. Henderson and the other officials that his department will help commercial aviation to the limit of its budget for this work.

It was stated at Secretary MacCracken's office that Mr. Henderson pointed out the most pressing needs of the commercial aviation companies at this time and urged the new air secretary to provide better air facilities promptly.

Cites Record of 1925.

Mr. Henderson also called the attention of Mr. MacCracken to the nationwide survey recently completed by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, which, he said, showed the unquestioned superiority of the United States in aviation. He pointed to the fact that without the government aid now promised, 5,500,000 miles were covered in flights last year, 200,000 passengers were carried, and more than 112 tons of express merchandise transported.

"With the help of the government in preparing airways, next year's record should be better," Mr. Henderson said.

Fifty department heads of the London store of Harry Gordon Selfridge arrived in Chicago yesterday to spend three days as guests of Marshall Field & Co. They are in the United States to study merchandising methods.

The English delegation will be entertained today at a luncheon at Field's, thence making a tour of inspection of both the retail and wholesale departments of the organization. Before leaving for Detroit tomorrow the group intends to visit other State street stores, the principal points of interest in the city and the rodeo.

The visitors will be the guests of fifty department heads of the Field orgnization at the luncheon. Prominent among the Londoners are W. M. Butler, subadvertising manager of the Selfridge store; E. C. Medcalf, manager of the provincial branch at Liverpool; Miss M. Snow, hosiery buyer; E. Pitcher, manager of the provisions department, and H. Seal, display advertising manager.

Property Owners Protest Crossing Grade Experiment

Morton Grove officials and owners of land adjacent to the intersection of Waukegan road and Dempster street prepared yesterday to protest to the county board today against the proposed erection of an experimental grade separation structure to carry traffic over the congested intersection. At a conference in the Chicago Motor club yesterday, it was suggested that the grade experiment be made at some intersection in the county where less damage would incur to property and that Dempster street and Waukegan road pavements be widened to relieve congestion.

POOR OLD UNCLE SAM! NOW HE'S ON PAN IN CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 16.—Denouncing as "unpatriotic" and "prejudicial to Canada's own interests" continued references by Conservative election campaign speakers to the United States, Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, speaking at Kamloops, B. C., said that if discourteous mention of the United States was continued, "I intend to have much to say about it."

Mr. King said that the objective of the Conservatives was to arouse prejudice against the United States. It came at a particularly inopportune moment, he said, when every hotel in every Canadian city was crowded with American guests who "cherished the kindliest of feelings and are spending their money in our country.

"The whole unnecessary talk of annexation and the contemptuous terms in which many Conservatives refer to the United States breeds ill will in a variety of directions. It is cheap business at best."

Meanwhile the Conservatives are continuing their veiled attacks and are making Uncle Sam a big issue in the election.

Robert Manion, postmaster general, hinted at Campbellton, N. S., that Mackenzie King was carrying his alleged "pro-American" sentiments so far as deliberately to throttle Canadian industry.

"I am not sure that King is not doing it on purpose," Mr. Manion said. "It has been hinted that King is pro-American and I'm not sure he's not."

Liberal campaigners today began shifting all their heavy artillery to the maritime provinces, in which area many Canadians believe the country's immediate political destinies will be settled Sept. 14. Besides Mackenzie King, former Finance Minister James Rob and former Railways Minister Dunning are billed there next week.

The maritimes, formerly Liberal, were swept by the conservatives in the last election on the "maritime rights" cry. A backward swing might determine which party is to rule Canada.

Safety and Service

Total fatalities in the United States in 1925 involving automobiles amounted to 19,564. Of these, 1,784 occurred at railroad grade crossings. Almost one-third of the total fatalities were children, according to information recently given out by the National Safety Council.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) because of the remarkable success of its safety campaign believes that its experience may be interesting to the public.

Twelve thousand motor vehicles belonging to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) were in operation during 1925. They crossed 36,840,000 railroad crossings during 1925 with but one fatal accident; and 31,000,000 crossings in 1924 with no accidents—a total in 2 years of 67,840,000 railroad crossings with but one fatal accident.

The attitude of personal responsibility assumed by Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers has been the chief factor contributing to this remarkably successful record.

Every driver of a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) truck considers himself personally responsible for the lives of other drivers and their passengers, pedestrians who cross the street, and children playing near. He has a higher concern than merely to keep within the law.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers are taught to do more than "stop, look and listen." They are taught to stop and think before they undertake the grave responsibility of driving.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has based its educational campaign for safety on the belief that any man who takes time to consider the constant dangers of modern traffic, must realize the necessity for extreme care and extra caution at all times.

Because, in America we boast a car for every six persons, the possibilities of motor accidents are worthy of serious consideration. This consideration is a part of the training of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers. They know that to avoid accidents they must do more than obey traffic laws to the letter.

The population of a city the size of Ann Arbor, Michigan, was needlessly killed during the last year by automobiles. Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers know that the record for 1926 is being made now—and they realize that they are among the many who are personally responsible for it.

The promotion of greater safety is part of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) conception of service.

All the vast resources of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), the collective energy and intelligence of its personnel of 29,000 men and women are at the service of the individual and the community.

Only in Kansas City could this have happened

SOMETHING has occurred in Kansas City that could not have happened anywhere else under the sun.

It involves a newspaper—the sale of a newspaper. A thing which in any other city would arouse scarcely a ripple of excitement. Many newspapers change ownership without the public being the wiser—or caring aught.

Yet in Kansas City the sale of a newspaper—and the negotiations preceding the sale—gave rise to a great outpouring of public sentiment. It became the first topic of discussion—a matter of personal concern to the entire citizenship of a community of more than half a million persons.

Nowhere else than in Kansas City could this have happened.

The background for this intensity of feeling was forty-six years in the making. Its early beginning centered around William R. Nelson, who came to Kansas City more than a generation ago and founded a little paper he called The Star.

From that momentous day to this the history of The Star has been of the web and woof of the history of Kansas City. The two are as inseparable as the principle of democracy and the Magna Charta.

William R. Nelson and The Star were militant factors in the development of Kansas City from a sprawling village to a metropolitan city of the first rank.

When William R. Nelson died in 1915 he left a great, successful newspaper. Since then it has grown in power and usefulness under the direction of Irwin Kirkwood and the men who received their training with Mr. Nelson.

Following the death of Mr. Nelson's daughter, Mrs. Laura Nelson-Kirkwood, last winter, and in accordance with Mr. Nelson's will, announcement was made that The Star must be sold and the trustees were ready to consider offers from prospective purchasers.

This announcment, though expected, brought the people stock-still to a realization that The Star might be lost to them—that it might go to men unworthy of the trust or to worthy men not familiar with Kansas City or the traditions of The Star.

To understand the extent of this fear one must remember that The Kansas City Star enjoys a popularity and a thoroughness of circulation that is not approached by any paper in any other city. That "everybody in Kansas City reads The Star" is more than a phrase. Not only do the people of Kansas City read The Star, but they receive it into their homes twice a day. It has more carrier circulation than any other newspaper in any city of any size.

Therefore, the fear that The Star might fall into wrong hands was not limited to any class, but was in the nature of an impending public calamity affecting the highest and the humblest family in Kansas City.

Appeals by the score were made to the trustees to sell The Star to The Star organization and thereby perpetuate its service. These appeals bore the official stamp and signature of such bodies as the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Association, Rotary Club, Co-Operative Club and practically every other civic and cultural organization in Kansas City. In reality, they were the voice of the people pleading for their dearest friend—the champion of Kansas City.

To say that a pall of gloom hung over Kansas City during the period of the sale negotiations may sound like an overstatement to some persons—but that is because they do not live in Kansas City or understand Kansas City. For, as was said in the beginning, this great, spontaneous outpouring of sentiment over the sale of a newspaper could have happened nowhere but in Kansas City.

When after months of suspense, Kansas City was informed that the trustees had accepted the bid of eleven million dollars made by Irwin Kirkwood and his associates on The Star, Kansas City individually, collectively and literally offered a prayer of thanks that The Star had been saved to Kansas City.

Because of this experience the bond between Kansas City and The Star is stronger than ever. In every home—in the high places and the low places—it now stands for something nearer and dearer than if the threat of loss had not impended.

More truly than ever can it be said that "The Star is Kansas City and Kansas City is The Star."

COAL OPERATORS LOSE GROUND IN RATE CUT FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Illinois and Indiana bituminous coal operators today lost the first round of their fight for reduced rates on coal from their mines to Chicago and points in the west and northwest.

Attorney Examiner William A. Disque, expert rate adviser to the interstate commerce commission, recommended that the commission dismiss the complaints of the operators.

The coal operators attacked the existing rates as unreasonable and unduly prejudicial as compared with those from mines in western Kentucky and in the so-called inner and outer crescents in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, eastern Kentucky and Tennessee.

Attorney Examiner Disque said the coal mining industry in Illinois and Indiana was in serious condition, due largely to the fact that the miners' wage scales in those states, which are on the basis of the so-called Jacksonville agreement, and are to remain effective at least until April 1, 1927, were so much higher than those in nonunion fields in other states and so affected production costs that the operators were having great difficulty in meeting their competitors' prices.

Mr. Disque said complainants and allied interests contended that the rate adjustment was partly responsible for the present situation and that, to remedy things, they desired a substantial widening of the rate differences or differentials in their favor, to be brought about by reductions in the rates from the Illinois and Indiana mines or by increases in the rates from the other mines or by a combination of both means.

Caisson Worker Escapes Blast; Foreman Is Hurt

George Scanlon, 25 years old, of 4736 South Union avenue, was injured yesterday when a mysterious explosion in a caisson being sunk at 207 East Chestnut street hurled stones and dirt against him. A construction foreman for a concern building a new hotel, Scanlon was standing over the shaft at the time. Another man, it was reported, was at the bottom of the caisson, but was not injured. Scanlon was taken to the West Side hospital.

Rescue Aged Watchman from Blaze at Tannery

Delaying too long in a burning building at 3057 North Rockwell street, Sidney Love, 68 years old, a private watchman, was trapped by the flames. He was rescued by firemen after being overcome by smoke. Fire Marshal Seyferlich estimated the damage to building and contents, occupied by the J. M. & V. Weil tannery, at $50,000.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[U.N.]—The U. S. gunboat Asheville of the Asiatic fleet is in "serious and immediate danger" from a typhoon on the Chinese coast, the navy department was advised today. The Asheville, with 175 officers and men, is in Namki harbor, near Foochow, China. Mellow Autumn Days in Uncrowded France

"The longest gangplank in the world" leads to the country of contrasts

THE French Alps! A series of snow crested mountains . . . and at their feet, gardens sweet with mimosa and clustered roses; smart and far-famed resorts such as Aix-les-Bains and Chamonix in the shadow of Mont Blanc . . . and rustic villages nestled in the hills.

France is a country of contrasts . . . ever new . . . ever interesting. Paris with its shops and fashion shows . . . and provincial towns in mediaeval dress; the laughing charm of Savoy . . . and the towering dignity of the Pyrenees; sports, rest or social diversion . . . all are glorious in the mellow and uncrowded days of early autumn.

Just take a French Liner to Havre. No transferring to tenders. Down the gangplank. A train waiting to carry you to Paris in three hours. The de Luxe Paris and France sail first to Plymouth, England . . . then Havre, the port of Paris. The One-Class Cabin Liners, De Grasse, Rochambeau, La Savoie and Suffren, go direct to Havre.

TWIN CITIES SEEK TO REGAIN CROWN AS MILL CENTER

Cheap Water Rates Aid to Buffalo.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Paul., Minn., Aug. 16.—Minneapolis for years was the greatest flour center in the world, but of late its mills have been running only at half capacity and Buffalo is now leading it in milling production.

Cheap water transportation from the head of the lakes to the Niagara frontier has brought about the shift and in the Twin Cities today the one great topic is that of rail rate reductions to put them back on the map.

The present differential on flour in favor of the Duluth grain route is fifteen cents a hundred. Two railroads, the Soo line and the Minneapolis and St. Louis road recently put in a six cent cut, reducing the differential to nine cents. It applies to grain or grain products originating in northwestern Minnesota, North Dakota, and Montana.

Six Cent Rate Suspended.

Duluth is protesting that the cut would injure its natural advantage as funnel to the east. Other grain markets, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, also are raising objections and so are the eastern trunk lines. The six cent rate has just been suspended by the interstate commerce commission until Christmas time and hearings are to be held here next month.

The matter has become the outstanding controversy in the spring wheat belt. The railroad commissions of Montana, The Dakotas and Minnesota are actually supporting the proposed reduction and the Minneapolis traffic association is leading the move for the lower rail tariff. The question is accounted one of the most prominent of the multitudinous for moves for readjustments in trial structure, now agitating most of the marketing and jobbing centers of the middle west.

Lake carrier costs now are almost at pre-war level, while the experts figure all rail rates are about 70 per cent higher than pre-war.

The all rail rate from Minneapolis to New York on flour is 43½ cents a hundred pounds; on wheat, 43 cents, and on coarse grain, 41½ cents.

Farmers Need Feed.

The water and rail cost from Duluth to New York on flour milled at Buffalo is 28 cents; on wheat, 25 cents; coarse grain, 25 cents, fractions omitted. Thus Minneapolis points out it is now at a disadvantage as compared with Buffalo, including insurance and other items, of 15 cents on flour, 18 cents on wheat, and over 16 cents on coarse grains. The reduction sought would top off 6 cents from this differential.

The labor pay roll and feed situations are pointed to as important. The mills produce by-products of grain, which is the feed for the live stock in the northwest. Minnesota, Iowa, and Wisconsin are great dairying states and have been dependent upon the Minneapolis market for a large portion of the feed for dairy herds, while stock growers throughout the northwest have drawn much of their feed supply from the Minneapolis mills.

Vare on His Vacation, Won't Discuss Politics

G. O. P. TO CARRY TARIFF PLEA TO MIDWEST FARMS

Republican protective tariff policies and the immigration law are the two outstanding G. O. P. accomplishments mostly responsible for the present national prosperity, in the opinion of Senator Phipps [Rep., Colo.], chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, who arrived in Chicago yesterday.

These policies will be used as the heavy ammunition of the G. O. P. campaigners when the congressional and senatorial battles open in the western sector next month.

Senator Phipps came to Chicago to go over campaign preliminaries with Senator Deneen, secretary of the senatorial committee, Earl Venable, secretary of the congressional campaign committee, and Congressman W. H. Newton [Rep., Minn.], who will direct the western speakers' bureau for both campaign committees.

Western headquarters, it was decided yesterday, will be located in the La Salle hotel.

FIRE HALTS BUILDING JOB.

ACTUAL PHOTOS TELL of LAWSONIA'S 34 YEARS DEVELOPMENT

THE man who wishes a small country estate on a beautiful Lake, that he may enjoy without waiting for development, will find Lawsonia on Green Lake, Wisconsin, literally made to order. For 34 years this 1080 acres was improved and developed by a great nature lover who had the means to beautify as he wished.

ABOVE: One of Lawsonia's five famous towers. Of Italian architecture, the white masonry and red roofs help beautify Lawsonia's famous drives

LEFT: The stately entrance and lodge preserves the private character of your home at Lawsonia as in the life of the late owner

FOURTEEN miles of scenically beautiful macadam roads were built, yacht harbor, boat house, golf course, bridle paths, community dancing casino were completed long ago. Millions of trees, miles of flower beds, architecturally beautiful buildings, pergolas, conservatories and towers were constructed.

The actual photos above and below give but a hint of the high state of refinement—the finished work that NOW exists at Lawsonia. There is no need waiting through a long period of development—no need to play winter rules on a new golf course—for Lawsonia's course has taxed the skill of golfers for many years.

The Clubhouse, of course, was erected years ago and membership is given free with the purchase of an estate. The cost of a country place at Lawsonia is not great. Estates range from the very modest for the man who wishes an inexpensive retreat to the more pretentious for those who want elaborate homes.

But regardless of the price, each enjoys full privileges of the facilities that were so carefully developed by the late Victor F. Lawson for the sole enjoyment of his own family and a few chosen guests.

Lawsonia is reached via the C. & N. W. Railroad in a few hours of travel comfort. Just time for supper and a good smoke. Or in six and a half hours by auto over continuous concrete roads.

OVAL: Golf at Lawsonia is enjoyed daily. The course has been well played. There is no waiting for proposed courses to be built. Although there is another 18-hole course now under construction

24-Page Picture Brochure Gives Facts

To give you an idea of the many charms and advantages of Lawsonia, an elaborate brochure of actual photographs has been prepared. It explains the Lawsonia plan and tells how you may own a country home in this wonderfully developed thousand acre private estate with full privileges for less than it costs to buy and develop unimproved land in less advantageous locations. Simply send the coupon—full details will be forwarded at once.

DR. H. W. ROGERS, COLLEGE BUILDER, DIES AS JUDGE

An era of great progress in the history of Northwestern university was recalled in Evanston yesterday at news of the death at Trenton, N. J., of Dr. Henry Wade Rogers, its tenth president and former dean of the Yale law school. At the time of his death Dr. Rogers was a judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New York. He was 73 years old.

Born in Holland Patent, N. Y., as Henry Rogers Wade, he was adopted shortly after his father's death by an uncle, Henry Wade Rogers, whose name he assumed. It was in this uncle's law office that Grover Cleveland later as professor of law. He was dean of that law school, 1885 to 1890.

Law Professor at Yale.

On his graduation from the University of Michigan in 1876, Dr. Rogers began the practice of law, only to return to the institution several years later as professor of law.

When Josiah Cummings, president of Northwestern, died in 1890, Dr. Rogers was chosen to fill that vacancy. There he remained for ten years. Then he became lean of the Yale law school, 1903 to 1913, when he was made judge.

President Rogers, who won his first fame as a foe of hazing at Northwestern, gained his principal reputation for his achievements that raised Northwestern from the status of a suburban college to that of a metropolitan university.

Makes Northwestern Grow.

During his administration the assets of the school were tripled and its registration doubled. Walter Dill Scott, now president of the university, and Mayor Charles Bartlett of Evanston, were students under his régime. One of his ideas was such a centrally located campus as that of the professional schools on the lake front at Chicago avenue.

"He was a great American," Dr. Scott said yesterday."

In 1913 Dr. Rogers received his appointment as federal judge. He held that place until his death. Among his many honors was the chairmanship of the world's congress on jurisprudence and law reform at the Chicago world's fair. He was a leading Methodist.

DES MOINES IS TURNED OVER TO VETERANS OF '98

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The war of 1898 with Spain was fought over again here today as delegates to the twenty-eighth national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans took the city by storm, to hold it until adjournment next Thursday.

Proof of Reunited U. S.

A dramatic point in the encampment proceedings themselves came when Gov. W. W. Brandon of Alabama, after telling the veterans that the men who fought in '98 gave first proof of a reunited nation, took the hand of the chairman, Col. L. W. Ainsworth of Des Moines, into his own and said:

"I wish, sir, that the governor of your great commonwealth was here. As he is not, I want to place my hand in yours. It is the hand of the south in the hand of the middle west—we feed and clothe the world."

Gov. Hammill of Iowa had left the platform for his office shortly before, after he had extended greetings to the visitors. Señor Cayetano de Quesada, consul attaché of the Cuban embassy, representing the Cuban president, brought the delegates to their feet, cheering. He told them that the younger generation of Cuba had profound gratitude for the American aid in gaining Cuban independence.

Thompson Sends Greetings.

R. H. Andreas, who, with W. A. La Mountain of Manila, is representing the Philippine camps, brought a message of greeting from the commander in chief, Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, now in the Philippines as the personal representative of President Coolidge.

About 14,000 veterans and members of their allied organizations are here. The naval and military order, delegates said, is working toward legislation to equalize the standing of Spanish-American war veterans with those of other wars.

WEEKS ESTATE VALUE $3,000,000; BULK TO FAMILY

Boston, Mass., Aug. 16.—The will of the late John Wingate Weeks, former secretary of war, filed in Middlesex Probate court today, made bequests totaling nearly $3,000,000 to members of his immediate family and relatives. There were no public bequests. The will, executed in Washington Feb. 24, 1920, makes bequests to various relatives. Referring to employés the document says:

"To any person employed in my office or as a domestic one year or longer, 25 per cent of the salary or pay which they received during their entire service."

His son-in-law, John Washington Davidge, and daughter-in-law, Beatrice Dowse Weeks, get $10,000 each. His daughter, Katherine Weeks Davidge, and son, Charles Sinclair Weeks, are given $200,000 to be shared equally and held in trust.

These amounts are to be invested in government, state or municipal bonds, and every five years the son and daughter are to receive $15,000 each and the accumulated interest turned over to the beneficiaries, and if they are deceased, the balance of the principal is to be used for the benefit of their heirs as if they were alive. The will then says:

"Having provided a home for my son and not for my daughter, I wish to give her an equivalent sum, $40,000, to be paid at once. All the rest and residue whatsoever shall be divided into three equal parts and give to my wife, Martha S., and daughter, Katherine Weeks Davidge, and son, Charles Sinclair Weeks."

Wife Accuses Husband of Kidnaping Two Children

The Chicago police were asked yesterday to help find Philip F. King of 24 North Kensington street, La Grance, who is alleged to have kidnaped his 2 year old son and his 4 year old daughter from his estranged wife on Aug. 9. According to Mrs. King, who lives in Bellwood, a court order had been issued restraining him from seeing the youngsters.

FRENCH THUGS RAID WRONG BUS, FIND NO YANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Americans all over Paris are chuckling over an incident today near St. Cloud, which the French newspapers do not print.

A tourist bus full of people caught in a traffic jam just outside St. Cloud, was jeered by some roughneck youngsters who shouted "Rotten Americans," and other remarks about Americans in general.

One youngster threw a brick that hit a man in the bus. The victim immédiately replied with a bottle of red wine. A free for all fight started and soon everybody was thoroughly beating up everybody else.

Valuable Improvements

The Policy of H. W. Elmore & Co.

It has been our policy and will continue to be our practice so to improve and beautify our subdivisions as to make them continually more valuable in the hands of our purchasers. We believe that the good will of the public is more valuable to us than any present profits we may make; and that good will can best be created and fostered by such service as will actually mean a money benefit to the patrons of our house.

The growth of Chicago and its outlying sections is proceeding at such a rapid rate that even specialists in values are unable properly to measure it. It is noteworthy, however, that the most substantial increases and the quickest advances in values have come in districts where improvements have been made.

This is but natural. Manufacturing vacant property is like manufacturing the raw flax into linen fabric. Cement sidewalks, roads, gas, electricity—these and other like improvements are necessary for building construction. Building construction enhances real estate values quickly and converts the raw product into the finished and merchantable article.

The valuable improvements so necessary to the investment character of real estate are features of our developments. In every one of our fifty-five subdivisions, there have been substantial increases which prove beyond a doubt the soundness of Elmore properties as investments.

"I Believe in Protecting the Health of My God-Given Treasures"

"Indoors or Outdoors
My Family Breathes Clean
Circulating Healthful Air"

Clean, Moist, Circulating, Warm Air in Your Home Is the Best Health Insurance You Can Buy

The Holland Heating System provides a healthy atmosphere in your home by supplying fresh and clean, circulating, warm air, containing the proper degree of humidity and an abundance of oxygen. Cold air is drawn off the walls and warm air supplied to the room. There are no "floor drafts" to cause your children to catch cold, as the temperature between the floor and a man's head does not vary three degrees in comparison with an eight to ten-degree variance in other heating systems. Instead of the usual chalk-dry hot air, a warm, moist atmosphere is insured by the Humidifier, a patent Holland feature, which also Steams the Coal as It Is Burned—forcing combustion and eliminating smoke.

The Holland Humidifier consists of apparatus so simple that there is nothing to get out of order. Water from the city main, dripping on large, graduated surfaces, evaporates proportionately to the amount of fire required and the humidity required, each day. From 3 to 25 gallons of water a day are evaporated into the air the family breathes.

The Holland System guarantees even distribution of healthy heat—no one room can be cold and dangerous to health and comfort in a Holland Heated Home, no matter how hard it is to heat with the system you now have—That's Guaranteed!

Burns Any Fuel—Saves Its Cost

Holland Furnaces will burn any fuel—any grade—soft coal, hard coal, coke, or oil. No part of your heat goes into the ash pile. The Holland forces every unit of heat into your house—not into the chimney. No dust or dirt even from the cheapest fuels.

A Holland saves its cost over the period of a few years in fuel—let alone what it saves in the health of your family, and the protection of your walls and furnishings. Why not enjoy a healthful, dependable heating system when it actually costs less than one that's faulty and inefficient?

Built to Last a Lifetime

Years of experience have taught us how to build better—the best of materials and rugged lifetime construction throughout the whole system. The easy-shaking cone-shaped grate and air-admitting firepot give you ease of operation and turns every heat unit from your fuel into moist, healthful, warm air. It's built to last a lifetime.

Our Ironclad Guarantee to You

The basis of correct heating is proper installation and this is absolutely guaranteed. Every Holland man from salesman to installer is employed directly by the factory. The entire factory and sales organization stand solidly behind every sale. You must be entirely satisfied before we are. We give you a signed contract to replace, without cost for labor or materials, any part which may prove defective. We guarantee to supply clean, moist, Healthful, circulating, warm air at the Lowest Possible Fuel Cost! No cold corners, no dirt, no dust, positively no gases or smoke—every room perfectly heated no matter how remote from the center of the house. Remember this is not just a salesman's promise but a signed bond backed by the entire resources of the Holland Furnace Company—the Largest Installers of Furnaces in the World—Directly Responsible to You! If your home is not adaptable to warm air heating—Our engineers have to tell you so! When we contract to heat, we have to heat! You can't go wrong with a Holland!

Long Time Easy Payments

You can buy a Holland on terms you can afford. Why not look ahead to a winter of comfort, health, and economy the Holland way. A faulty furnace is an expense. A Holland Furnace will pay its own way out of actual savings in fuel. You don't have to wait—a small payment down gives your home circulating, healthy heat—permanently. The Holland is not only the leader of the furnace field but is unusually low in first cost—Positively Lowest in Upkeep.

Why not find out Now just how inexpensive a Holland is. Get the facts—don't put it off until you are uncomfortable. Information is free—estimates are free—There's absolutely no obligation.

Bottom Prices on Our New "Special" Furnaces

We are taking a new advantage of our great Holland Organization, and the most efficient furnace factories in the World. We are now producing furnaces to compete in price with the lowest priced furnaces on the market.

Our Specials are made of the same materials as the Holland and where price is the consideration, we challenge the world to compete.

Special, Limited, FREE, Get-Acquainted Offer

During the next 30 days only, a Holland Heating Engineer will give your heating system a complete and thorough inspection and make the necessary recommendations as to how to get the most out of your fuel—absolutely free of charge no matter what type of furnace you have—a service that usually costs from five dollars up!

Many heating systems are inadequate for the needs of a home—others are poorly installed—the great majority simply need adjustment or attention. Our men are factory trained heating engineers—they know—we want you to have the help of our experts—that's our idea of practical service. Now that the furnace is not in use—get the facts—find out what kind of a deal it is giving you—get more heat for your money—remember it will cost you nothing—no obligation—no strings—simply clip and mail the coupon in the lower right corner. *It costs you nothing. St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 16.—[Special.] Although the perpetually perspiring Hack Wilson worked his bat feverishly today it availed his mates nothing. Mr. Hack propelled a couple drives into the adjacent seats and Cliff Heathcote aided with one, but their homeric smacks were rendered void by an assortment of weak pitching and the Cardinals made it two out of three over the Chicagoans by a score of 5 to 4.

Sox and Tigers Battle Ten Innings to Scoreless Tie

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—Air tight pitching by Ted Lyons and Sam Gibson caused the White Sox and Tigers to struggle ten innings without a run today, it being necessary to halt the duel at that point so that the two teams could catch an early train for the east. This struggle piled upon the five inning splash of the two teams in Chicago yesterday, makes fifteen scoreless innings reeled off by the two clubs, all of which indicates the pitching has been de luxe.

TED LYONS.

Today's contest was such an even match that it seemed as if the game had been rehearsed. Each side made only three hits. On each side only one man got as far as third base. But the Sox had a bit of an edge in chances because four of their men walked, while only two Detroiters drew passes. Two errors were charged against the Chicagoans, Morehart booting one chance, while Crouse made one bad peg to second. These mistakes, however, proved to be harmless.

When the Sox finish their tour of the east they will return here for a three days' stand and this extended duel for a tally will then be resumed, as part of a double header.

Sox Have First Chance.

The Sox had their first opening at the very start of the game when Mostil led off with a carom single off Gibson's patella. He went to second on Morehart's out, but had to stand there and see the next two mates pop up. In the second O'Rourke of the enemy walked and stole second after two were out, but the next man popped up.

Crouse opened the third with a single and Lyons sacrificed, but that opening was ruined when Mostil popped up and Morehart flied out. Neun hit a safe blow for the Tigers in the third after two were out, but the next man was helpless.

In the fifth, the Sox got a man as far as third. Hunnefield walked, advanced on Kamm's out and advanced again on Crouse's long fly, but in this pinch Lyons fanned. An error by Morehart put a Tiger on base in the same round, but it was harmless.

Sox Fall in Pinches.

Mostil led off in the sixth with a single. Morehart rolled to Gehringer, who made a jab at Mostil and then threw to first for a double play. In the seventh, the Tigers got a man to third.

With one out, Gehringer singled but was forced by O'Rourke. The latter then stole second and went on to third on Crouse's bad throw, but he was left there when Tavener fanned.

Kamm walked to start the eighth, but Crouse bunted into a double play and the stuff was off again. Mostil walked to start the ninth and after Morehart sacrificed, Sheely walked, but Harris flied to Fothergill and then Barrett forced Sheely.

Three solid drives did the Sox no good in the tenth. Hunnefield lined to Manush, Fothergill dashed in and made a diving catch of Kamm's crashing liner, and Gibson reached out with his bare hand and stabbed a smash by Crouse.

SOX BUY PITCHER

The White Sox have added a pitcher to their staff. Secretary Harry Grabiner of the south side team last night announced that Fred (Red) Peery, a left handed hurler, had been purchased from the St. Joseph team of the Western league. Peery is 20 years old, stands 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs 165 pounds. The deal was all cash and outside of saying that they had "paid plenty" Secretary Grabiner refused to discuss the price.

Peery is rated as one of the best pitchers in the Western league. He will report after the closing of the Western league in September.

Friends Make Affidavits on Ederle's Swim

[Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Following uncomplimentary comment in French and English newspapers on Miss Ederle's channel swim, the full text of a statement asserting the swim was accomplished in accordance with the rules, signed by members of the party on the tug accompanying the swimmer was reproduced here today. It reads:

"We, the undersigned, witnesses of the channel swim of Miss Gertrude Ederle, hereby certify in the presence of American Consul M. Gaston Smith, that on the morning of Friday, Aug. 6, Miss Ederle walked into the water at Cape Gris-Nez and swam to Kingsdown, England, where she arrived 14 and one-half hours later and that she received no aid in her swimming and that she abided faithfully by all the rules of channel swimming and international sportsmanship."

The affidavits were signed by the following:

FREDERICK E. ABBOTT, International News Service, Rue de Gramont, Paris; MINOTT SAUNDERS, United Press of America and manager of Miss Lillian Cannon; AMEDEE BLONDIAU, proprietor of the Hotel Du Phare, Cape Gris-Nez; ALEC RUTHERFORD, New York Times and General News Agency of London; A. WOMEN STARS START QUEST FOR HELEN'S CROWN

Miss Wills Departs for Home as Rivals Play.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—More than fifty players today drew their racquets in quest of the national women's tennis crown relinquished by Helen Wills, with six seeded stars scoring decisive, straight set triumphs.

MRS. A. H. CHAPIN JR.

As Mrs. Molla B. Mallory and Miss Mary K. Browne, veterans of more than a decade's competition, swept into the second round with other favorites by impressive triumphs, the youthful champion of 1925 sped westward to her home in California after an unsuccessful effort to regain her stride.

Until Saturday the three time title holder, whose battle against Suzanne Lenglen last winter attracted worldwide interest, hoped she would be able to defend her laurels. But the task of recovering within two months from an operation in Europe proved too much to ask from even so fine a physique as that of Miss Wills.

Elizabeth Ryan Idle.

Elizabeth Ryan, the chop stroke star who vanquished Miss Wills in straight sets at Seabright, N. J., a week ago, was not called upon to play under the leaden skies which finally made good their threat of rain. But Mrs. Mallory, whose victory over Miss Wills last Friday established her as Miss Ryan's outstanding rival for the crown, came through with a decisive victory, bombarding Mrs. F. H. Godfrey of Boston with a fusillade of powerful drives to win at 6—0, 6—1.

Miss Browne, who first rose to the tennis pinnacle fourteen years ago, was equally impressive. The Santa Monica star yielded only two games to the Newport, R. I., veteran, Mrs. Maude Barger Wallach, 6—0, 6—2.

Other Seeded Stars Win.

Eleanor Goss of New York, Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., Mrs. A. H. Chapin of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., were other seeded stars to advance without being pressed.

Channel Beats Lillian Cannon in Three Hours

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 17.—[U. N.]—Miss Lillian Cannon of Baltimore abandoned her attempt to swim the English channel at 4:05 this morning, when a terrific storm made it impossible for her to continue.

LILLIAN CANNON.

The American girl was in the water three hours and ten minutes, having started at 12:55 a. m. (6:55 p. m. Chicago time). She made excellent progress at the getaway and at 2:15 had swam three miles from the French coast. At that point she encountered mountainous seas in the midst of an electrical storm which broke suddenly and sent thunder and lightning through the air. Further progress became practically impossible.

She had covered three and a half miles when she boarded the tug Alsace and returned to Boulogne.

When Miss Cannon began her swim the water was unusually warm, and although a slight rain was falling conditions were considered most favorable.

Mr. Pyle Admits Suzanne's Tour Will Fire the Country

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—C. C. Pyle, the noted part time altruist of the sport business returned to New York from France today and announced that one of his motives for persuading Suzanne Lenglen to pouch the sordid shilling of professionalism was a selfless desire on his part to keep the amateurs honest.

Mr. Pyle chose the Leviathan for his voyage home because no other ship on the seven seas, the Erie canal, or the Monongahela could float so large a plan as the one that he is now engaged in, and even the Levi may have chafed her bosom on the harbor floor under the weight of C. C. Pyle's undertaking.

Drawing a whiff of sea air as the ship news reporters went squirreling up the ladder from the cutter, Mr. Pyle greeted them on deck with a gust of mingled news and optimism that bellied the limp canvas of all the sail boats between the Hook and Rockaway and he was still conversing fluently at a late hour without having repeated himself.

Pros in Big Tourney.

"We're going to go on tour," Mr. Pyle said. "It's going to be a wonderful tour, too. It's going to be the greatest thing of the kind ever done. I promise you that when Miss Lenglen arrives here on Sept. 27 I will have ten or twelve of the best amateur tennis players in the world ready to go along with her. I can't tell you their names now, but I expect to be able to say who they are about Sept. 15.

"Well, then after our tour of the United States and Canada and before we go south for the winter season in Cuba, Mexico, and Florida, we will have a big professional tournament and just to make it interesting for the athletes we will put up between $35,000 and $50,000 in cash prizes for the winners, the runners-up, and the quarter finalists.

"O, no you can't surmise who these other players are," Mr. Pyle insisted playfully to this correspondent. "You might name the obvious ones who really ought to be professionals right now, and go way wrong on them.

Plans Pro Net Association.

"Well, as I was saying, our big professional tournament will correspond in a way to the national open tournament in golf. I am not certain whether the amateurs will play against the pros as they do in golf, but if they don't we will have a quorum any way. I don't know whether we will hold this tournament in New York or Chicago, or where, but I should think New York would be best.

"Mr. Bill Hayward, the man who used to be the United States district attorney here in New York, is my lawyer and he is coming back from France soon to organize a regular professional tennis group to embrace the pros just as the United States Lawn Tennis association takes in the amateurs," he said. "So we will play under formal auspices. In about ten days I will be able to announce the first two or three weeks of our itinerary, but just off hand I can say we will play exhibitions in New York, Boston, Toronto, Montreal, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Chicago. West of the Mississippi we will play such cities as Omaha and Denver, but I haven't studied that territory yet. We want to play first in the cities where the cold weather comes earliest.

"Well, I suppose we will make some money out of this," Mr. Pyle said, as thought the words had a rather bitter taste in the mouth of an altruist, "but even so, we will achieve one big thing in making the amateurs honest. I guess you would get some good stories to put in the paper, wouldn't you, if you started investigating these amateurs in tennis. Yes, sir, ha, ha, you'd get some pretty good stories."

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL.

HOME and home football games between Michigan and Harvard mark further progress in the tendency toward intersectional contests. This progress The Wake approves. From present indications it is about to become a habit.

Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Navy, Columbia, Syracuse and others have seen the light, while Army for years has granted Notre Dame a place on its schedule, although prevented by rule from coming west. It is not merely a place on the schedule for which middle western teams have been holding out, but home and home games.

Strangely enough, it was Princeton, which rumor says is to be displaced by Michigan on Harvard's schedule, which gave this movement impetus. Princeton upset modern tradition when as a member of the once "Big Three" it entered a two year agreement with the University of Chicago.

It is an open secret that Princeton alumni in the west have wished a renewal of such relations, either with Chicago or some other Big Ten eleven. The sub rosa tip was out that it would happen—either when Harvard or Yale made the first move or when something like what apparently has happened did happen.

Princeton has not been wholeheartedly happy in its schedule with its two principal rivals. The Tigers always meet Crimson and Blue on successive Saturdays, while one of these teams is able to take on a "set-up" if it wishes before its climax. Nassau athletic partisans think a little rotation would be very pleasant among gentlemen, but advances toward that end did not get anywhere. Possibly this fact has some influence on the present situation.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton, in our opinion, will find it beneficial, athletically and in other ways, to expand their schedules to include home and home intersectional games.

Pirate Factions.

It will be interesting to note progress of The Pirates toward the National league pennant for the remainder of the season. To those unaware of internal differences, the Pittsburgh outfit seemed sure winners once they headed the pack. Team balance and class was due to tell the tale despite St. Louis' bid. How much the loss of three experienced players means will be determined in future weeks.

When discord arises in a club, or when players and managers clash, drastic action is necessary. Such discord is seldom smoothed over permanently. It merely breaks forth at another time. Whatever the merits of this particular case, Pittsburgh did the right thing. Chicagoans still remember the release of Grover Alexander, longtime Cub favorite.

NELSON, AYTON LEAD IN PRO GOLF TRIALS

Espinosa, Andenberg Also Qualify.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Thirty-eight golfers who swing their clubs for the kind of eagles that perch on silver dollars played two rounds of golf on the Bunker Hill course yesterday, and when they had finished the leaders of the Illinois district were Laurie Ayton, Gunnar Nelson, Al Espinosa, and Cy Andenberg. These four qualified for the national professional championship, of which yesterday's play was a preliminary elimination.

Nelson, the young assistant pro at Olympia Fields, who has freckled bald spots on each side of his forelock, tied with Ayton, the tall veteran from Evanston, for first place. These two had identical rounds of 73s in the morning and 70s in the afternoon.

Al Espinosa, squat and sartorially perfect, was in third place with 73—71—144, and a stroke behind him was Cy Andenberg of Oak Park with 75—70—145. Two strokes separated these four from the rest of the field, Gordon Wright, the home pro, coming next with two consistent rounds of 74–74.

Nelson Ties Ayton.

Nelson, who speaks with as much Scotch brogue as Roald Amundsen, leaned heavily on his niblick and putter and found them stout. On his morning round he started with seven consecutive fours. In the afternoon round he got four birdies. On the 463-yard fifteenth his second shot landed in a trap, eighty yards from the green. His niblick brought it out and sent it spinning to within three feet of the pin and he sank it for a birdie four. Needing par 4—4—3 on the last three holes to tie Ayton, he got them. His niblick tee shot on the 180-yard last landed on the green and stopped 20 feet from the pin.

Ayton played persistent and consistent par golf. He was off the fairway with his tee shots three times in the 36 drives. In the morning round he got one birdie and was one over par on three holes. In the afternoon he shot a 3 on the first and then eight consecutive 4s.

Espinosa's Putter Falters.

Espinosa was having troubles with his putter, particularly on the last round. Time and again he had short putts for birdies only to dub them. He got an eagle 3 on the 545 yard second in the morning and rimmed the cup with his third on the same hole in the afternoon.

Andenberg, after a poor start with 41 for the first nine, clipped par a stroke on the second nine for a 75 for the morning and then picked up five strokes on that count by shooting the first nine in par in the afternoon and duplicating his one under par on the last nine.

Alec Ayton fell victim of a freak on the 18th hole of the second round, which called for a billiard shot. His ball lodged in the crotch of a tree. He played it with the club sidewise and got it out. Scores:

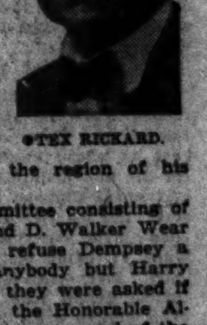
Kearns Sues Jack for $333,000.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Having twice deferred action on Jack Dempsey's application for a license to fight Gene Tunney, the license committee of the New York Cauliflower commission today hauled off with a wild swing from the heels that not only whacked Dempsey, Tex Rickard and Tunney flush on their respective expectations, but also grazed the honorable attorney general of the state of New York in the region of his dignity.



TEX RICKARD.

The license committee consisting of John J. Phelan and D. Walker Wear finally decided to refuse Dempsey a license to fight anybody but Harry Wills. And when they were asked if they realized that the Honorable Alfred Ottinger, attorney general of the state, had decided they were bound to grant the license, they said they had not heard Ottinger's ruling and what was more, didn't want to hear it.

The Yes Men Say No!

The Messrs. Phelan and Wear are by way of being military men and are known in the corridors of the Flatiron building where the Cauliflower exchange holds its sessions as the Little Colonels. Their committee had led a serene and unimportant existence until a short time ago when a majority of the Cauliflower commission issued Dempsey a certificate of official purity and sanctioned Mr. Tex Rickard's plan to promote the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Mr. James Farley, the chairman and minority member of the Cauliflower commission had opposed the Dempsey-Tunney bout and he seemed to be outvoted and beaten until he bethought himself of the Little Colonels sitting in their little office down the hall performing harmless exercises with their array of official rubber-stamps. Most of these stamps bear the word "yes," and they were used for years to approve the recommendations of the Cauliflower commission. Nobody ever suspected that the Little Colonels had a rubber stamp with the word "no" until Mr. Farley enlisted their sympathy in his fight to find employment for Harry Wills.

Politicians at Work?

Whether Dempsey will fight Tunney or Wills or nobody has now become a trivial question compared to the uncertainty that confronts the clean, wholesome sport of prize fighting. Any Dempsey bout is bound to involve gross receipts of about $1,500,000, and there are some very picturesque characters among those resourceful partisans who insist that Wills be given his chance. The Cauliflower Commission has sanctioned Dempsey and Tunney and the license committee refuses to issue Dempsey a license despite the fact that the attorney general says the license committee is there to do the bidding of the commission. The row in the governing body begins to give off fumes and it may yet be necessary to call for an investigation.

To state the matter frankly, it seems as though Tex Rickard must have refused to declare in some of the lads around Tammany Hall as partners in his enterprise and that they are whooping up the Harry Wills issue merely to prevent him from making money for himself and his firm.

Dempsey Lawyer Plans Suit.

The Wills issue has a certain vague plausibility and the boys could present some rather well sounding arguments to the Messrs. Farley, Phelan, and Wear without ever admitting that they were inspired by any other motive than a desire to see justice done.

Arthur Driscoll, a lawyer representing Dempsey, waited while the Little Colonels worked out with their rubber stamp and as soon as he heard that the license was refused he raced up town to tell Rickard and discuss other plans. The license committee doesn't meet again until Aug. 28, so it may be necessary now for Rickard to take his Dempsey-Tunney match to New Jersey or Philadelphia or abandon it altogether.

Rickard said, however, that if he couldn't hold the fight in New York he would not promote it at all.

Dempsey Is Sued.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey today was served with papers for a suit by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's former manager, for $333,333.33. Kearns says he had signed Dempsey for a bout with Gene Tunney and one with Harry Wills under the auspices of Tex Rickard, each bout to bring the champion $500,000. Kearns' share of these two purses would amount to the money the former manager is suing for.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jockey D. Smith, a youngster who brought quite a reputation to Lincoln Fields a few days ago, took an old-fashioned snooze while gliding down the stretch on Frederick Grabner's colt Chicago yesterday and it cost the Chicago turfman a victory in the $1,700 Roseland handicap. Iron Mask II. came with a rush in the last sixteenth, and Jockey Howard Elston slipped him past the slumbering Smith and Chicago right at the finish line to win a neck verdict.

Iron Mask II. Breaks Record.

Iron Mask II. shattered the track record when he stepped the mile in 1:38 1-5, but Chicago was so much the best he might have won handily but for the nap little Mr. Smith took. He had raced Chicago into the lead soon after the barrier lifted, making the pace all the way, until Elston and Iron Mask II. came up with their belated rally. Even then Chicago might have turned defeat into victory if he had been ridden with any courage after Smith awoke to the disaster which had overtaken him.

Just a week ago Lincoln Fields opened its session with a big and enthusiastic crowd on hand to greet the thoroughbreds. But yesterday's crowd was greater than the one which packed the new plant for the opening. And the attendance has shown such an increase within a week that General Manager Winn has already ordered changes at the new course which will make it possible to handle the throngs with greater dispatch and provide more comfort for the spectators.

The main entrance is to be changed in its general appointments, the stairways leading into the stands are being enlarged, and more space has been provided on the lawns back of the grandstand.

Son of French Derby Winner.

Iron Mask II. carried the silks of H J. Macomber, California millionaire sportsman, to victory, and he is worthy of such a triumph, being an imported horse, the son of Maintenon, a French Derby winner. He kept close to the dizzy pace Chicago cut out all the way, Rural Route also being among the leaders, but when Chicago reached the head of the stretch he was two lengths in front of the others and running easy.

At this stage Jockey Smith took his trip to slumberland and when he awoke, less than 20 strikes out, Iron Mask II. was along side him. He could not rally Chicago soon enough to recover the lead.

While the track could hardly be classed as fast, Edward R. Bradley's Bottom Dollar also turned in a speedy five and a half furlongs when she won the Kensington Juvenile stakes after leading from start to finish. Her time was 1:07 2-5, within fractions of a second of the record.

Jockey Goldie Johnson, who has been in a slump, showed a return to good riding form and after getting away in front kept the Bradley filly at her task all the way around to win easily by more than two lengths from Thirteen Sixty.

Roberts Beats Johnson.

This race renewed the riding feud which has been raging here between Johnson and Jay Roberts, Johnson finishing second best to Roberts in their last clash in the Crete handicap Saturday. But the Bradley rider clearly had the better of this argument. Azure ran with the leaders for a time, but dropped out of the picture in the stretch, Patricia Marian finishing back of Thirteen Sixty in third place.

Little Asbestos Wins $3,500 Saratoga Race

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Gifford A. Cochran's three year old colt, Little Asbestos, ran a sensational race at the course of the Saratoga association this afternoon to win the Catskill claiming stakes at seven furlongs. After having been left at the post, the black son of Jack Hare Jr. and Lady Manager didn't appear to have a chance when the field swept down the back stretch, being at least half a dozen lengths back of the last horse.

Around the turn, Maiben got his mount up with the bunch, saved a lot of ground turning for home, and in a hard drive brought him past the winning post with a margin of half a length over the Sagamore stable's Montferrat, the early pacemaker. The victory was worth $3,500 to Mr. Cochran.

Little Asbestos carried top weight of 113 pounds. He ran the distance in the fast time of 1:25 4-5 over a track that was becoming heavy by a steady drizzle.

Racing Notes

JOCKEY ARTHUR MORTENSEN arrived from Saratoga yesterday and will finish out the season as first string rider for the L. T. Cooper stable, having been the L. T. Cooper stable, having been loaned to the Florida turfman by W. R. Coe of New York. Mortensen was America's leading rider last season and will get into action at Lincoln Fields this afternoon.

Presiding Steward Charles F. Price was ill yesterday and was unable to serve in the stand.

National League Prexy Goes to Pittsburgh.

New York, Aug. 16.—[U. N.]—The National league, through its president, John A. Heydler, has started to get to the bottom of the sudden mutiny in the Pirate crew which startled the baseball world just at a time when the Pittsburgh bucaneers had the nose of their craft out in front in a stirring pennant chase.

President Heydler has gone to Pittsburgh to make a personal investigation of the situation, which resulted in the indefinite release of Babe Adams and Bigbee and the suspension without pay, pending waiver action, of Capt. Max Carey.

League Affair, Landis Says.

Carey arrived in New York today to present the suspended players' side of the controversy to Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the high commissioner of baseball. Landis referred Carey to Heydler, saying:

"At present I can take no action in the matter. It seems to me to be purely a National league affair."

After Carey had laid his side of the controversy before Heydler the latter said he would issue no statement at this time but instead would go immediately to Pittsburgh to interview all concerned.

"I think the matter should be dealt with in Pittsburgh rather than here," Heydler said.

PIRATE BOSS STANDS PAT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pittsburgh National league baseball club, asked tonight about the hearing John Heydler, president of the league, will conduct here tomorrow into the situation which resulted in the suspension of Max Carey and the release of Carson Bigbee and Babe Adams, said there would be no change in the club's attitude toward the men.

White Sox Notes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 16.—Immediately after the game the Sox and Tigers took a flyer for the east, the Sox going to New York and the Tigers to Washington.

Red Faber is slated to hurl the opener against the Yanks. He's had four days' rest since laboring. The old timer needs another day.

Umpires Ormsby and Hildebrand came along from Chicago to work the game here today, Moriarty being absent. It was supposed he was permitted to stay over in Chicago to get his pants creased following Sunday's rain.

Notes of the Cubs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 16.—The Cubs departed at midnight for Chicago where they open a series with the Giants tomorrow. Guy Bush probably will tackle the McGraw men in the opener.

Schrieber started at short today because Jim Cooney went home in expectation of the arrival of an heir.

A heavy rain at noon made a swamp of the foul territory. The infield also was soaked in spots due to the fact the canvas cover is slightly the worse for wear.

Despite threatening weather the lady fans turned out in colorful abundance. It cost them nothing and they couldn't resist a bargain. About 5,000 of them were present.

The Cards came close to getting a fifth run in their profitable fifth chapter. Heathcote made a bulletlike peg to the plate on Douthit's single and nipped Hornsby at the plate for the third out.

Windup Fighters Fail to Fight; Referee Halts Bout

ERNIE PETERS.

Failure of Nick Quagerelli of New York and Eddie Speaks of Louisville, principals in the windup of Mique Malloy's boxing show at 74th and Aberdeen streets last night to fight, caused Referee Dave Barry to call the bout off in the seventh round. The men were slated to box eight rounds.

Up to the time the arbiter declared no contest there was not a solid blow landed and the fighters went into clinches without reason. In the sixth session Referee Barry cautioned the principals to fight or he would stop the bout. For a few seconds of the seventh session they rallied but soon fell back into the old tactics. Barry then stopped the mill. His decision met with approval. They scaled 130 pounds.

The six round semi-windup between Paul Allen and Joe Medill, local 130 pounders, was the best bout on the card. At the end of the interesting contest, which was featured by hard punching, Referee Ike Bernstein called it a draw. It was a good decision, as neither fighter had a decided advantage. Both were aggressive and had practically the same styles of fighting.

Draw Decision Booed.

Referee Joe Hess came in for a deal of criticism by calling the six round affair between Hy Gottfreed and Mickey Kerst, local 138 pounders, a draw. In the opening round Hy scored a clean knockdown witht a left hook and in some of the other sessions, the final especially, had Kerst in a bad way. The crowd voiced its disapproval by booing for at least five minutes, for it was the general opinion that Gottfreed had the best of the milling.

Peters Trims Gonzales.

Ernie Peters, Chicago flyweight champion, evened up an old score by winning the decision over Ferdinando Gonzales in the other six rounder. Ernie forced the milling in practically every round and won off by himself.

In the four rounders, Jimmy Logas, of wrestling fame, made a poor boxing debut and was on the receiving end of Joe Miller's pitching. Jimmy never had a chance and resorted to his wrestling tactics in every round. Frankie Hall of Bridgeport was given the decision over Joe Patz of Gary, Ind., in the opener. They scaled 118 pounds.

The total paid attendance was 1,926 and the receipts were $3,969.

HOMEWOOD TURF WORKERS HOLD CHECK INQUIRY

While the American Derby check for $89,050 signed by County Clerk Robert Sweitzer and countersigned by Thomas Bourke, remains as the most unique article of rubber in the possession of E. R. Bradley, Kentucky horseman, sundry Chicagoans who worked for the Homewood track held a parley yesterday to discuss other checks just as rubbery.

At the meeting of the Chicagoans, employes and workman hired by Mr. Bourke, a representative of the track is said to have told them their checks would be made good eventually and that plans are now being made for a race meeting at Homewood in October.

Hawthorne is planning a race meeting in September and Aurora one in October. Racing men do not see how the Homewood track could run in opposition.

The amount of money for which rubber checks were given by the Homewood officials is said to be mounting daily.

I. A. C. APPOINTS MILLER DIRECTOR OF RIVER SWIM

John T. Miller has been appointed director of the eighteenth annual Chicago River swim of the I. A. C., which will be held Saturday afternoon. In his swimming days Miller competed in six of the river marathons and on each occasion finished better than tenth.

Dick Howell of the C. A. A., holder of the record for the distance at 56:20 is the favorite although Sol Adler of the Covenant club, second place winner last year, and Sam Greller of the I. A. C. are regarded as dangerous contenders. Swimming Instructor William Bachrach of the I. A. C. expects at least fifty entries.

The start will be made from the shore line on the north side of the Municipal pier with the course extending around the pier and down the river with the finish at the Wells street bridge, a distance of about three miles.

HOOVER ENTERS 2 SCULLS RACES IN TRIBUNE MEET

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

In addition to meeting the champion oarsman of the Lincoln Park Boat club in a three-quarter's mile race, feature of THE TRIBUNE's fifth annual water carnival to be held in the Lincoln park lagoon on Sunday afternoon, Walter Hoover, the American single sculls champion and former holder of the world's title, will engage in a quarter mile dash against the best man the Lincoln Park club can develop.

Officials of the National Association of Amateur Oarsman and of the Undine Barge club of Philadelphia are aware that Hoover's presence in Chicago will be a boost for rowing. They are anxious for the champion to give a great exhibition of his prowess, and for this reason he will compete in two races, one of which will take him over the entire course, while the other will start at the south end of the lagoon and finish in front of the boat house.

Hoover in Condition.

Hoover, who is in splendid condition after training for the National championship regatta held recently in Philadelphia, will arrive in Chicago Sunday morning.

Hoover's entry has resulted in plenty of activity at the Lincoln Park Boat club. Competition for seats in the shells is so keen that Captain Gilbert Shannon and Commodore Hadwiger have ordered a series of elimination races this week to determine the strongest crews. While little hope is held out for the development of a sculler to beat Hoover, the local oarsmen believe they have good chances in the other races.

The four oared crew of the south side boat club of Quincy, Ill., however, is expected to defeat the locals in this event, while the eights from Culver Military academy and the Century Boat club of St. Louis are coming to Chicago determined to win over the crews of the local club. The Duluth Boat club is sending down a doubles which has been training for the last three weks.

Canoe Trials Saturday.

While the shell races are attracting more interest, the canoe events will demand their share of attention. Canoe racing has been growing in popular favor in recent years and the competition in the four races to be staged on Sunday will bring together the best paddlers in the section. As a climax to these races, a war canoe race, with each craft manned by fourteen paddlers, will be held. Entry for all canoe races can be made with Vincent Smith of the Lincoln Park Boat club. Preliminaries in these races will be held on Saturday afternoon.

Johnny Weissmuller and Miss Ethel Lackie of the Illinois A. C., the two fastest swimmers in the world, are training for their quarter mile exhibition swim as are the men and women fancy divers who will give exhibitions from the high and low boards.

All events are free to the public. A complete program will appear in Sunday morning's issue of THE TRIBUNE.

Red Sox and Browns Split Double Header

Boston, Mass., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Reaching his brother, Milton, for a triple in the second innings, with three on base, Alex Gaston, Red Sox catcher, started Boston on the road toward a 7 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns. Haney cleaned the bases with another triple in the third. The game was called in the seventh because of rain.

By bunching their hits in the late innings of the first game, the Browns won, 6 to 1. The fielding of Regan was brilliant in both contests. Score:

Fantome Wins Richardson Yacht Races

Bill Faurot's able sailer Fantome again finished in front in the Chicago Yacht club's elimination series to determine the R class champion of Lake Michigan, winning the final leg of the Richardson series yesterday over the twelve nautical mile course off Belmont harbor.

Fantome made a clean sweep of the series, winning the three legs, the first Saturday off Randolph street and the second Sunday over the Belmont harbor course. The final races to decide the champion, called the Lipton cup series, will be held off Belmont harbor Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

With Skipper Keith Previer, Bill Faurot, Eddie Harrington, and Freddie Spencer manning the sloop, Fantome got over the line third, moved up to first position by the time the first bunch had reached the three mile point and never relinquished the leadership.

Fantome was challenged continually by both Nancy, which finished third, and Mitzi, fourth to finish, but through the excellent handling of Skipper Previer was able to hold the lead. It was not until toward the end of the drive that Calypso drew up and was able to finish second.

Cattle and hog prices tumbled sharply below last week's level under pressure of the largest receipts in several months. Arrivals of cattle at 33,000 were largest since last October, with the hog supply at 48,000 largest since April, both being about double the number offered the initial day of last week. Reductions of 25c were general in better grades of beef steers, with inbetween and commoner kinds off 25@40c. Choice 826 lb mixed yearling steers and heifers topped at $10.50, with 766@1,126 lb. steers at $10.40 and prime 1,541 lb. averages $10.15. Choice 1,240 lb steers reached $10.25 late. Better grades of cows and heifers slumped 25@40c, fancy 762 lb. baby beef heifers going at $10.25. Canners and cutters declined 15@25c. Calves broke 50c to $1.00. Bulls lowered 15c. A good demand held stockers and feeders generally steady. Fleshy feeders, however, weakened in sympathy with killers.

With hog receipts showing an increase of about 24,000 compared with the previous Monday, buyers demanded sharp concessions, forcing prices off 15@30c. Top lowered 15c at $13.60, paid late, with general average off 20c at $11.55, both lowest since Thursday of last week. Heavy hogs were even more abundant than last week and indicated the sharpest loss, resulting in a widening of the price range. Last week's actual average weight of hogs at 272 lbs was beyond the estimate and heaviest for any week in more than 30 years. The heaviest average for August in 30 years is 255 lbs. Mixed and packing grades bringing $10.15@10.75, comprised a good share of offerings yesterday. Medium and weighty butchers brought $11.25@12.25 and a fair showing of light butchers $12.50@12.75. Sales of light above $13.00 cut little figure in the general trade.

Sheep Receipts Decrease.

Sheep receipts at 14,000 were smallest in several weeks for Monday and 9,200 smaller than a week earlier. Lamb prices ruled stronger, with sorting lighter. Fancy natives to city butchers topped at $14.40 with bulk to packers at $13.50@14.00 and strong weight culls at $9.00@9.50. A moderate number of fat ewes carried since last week on unsatisfactory bids further weakened the market for aged sheep, with losses of 25c general in this branch. Heavy ewes brought $5.00@5.50 and good handy weights around $7.00. Yearlings were weak. Feeding and breeding stock held firm in good demand. Best light feeding lambs were held at $14.00. Top range lambs for slaughter stopped at $14.25, due to the absence of fancy light. Range lambs numbered 22 cars, against 52 cars the previous Monday.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 10,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs and 17,000 sheep, against 11,034 cattle, 20,285 hogs and 17,772 sheep, the corresponding Tuesday a year ago.

INTEREST RATE ON FARM LOANS TO BE REDUCED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—General reduction in the interest rates charged farmers on loans through federal land banks is planned by the treasury and federal farm loan board.

A cut from 5½ to 5 per cent in the rate on loans issued by the Wichita, Kas., land bank, effective today, was announced by Commissioner Williams of the farm loan board.

Later, Acting Secretary Winston of the treasury indicated that it is intended to pursue this policy in the other land bank districts and he hoped that a rate of at least 5 per cent might be obtained generally for farmers.

Mr. Winston believed such action would assist farmers considerably but contended their difficulties included other problems as well as fiscal ones.

Import Rubber Price in July Averages 41.04 Cents

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Prices paid by American rubber manufacturers for imported crude rubber dropped to an average of 41.04c a lb in July, the lowest in any month this year, the commerce department announced today. The June average was 62.24c. Officials attributed the decline to the fact that most of the July rubber was imported at spot prices while imports for June consisted mainly of rubber contracted for months in advance. Imports at all ports in July increased to 37,087 tons from 30,107 tons the month before.

U. S. Treasury Financing Announced for Sept. 15

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Acting Secretary Winston notified all federal reserve banks today that the treasury will carry through a financing operation on Sept. 15. The message to the banks gave no other information nor was the acting head of the department able to elucidate on the questions of how much or in what form the operation would be. Mr. Winston said $488,000,000 in maturities must be cared for next month in addition to the running expenses for the period until Dec. 15.

LONGS SELL PROVISIONS

Liquidation was on in provisions, due to a sharp decline in hogs, large receipts at the yards, and lower grain markets. While there was some investment buying of October lard around $15, the finish was weak, with lard off 7½@25c, ribs 15@45c, and bellies 30@55c. The best support came from shorts. Semi-monthly lard stocks showed a gain of around 3,200,000 lbs during the last two weeks, or slightly less than expected, and the total is 71,051,000 lbs, against 69,812,000 lbs last year. LIQUIDATION IN GRAINS PUSHES VALUES LOWER

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered liquidation developed in the grain markets with free selling in wheat attributed by the pit element to a leading local operator, and with a lack of aggressive buying prices declined readily. Wheat at the low point was off 2¼@2⅝c from Saturday's finish with September selling down to $1.34⅝, and December to $1.38⅝. The close was on a rally of around 1c at net losses of 1⅝@1⅝c, with September $1.35¼@1.35⅝; December, $1.39⅝@1.39⅝, and May, $1.45@1.45⅛.

Corn dropped 1⅛@1⅝c for the day, with December at the low, showing 7¼c under the high of last Wednesday. September closed at 79⅝@79⅝c; December, 83⅞@84⅝c, and May at 90⅝@90⅝c. Oats lost ⅝@⅝c and closed with September at 39⅛@39¼c, and December 42⅝c, while rye was 1⅝@2⅛c lower, with September 98⅝c and December $1.03½.

Large Gain in Visible.

Wet weather in the American and Canadian northwest was responsible for a little buying at the start, when the highest prices of the day were made, but the upturn was short lived, and pressure increased considerably on all the minor upturns, the strength at the last being due in part to evening up on the part of the local element.

An increase of 10,976,000 bu in the visible supply was materially in excess of expectations of the trade and led to free selling. The total is now 52,084,000 bu, or 21,300,000 bu in excess of last year. Export demand was absent, with sales in all positions estimated as less than 500,000 bu, although Chicago handlers sold 595,000 bu to exporters, presumably representing covering against recent sales.

Sentiment has become generally bearish despite the rains in the spring wheat territory, which are delaying harvesting and thrashing. Cash premiums in the west and southwest were steady to firm, and locally ½c higher to 2c lower. Foreign crop comments were somewhat more favorable, especially from Germany and Sweden, and the Germany crop is expected to turn out much better than looked for. Liverpool closed ⅛d higher with a slow milling demand.

Corn Lacks Support.

Weather conditions over the corn belt were decidedly favorable for the crop, and with forecast for further showers and a continued slow cash demand the market declined quickly with some stop loss orders caught on the way down. There was a noticeable lack of support, except such as came from shorts. The September-December spread widened out to around 5c at the last and the December-May spread to around 6c, while contract grades on spot were 1@2c under the future. Visible supply decreased 423,000 bu for the week, and is 22,676,000 bu, compared with 4,436,000 bu last year.

Hedging pressure and the break in other grains had a depressing effect on oats and scattered liquidation was in evidence, with support lacking. Little attention was paid to reports of too much rain in parts of the belt, with grain sprouting in the shock. Shipping demand continues slow. Cash interests bought September and sold December at 3½c difference.

Rye declined in sympathy with wheat, and little attention was paid to reports of a better export demand with sales estimated as high as 100,000 bu at the seaboard. A feature was the exchanging between September and December at 4⅝c difference.

Increased the Mileage of Tires

Doing away with clincher-rims came about with the advent of the straightside tire, now in general use, which contains wire reinforcement, introduced by this company in 1911. This development gave the company its large opportunity. That it has made good is indicated by sales increases, using 1921 as a base: 1922—99%; 1923—107%; 1924—127%; 1925—240%.

The recent adoption of straightside tires for all models of Ford cars provides a largely increased field for this company's products.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

While a majority of wheat traders were inclined to the bear side after the close, there was a feeling in some quarters that the sharp decline and liquidation had materially strengthened the technical position, and that a rally was due. The bulls were not discouraged by the failure of export business to develop in volume and with wet weather in Canada delaying harvesting and the movement, they feel it would take only a few days more of showers to cause general uneasiness on the part of the world's trade and bring in Europe again as a free buyer. Sharp price changes are expected to continue.

With a 12 cent per bu spread between No. 2 mixed corn in the sample market and the May delivery, and with drought broken over practically the entire corn belt, commission houses and local traders generally could see little on the bull side of the market, although yesterday's liquidation strengthened the technical position to an extent that might bring about a good rally. Those in a position to know said they would not be surprised if there was further liquidation in the September delivery.

In commenting on the recent Canadian government report on wheat, B. W. Snow said that for the last three years the August official figures have averaged 2 bu per acre below the final estimate based on thrashing returns. The same percentage of error this year would account for 42,000,000 bu, and would forecast a crop of 359,000,000 bu, compared with the August estimate of 317,000,000 bu.

Reports from Illinois and Indiana indicate an unusually large percentage of old corn still in farmers' hands, with no particular disposition shown to move it until something can be determined regarding the new crop. Returns on oats are bad and, in addition to a relatively light yield and low test weight, the crop has been further damaged by stain, rotting, and sprouting in the shock.

"The week brought general relief over the greater part of the belt, and droughty conditions are relieved," said B. W. Snow in his weekly weather summary. "Moderate to excessive rains fell over the greater part of Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, and Missouri."

Spring wheat and corn in South Dakota will be less than half a crop, according to George C. Bryant's report to Jackson Bros. & Co. from Aberdeen, S. D.

Carryover of wheat in Canada on July 31, 1926, is estimated officially at 35,600,000 bu, compared with 26,482,000 bu last year, while the carryover of oats is 45,241,000 bu, against 35,019,000 bu last year.

After allowing for bread and seed requirements of 78,000,000 bu; unmillable, 10,000,000 bu, and exports of 68,000,000 bu from Jan. 1 to July 1, the Argentine government estimates there are 50,000,000 bu wheat still available for export. Broomhall's agent recently cabled that about 30,000,000 bu wheat was of such poor quality that it would have to be carried over into the new crop.

CANDY FIRM TO PAY $5,000,000 IN LOOP LEASE

GILBERT E. KEEBLER.

Gilbert E. Keebler, of E. F. Keebler & Co., yesterday negotiated what we believe is the largest lease of the year for State street, involving a total net rental of $5,000,000 for a nineteen year term. This amount includes taxes for the period of the lease. Through this deal De Met's candy concern gets the five story C. D. Peacock building at the northeast corner of State and Adams. They will use an "L" shaped store and sublease the corner space and the upper floors.

Peacock's, as announced some time ago, are to move into the corner store of the new Palmer house, at State and Monroe. Ever since that announcement, according to Mr. Keebler, practically every one on the North American continent, with the possible exception of Mr. Calles of Mexico, has inquired for Peacock's present quarters.

Lease Starts Next Year.

De Met's assumed a lease made two years ago by Peacock's to I. Miller & Sons, shoe dealers, who will occupy the north store in the building for nineteen years from next May at a rental reported to be $1,370,000 for the term. Keebler & Co. were brokers in that transaction. They also will have charge of subleasing space for De Met's.

The Peacock building, one of the oldest in the loop, occupies a lot 76x150. The De Met lease is dated May 1, 1927. Davis, Ramsey, Kelly & Kracke and Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson handled the legal details.

New Cohan Mystery!

Is George M. Cohan going to transfer title in his remodeled Four Cohans theater to a New York corporation about to be formed? After writing the foregoing query we took a slant across at Fred Donaghey's desk. That omniscient gentleman not being in sight, we called on Harry J. Ridings, manager of the Playhouse in question, for an answer.

Mr. Ridings admitted he knew nothing of the proposed change and suggested we get in touch with Mr. Cohan's attorneys. They refused to talk. All we can do is quote a revamped clause in Mr. Cohan's lease which was filed for record yesterday. It reads: "The said lessor consents that this lease may be assigned to a corporation organized by the said lessee (Mr. Cohan) under the laws of the state of Illinois or any other state of the United States of America, having a full paid capital stock of not less than $10,000, etc., etc."

MINNESOTA HAS SHALLOW SPOTS IN HER GRANARY

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The shallowest spot in Minnesota's granary this year seems to be here in the center of the state. As the traveler comes out of the Red river valley, where there is a good crop, shocks become thinner on the ground.

Reports from thrashing machines in this district for many miles around indicate that wheat yields generally over eighteen or twenty central and northern counties outside Red river valley are running from 7 to 8 bushels in the poorest sections and from 12 to 15 bushels to the acre in the better districts farther south.

In these counties, including Stearns here in the central section west to Traverse, east to Millelac, and north to Cass, wheat ordinarily averages between 15 and 20 bushels or more; it will probably not go above 10 or 12 bushels to the acre, according to estimates. Oats are spotted and where they ordinarily go above the 50 bushel mark, they will vary this season from 10 bushels up.

Corn is the most promising crop in central Minnesota. The prospects favor a fair yield of ears and a big yield of silage and fodder corn. Recent rains gave corn a new start, the leaves are practically all green, and the stalks are unusually tall for this northern section of the corn belt.

Why have the great Life Insurance Companies placed billions in Mortgage Investments?

AT the close of 1925, a total of $4,775,000,000 was held in Mortgage Investments by 230 of the great Life Insurance Companies. Why?

There are two fundamental reasons: 1. Attractive Yield. 2. Unfailing Security.

The records of these huge companies reveal that for the past eleven years Mortgage Investments have yielded an average of 6.19% as compared with an average yield for the same period of only 4.76% from the other securities held by the companies—a 30% greater income!

The unfailing, unqualified safety of conservative loans secured by well-selected, income-producing land has long been a matter of history, dating back to the rise of civilization.

Northern Electric Company
(WISCONSIN)
Three-Year 6% First Mortgage Gold Bonds (Closed)
Due July 1, 1929
Price 99 and Interest, Yielding 6.38%

Dated July 1, 1926. Interest payable January 1 and July 1 without deduction for normal Federal Income Taxes now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%. Principal and interest will be payable at the offices of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., in Chicago and New York and at the office of The Minnesota Loan and Trust Company, Trustee, Minneapolis. Coupon bonds in interchangeable denominations of $1,000 and $500. Issuance of these Bonds has been authorized by the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin and the Michigan Public Utilities Commission.

GUARANTEED BY ENDORSEMENT AS TO PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST BY NORTHERN PAPER MILLS

For detailed information regarding these Bonds, attention is directed to a letter of Mr. Judson G. Rosebush, President, from which the following is summarized:

The Company: Northern Electric Company, a Wisconsin corporation, is controlled through stock ownership by the Northern Paper Mills of Green Bay, Wisconsin, the largest self-contained manufacturer of tissue paper in the United States. The Company owns approximately 70 miles of recently completed 132,000 volt steel tower transmission line, running north from the mills of the Northern Paper Mills at Green Bay, to connect upon completion of a nine mile addition to the line with its two hydro-electric power plants being developed on the Menominee River.

The entire output from one plant has been contracted for by The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, and will be delivered over the transmission line of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company which now occupies under lease one-half of the completed tower line, an integral part of its super-power transmission system. Both of these companies are subsidiaries of the North American Edison Company. The other plant and half of the transmission line have been leased to the Northern Paper Mills.

Security: These Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a direct (closed) first mortgage upon all of the Company's physical property and rights now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only to lease with the Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company for space on one-half of tower line which will produce a rental amounting to about $21,000 per year. As additional security, the contract and leases referred to above will be pledged under the Mortgage securing these Bonds.

Purpose: The proceeds from these Bonds will be used towards the acquisition of the Company's present properties, and funds not immediately so applied will be deposited with the Trustee to be expended only in connection with the completion of the dams, generating stations, transmission lines and necessary auxiliary apparatus, and the acquisition of such additional lands and rights as required.

Earnings: Based on the above contract and leases, independent engineers have stated that net earnings of the Company before depreciation will be in excess of $360,000, as compared with maximum annual interest requirements on these Bonds, of $180,000. The rental from lease with the Northern Paper Mills should alone cover bond interest and operating charges.

Guarantor: The Northern Paper Mills, organized in 1901, manufactures tissue papers and specialties, under the trade names of "Northern Tissue," "Northern Cabinet Tissue" and "Northern Towels," which are being widely advertised and nationally distributed. Net earnings of the Northern Paper Mills available for interest, depreciation, and Federal Taxes, averaged for the two years and four months ended April 30, 1926, $372,600, not taking into account anticipated earnings and operating economies due to its subsidiary's power development. Rental to be paid the Northern Electric Company will constitute an operating charge of the Northern Paper Mills, and will replace charges for power now purchased elsewhere.

STEEL COMMON AT $159.50, NEW ALL-TIME RECORD

	High.	Low.	Last.	Net chg.
20 railroads	97.73	96.23	96.92	+.36
20 industrials	175.49	173.75	174.13	—.42

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Establishment of a new high record for all time by United States Steel common at 159½ and the revival of activity and strength in the railroad shares, several of which attained their highest prices in a year or longer, featured today's stock market. The general industrial list disclosed considerable irregularity, due to rather extensive profit taking in recent strong spots and a resumption of bear attacks.

Although the next regular quarterly meeting of the United States Steel directors is still more than two months away, Wall Street professed to have information that a 40 or 50 per cent stock dividend would be declared, which explained the demand for that issue. It closed at 158⅛, up 2⅝ net. Steel mill operations are being maintained at a high rate.

Some Other New Peaks.

Among the other industrials to better their previous maximum prices were Allied Chemical, American Smelting, American Safety Razor, Collins & Aikman, R. H. Macy, Pullman, Tobacco Products common and preferred, United Cigar Stores, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Union Carbide.

Du Pont registered an extreme loss of nearly 9 points, most of which was later recovered, following the announcement that the directors had increased the quarterly dividend from 2½ to 3½ per cent and had called a stockholders' meeting to approve the issuance of 5,000,000 shares of no par common to replace the present 1,500,000 shares of $100 par, with the announced intention of issuing two shares of new stock for one of the present common. Trading in General Motors was of a nervous character, though still on a large scale, the stock closing 1¼ points lower at 209⅝ after having fluctuated between 207⅝ and 210⅝.

Standard Oil Disappoints.

Wall Street was disappointed at the failure of the directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to take any action today toward the retirement of the preferred stock, or to increase the dividend on the common stock. Standard Oil of New Jersey common yielded only fractionally to 43¾, but several of the other oils fell back a point or more. General Asphalt was a conspicuous exception, closing four points higher at 77 after touching a new 1926 peak at 77½.

The rails were bought on the strength of excellent earnings reports and maintenance of record breaking freight traffic. Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio common and preferred, Pere Marquette, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Norfolk & Southern and Northern Pacific also topped their previous 1926 high prices, some of them selling at their highest prices in 20 years.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent. Banks called about $20,000,000 in loans, but the supply of funds was plentiful all day.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

POOR INVENTOR AND CAPITALIST CHANGE PLACES

BY HARPER LEECH.

The progress of arc welding which now promises to effect momentous changes in steel construction is illustrative of new modes of industrial change.

There is nothing of accidental discovery, no story of a struggling inventor going cap in hand to one big boss after another, offering his better methods to hidebound conservatives.

Steel construction of course was made possible by modern steel making. There is on record a resolution of big steel makers of a former day, who ordered a paper outlining the proposed Bessemer process stricken from their records in order that their honorable body might not be made ridiculous by the inclusion of such dreams in the transcript of proceedings.

When pneumatic riveting machinery came on the scene, a pioneer manufacturer of such apparatus journeyed over all the world visiting shipyard after shipyard, exerting and pleading with all the fervor of the Rev. Billy Sunday urging lost souls to flee the wrath to come.

Incidentally those pilgrimages of technical persuasion in after years qualified that inlander to head the greatest ship building enterprise on earth.

Contrast the story of the application of arc welding to building construction. The president of a great corporation, the Westinghouse company announces before representatives of structural steel concerns, technical societies and technical publications gathered to witness tests in the laboratories of the Carnegie Institute of Technology of electric welded joints and columns prepared by the engineering department of the corporation, that his company has let contracts for two buildings of the arc welded type.

Capital seeks the invention, no longer does the inventor seek the capitalist. If in politics the man yet seeks the office, instead of the office the man, in business at least the job seeks the man—that is, if the job is a big job or a new way of doing an old job.

It is announced as a matter of course that labor will be saved, that steel will be saved—millions of tons yearly, and the nerve racking noise of the riveter will be banished. Almost as casually, it is announced that the welder will have to know more and exercise more intelligence in his task than the riveter has had to do.

There will be no direct labor opposition to the new method—that time is so far past in America that when we hear of it abroad we wonder if we are on the same planet. Labor will learn the new way, just as veteran steam locomotive engineers shift to electric engines or to gas driven cars.

In times past, labor organizations frequently fought a new machine of process, never successfully for long. Everybody is familiar with that phase of industrial history.

Yet it is also true that in some cases labor troubles and prolonged strikes supplied the incentive which led inventors to perfect machine methods and induced capitalists to adopt them. Labor tactics and troubles in steel construction are said to have smoothed the way for pneumatic riveting in its displacement of hand riveting.

E. J. DU PONT & CO. RAISES ANNUAL STOCK DIVIDEND

BY O. A. MATHER.

The second of the so-called Morgan companies announced a melon cutting yesterday. Directors of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. increased the annual common stock dividend rate from 10 to 14 per cent by declaring a quarterly payment of 3½ per cent. Three months ago an extra dividend of $4 was declared.

A stockholders' meeting also was called for Sept. 13 to vote on changing the authorized common stock capitalization from 1,500,000 shares of $100 par value to 5,000,000 shares of no par value and to exchange two new shares for each old share. As there now are 1,330,829 shares outstanding, the exchange would account for only 2,661,658 new shares, leaving 2,338,342 shares in the treasury for future stock dividends or corporate financing.

Passing on General Motors Melon.

The action of the Du Pont directors was considered as a proposal to pass along to the stockholders the 50 per cent stock dividend recently declared by the General Motors corporation, in which the Du Pont company's common stock holdings are equal to the number of Du Pont company's common stock holdings are equal to the number of Du Pont common shares now outstanding.

These actions of two of the Morgan companies caused insistent rumors that the third, which is the United States Steel corporation, also will be more generous to its stockholders. The steel corporation directors meet in October and there were reports yesterday that a stock dividend of about 40 per cent is contemplated. The corporation now has $550,000,000 common stock authorized and $508,302,500 outstanding. Its surplus at the beginning of this year was $521,863,109. A stock dividend would require a larger authorization of common stock.

Oil News Is Mixed.

The petroleum industry produced mixed news yesterday. The directors of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey declared only the regular quarterly dividends and took no action toward retiring the $200,000,000 preferred stock. There had been insistent rumors that the preferred would be retired at 115 through issuing more common stock, that the stockholders would be given valuable rights to purchase additional stock, and that the common stock dividend would be increased.

On the other hand, Nelson K. Moody, president of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, said the industry is sound and that he expects nothing to happen that will menace its underlying stability in the near future. He expects little change in crude oil prices for the present, although a little too much oil is being produced. William N. Davis, president of the Mid-continent Oil and Gas company, said there is no overproduction of crude oil and refiners are keeping their activities within reasonable bounds.

RAILROAD NOTES

New York Central reports for the second quarter of the year net income of $15,216,671 after taxes and charges, against a net of $12,784,677 in the June quarter of 1925. Net income for the first half of 1926 totaled $25,136,311, against $20,439,685 in the first half of 1925. Net for the second quarter of this year is equal to $3.97 a share on $383,258,200 capital stock outstanding, against $3.33 a share in the second quarter of 1925. Net for the first half of 1926 is equal to $6.56 a share, against $5.33 a share in the first half of 1925.

An interstate commerce commission examiner has held in a tentative report that bituminous coal rates from Illinois and Indiana to the Chicago district and certain territory in the west and northwest are not unreasonable. He recommended that complaints made by the Illinois coal traffic bureau against the rates be dismissed.

Taxes paid in Illinois in 1925 by the large railways amounted to $21,239,869, according to a statement issued by the western railways committee on public relations.

During the period Aug. 1 to 14 the Chicago & North Western railway handled 98,049 loaded cars, compared with 94,438 for the same period last year. Atchison loadings for the week ended Aug. 13 totaled 43,339 revenue freight cars, against 37,072 in the same period last year. Canadian car loadings on line last week were 56,657, against 48,323 a year ago. Receipts were 36,167, against 32,917 last year.

SHARP ADVANCE IN COTTON

Cotton was active and sharply higher on unfavorable weather reports from the central and southeastern parts of the belt, and the forecast was for a continuation of showery weather. Insect damage was reported in many sections and had considerable influence. Liverpool cables were much better than due, and New York and New Orleans showed strength. Prospects that President Coolidge's farm relief program may take the form of the government exerting its influences on bankers and others to form private loan concerns also attracted attention. Closing trades here were at net gains of 35 to 43 points with New York up 35@47 points. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were steady with sales being made in small lots. Cotton duck has been selling more freely. Finished cotton goods are selling relatively better than gray cloths. Yarns opened steady. New lines of spring dress goods being opened are characterized by more offerings of lightweight materials than usual in all worsteds and in rayon and worsted mixtures. Operations in fancy worsteds for men's wear have been in good volume among a few of the larger mills. Silk goods continued in moderate demand for nearby use. Burlaps were in scattered demand for August shipment or for immediate use with few price changes reported.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Price movements lacked a uniform trend in today's curb market, which witnessed a widespread readjustment of speculative accounts. Chief speculative activity centered on the new General Motors stock, sold on a when issued basis, which closed 2 points lower to 140½, after fluctuating between 139½ and 141⅝.

In the oil group Humble, Prairie, and Standard Oil of Kentucky fell back a point or so and a number of others yielded reactionally. Tidal Osage, however, moved up to a new 1926 high. Baking shares failed to attract the attention they did last week, although Continental A advanced 1½ points on a small turnover. Coal shares were firm. Motors held fairly steady in quiet trading. Goodyear Tire made moderate improvement.

Substantial gains were recorded by a number of ordinarily inactive specialties. Singer Manufacturing jumped over 10 points to 380½; Phelps Dodge was bid up over 8 points to 130, and Alabama Great Southern railroad common and preferred and Tubize Art Silk climbed 3 to nearly 9 points. Stanley Company of America and Warner Pictures attained new 1926 highs. Public utilities moved within narrow and irregular limits. A large turnover in National Tin, which advanced 7 points to a new high at 29, featured the mining group.

Speculative divisions of the bond market made a better showing today. Convertible rail and oil issues led the market in activity, several of them following the stocks of their companies into new high ground. Norfolk & Western convertible 6s and Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s were among the most conspicuous strong features, both rallying more than 2 points. The former attained a new peak price at 165.

Standard investment issues, including Atchison and New York Central bonds, fluctuated within fractional limits. International Great Northern adjustment 6s reached a new top price around 81. Skelly Oil 6½s displayed independent strength in the oil group, climbing 3 points to above 140. Warner, Punta Alegre, and other sugar bonds were strengthened by the firmer price situation in the sugar industry.

German General Electric 6½s advanced more than a point to a new high level above 114. Trading in other foreign obligations was quiet, but prices held firm. Demand for miscellaneous issues embraced Ohio Public Service 7½s, Kansas City Power & Light 5s, Continental Bag & Paper 6½s, and Mutual Fuel Gas 5s.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading. Japanese yen sold above 48 cents for the first time in four years. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.85 7-16 and French francs ruled just above 2.70 cents.

The Misty Pathway

By FLORENCE RIDDELL

SYNOPSIS.

Richenda Peterson, a London office girl, wins five thousand pounds in a newspaper contest and decides to spend it in travel. The east coast of Africa holds the greatest promise of adventure to her, and she books passage for Port Mombasa. When the boat stops at Gibraltar, Richenda goes off alone to inspect the old town, and is accosted by a native, who frightens her. Angus Brodie, one of her fellow passengers, rescues her from the man.

Arrived at Mombasa, the first person Richenda sees is Brett Fairways, a noted explorer, whose face has haunted her dreams. She is introduced to him by Lucille Davenant, a widow, who has deliberately sought her acquaintance. Mrs. Davenant and Fairways invite Richenda to join their hunting expedition. They start the journey into the interior. Richenda grows suspicious of Lucille.

Brett tells Richenda he loves her. He is moody and acts strangely, but Richenda trusts him completely, even though the intimacy between him and Lucille is disturbing. Suddenly he says, "I want to be rid of that woman. You've got to marry me at once." And Richenda, feeling she is a creature of destiny, consents.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

THE WEDDING CEREMONY.

The days before her marriage seemed to Richenda to pass on winged feet. Everything had happened at a tremendous rate. She was swept off her balance with the rapidity of it all.

Brett was so determined. He had a sort of "now or never" look in his eye against which the girl found it difficult to battle.

He said but little about the coming wedding, but took all arrangements into his own hands, and Richenda found herself consulted on very few points. Somehow she liked the new masterful Brett Fairways all the better for this.

It was rather delightful to feel that the man she loved so deeply had taken over the ordering of her life completely. Nobody had ever taken care of her like this before. She had had to battle along alone as best as she could, and ofttimes the path had been hard and wearisome. Now all that was to be changed.

Again came the conviction that destiny had arranged this new way along which her life should go. She would not fight against that destiny. She would follow this man of hers along the path he chose to travel.

She gave up teasing argument, tentative questioning.

Why should they wait? In a year's time she could scarcely love him more than she loved him now. It was impossible that she would love him less.

She trusted him implicitly, and Fairways held her to that trust.

Lucille Davenant, too, was very kind. She entered enthusiastically into the talk of future plans with the girl.

Gradually Richenda lost some of her suspicion of this woman. Surely Lucille had made amends! No trace of jealousy was apparent in her demeanor. Indeed, as before, she showed every desire to make the path as pleasant as possible for the lovers.

Once she said, a little pathetically: "Dickie, dear, would you think it perfectly awful if I asked to stay on with you for a little while after the wedding? I can't get a berth on any boat going home till the end of next month, and it would be so terribly lonely sitting in a Nairobi hotel all by myself."

"Think it over, dear," he said huskily. "Walk slowly and very carefully."

"Of course, you must stay on with us, Lucille," answered Richenda generously. "Why should we let this sudden marriage of ours spoil your holiday? Let us carry out the first arrangements and finish the safari in the proper way!"

"I'm so glad, Dickie," Lucille sighed with evident relief, "I know Brett wouldn't mind. But perhaps you might have . . . you see, young wives usually want their husbands all to themselves."

"Not in modern times," laughed Richenda. But she didn't quite like that remark: "I knew Brett wouldn't mind!" The past tense suggested that the two had already come to a decision on this point.

Richenda had written several times to Angus Brodie, whose little coffee farm, she discovered, was only a few hours' journey from the encampment. The second week of their arrival on the hillside, Brodie had paid a surprise visit to her.

"And how in the world did you get here?" cried Richenda upon espying him.

"Why," he laughed, "the railway siding down there is the usual halfway house for petrol—and, as it is your postal address as well, I knew you wouldn't be far off. So, having nothing so terrifically urgent on hand just now, I thought I might spend the afternoon paying a call!"

With the usual hospitality of the colonies, they instantly invited him to stay the night.

"All going well, friend?" he found opportunity to whisper to Richenda.

"I—I think I'm going to be very happy, Angus," she breathed.

He gazed fixedly at her, read all there was to know in her smiling face.

"Think it over, dear," he said huskily—"walk slowly and very carefully. And, Richenda, if ever you want advice or help, remember your promise to come to me."

She nodded. "Angus," she said, "there will never be any need to come. But still——"

"If ever . . ." he began.

"Yes," she acquiesced. "If ever—then I'll come straight to you!"

The marriage ceremony was to take place at the district commissioner's office in the nearby hamlet. Then the party was to come back to the little encampment on the hillside for at least another fortnight.

Privately Richenda thought this arrangement rather strange. But she realized that her position in the matter was slightly awkward. If she demanded the usual honeymoon seclusion, Lucille, who, after all, had joined this shooting trip understanding that it was to last several more weeks, would be most unjustifiably left "at a loose end."

Besides, people didn't bother much about honeymoons these days, she decided.

And what could be better than a honeymoon in the wilds, even if there were a third person with them?

Anyway, she would have all the honeymoons she wanted alone with Brett after Lucille had caught her homeward bound boat.

Fairways seemed to see nothing extraordinary in the continued presence of Mrs. Davenant after the wedding, nor apparently did he consider it unusual that they should spend pre-wedding and post-wedding days in the same encampment. Indeed, he did not discuss the subject at any great length. All his endeavors seemed to be towards hurrying the marriage forward as quickly as possible.

Richenda decided to let him drive his own course. Later on she would fashion things more as she wanted them to be. Just now circumstances were a little too strong for her.

Early one morning they walked down the hillside to meet the hired car which waited at the foot.

"Dickie is not going to drive into Abdera in that awful mule-gharry," Lucille had decreed. "And as for me—if I'm to do the 'dame of honor' business properly, I insist on a smooth trip!"

They covered some twenty-five miles in moderate comfort. To Richenda it seemed a strange journey. Brett spoke but rarely, but, now and then, she caught him smiling to himself. She realized suddenly that there were strange hidden depths in this lover which she had yet to plumb. Once she was caught by a sense of fear, and Angus Brodie's words came back to her: "Walk slowly . . . carefully." And she had not done either. Just as she had plunged blindly headlong into love, so she was plunging headlong into marriage. She wondered what wise Jean Anderson would have said about it all. She would have been horrified, of course.

"My dear, what is his income?" she would have asked. "And who is he and where are you going to live?"

And Richenda couldn't have answered any of these things satisfactorily. She loved him. He was hers. That was enough. She would trust her dream of three months ago.

The wedding ceremony was very brief. Richenda vaguely murmured a few words, signed her name in a little blank space that some one's finger pointed to, saw Fairways sign his. She didn't even read the document. Then Brett kissed her, somebody else was shaking her hand, and Lucille was crying in a thin, high voice: "All the luck in the world, Mrs. Fairways!"

Then they were hustling into the hired car again, en route for the encampment.

It seemed strange to Richenda. Not like a real wedding. Why, they had even forgotten to order a cake!

Then her spirits rose again. She was married—really married—and to this wonderful silent man who sat by her side.

Good Morning!

District attorney: "What for?"

District attorney to chief of detectives: "It's all right. Let her go."

And she goes.

Listens like one of our own little Chicago hoosgow pow wows, doesn't it? But it's not. The above conversation takes place in Hollywood and does not point to such hideous lawlessness as you might suppose. The murderess wants to get out for a perfectly good reason and the district attorney has his own p. g. r., for granting her request.

"Broken Hearts of Hollywood"—full of good acting—is the melodramatic account of what happens when a beauty contest winner breasts the surging billows of movieland and finds that the mother who had deserted her and her father years ago, is also in the swim.

It wasn't the thing for mother to do, probably, and she has paid and paid in various ways for preferring a career to home-making. But when they flash an old photograph showing a family group consisting of father, mother, and child—the understanding heart knows at once just why mamma left papa. A moustached, male Pollyanna with big teeth. Sort of a dumb, shining, sanctified mug. I'd leave him.

Perhaps there were a lot of times when Betty Ann Bolton needed her mother, but certainly never more than when, in Hollywood, Virginia Perry comes to her rescue in the fashion so popular with melodramas.

This picture is hokum, but it's pretty good hokum, so well perpetrated by everybody concerned that you like it immensely. It's not at all original and pulls some rather silly stuff—in the courtroom scenes, for instance. The defense attorney's supreme coup is so extreme that they thought they'd better kid it in the picture. Like this:

District attorney: "By the way, where did you learn that trick?"

However, you'll like "Broken Hearts of Hollywood." That, I think is quite certain.

This Will Cheer Up Sad World a Whole Lot

The folks at the theater just loved this picture! They laughed and laughed and then they laughed some more. And when it wasn't time to laugh they were nice and quiet and flatteringly attentive. Many such receptions spell box office success for any film.

Did you see the play—"The Family Upstairs?" If so you know what the plot's about and need only be told that the screen version is a clever adaptation of the original. If you DIDN'T see the play——

The family upstairs are just ordinary folks. Pop is a street car inspector. Mom is a continually busy and continually talking housewife whose chief worry is the fact that her elder daughter, Louise, has no beaus, no apparent interest in acquiring any and no intention, to all appearances, of ever marrying.

Louise is a dreamy, shy, intense girl made actively unhappy by her mother's constant nagging on the one subject. Annabelle is a demon little sister and Willie, regarded by his mother as a pet and by his father as that with an "s" in it, haunts pool parlors, eats like a horse and refuses to work.

And then—Louise suddenly has a beau—nice young bank teller—and IS Mom on needles and pins! Her stupid but well meant interference just about works irreparable damage—and the picture will tell you all about what happens from where I leave off—which is here.

Everybody in the cast does fine work, but, without a doubt, the picture is J. Farrell MacDonald's. We all adored him and enjoyed every minute he was on the screen. But then, we liked all of it—and don't you think Virginia Valli looks a lot like House Peters?

See you tomorrow!

CLOSEUPS

Lila Lee has been signed by Fox to play the feminine lead of Elizabeth in "One Increasing Purpose," adapted from the novel by A. S. M. Hutchinson.

"The Gorilla Hunt," a five reel picture showing the gigantic Kivu gorilla in his own home haunts, will be released some time in the fall. It was made by Ben Burbridge and is said to be the only motion picture of its kind ever filmed. We hear it is full of big kicks that were not staged.

Birth Control Urged as Aid to Democracy

Birth control is vigorously supported in a book on modern democracy soon to be published by Prof. Thomas Vernor Smith of the University of Chicago. Voluntary limitation of families, he asserts, is a normal and hopeful manifestation and should be universally practiced.

"Birth control is conceived in certain quarters as a violation of natural laws," Prof. Smith states. "Moved by inherited inertia, seasoned by fear, and made active by some half-confessed mercenary interest, such as the need for soldiers or cheap labor, men oppose what alone can give hope to millions. So it comes about that the many are doomed to poverty through oversized families that the few may fatten on their rights."

To bring about an ideal democracy, the professor also recommends prohibition, cessation of war, abandonment of industrial autocracy, and the promotion of universal brotherhood through religion.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. N. C. Bulkey, 728 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

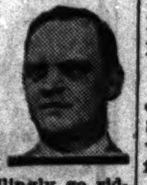
Where Asked.

Congress at Wabash.

The Answers.



William Straus, 2530 North Richmond avenue, policeman—I suggest that the parents keep a closer watch over their daughters and not let them run around with every Tom, Dick and Harry they meet on the street. Also in the cases where the girls willingly go riding with these men and later are attacked they should be punished the same as the men.

Miss Mae Henza, 2453 South Harding avenue, timekeeper—Give the offenders the heaviest punishment possible, or send them to a colony for feeble minded and morons and see that they are kept under the strictest of discipline for a long time. When others see what happens to those caught they will think twice before they try it.

Arthur Middleton, 4139 Ellis avenue, broker—There should be a special police vigilance squad to do nothing but look out for these low-minded men and when they are caught see that they get the heaviest penalty allowed by the law.

Irene Saunders, 331 South Winchester avenue, clerk—Keep the girls off the streets late at night, especially the young ones, and see that the parks are policed and persons there for no good are arrested or sent on their way after 10 o'clock, but be sure those caught attacking any girl are severely punished.

Walter Budzak, 1136 Milwaukee avenue, shipping clerk—The first thing I would suggest is to see that strict discipline is enforced on all the girls at home. Keep them off the streets at late hours and don't let them go to dance halls unless they are escorted.

Young Helpers of Algonquin Begin to Repeat Their Gifts

A crowd of "repeaters," comprising one of the most energetic groups of small workers who have assisted the Camp Algonquin fund this season, reported yesterday their second gift, amounting to $10.50, which they acquired by staging a circus in the Lewis yard last Friday afternoon. With one or two exceptions the same children earned $10 which they contributed to the fund last month.

Those in the group were Frederick and Betty Nicholson, Mary Gene and Eleanor Lewis, Harriet, Betty, and Rose Mary McDermott, Martha Ann Huff, and Harriet Leach.

Still another bevy of juvenile helpers put on a show at Young's resort, Sister Lakes, Dowagiac, Mich., and were so successful that their check for $15 was received yesterday.

Another note in yesterday's mail inclosed $2 for the free ice fund, with the explanation:

Yesterday's gifts for the funds:

FREE ICE FUND.

P. F. M., $2.50.

Total—$21.50.

Grand total—$2,005.68.

CAMP ALGONQUIN FUND.

P. F. M., $2.50.

Total—$13.00.

Previously acknowledged—$2,224.49.

Grand total—$2,237.49.

Gifts for either of the funds may be directed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, at Tribune Tower.

Home Run Is Promised by Hack Wilson for Sally's Baseball Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Boys, you want to see the Cubs play the Boston Braves on Thursday, Aug. 26, don't you?

What greater fun is there than a real baseball game, especially with the Cubs' stars in action? I understand that Hack Wilson has saved the day time and again this season when the score has been tied by hitting a homer. He has promised to hit one for us a week from Thursday. Stephenson, too, and many of the others, I understand, are hitting at the right time. And they'll be going to it a week from Thursday, you may be sure, so that they can climb up a notch at the expense of the Boston team.

You have today and tomorrow, boys, to send your letters in, for you know I pick the winners on Thursday. You can write a winning letter, I'm sure. Just tell me why you like the Cubs and why you want to see this particular game. Then the hundred best letters will get the invitations—and we'll have a great party.

Stop Travel to Europe, Plea of Fannie Hurst

Terms Situation Acute; Raps Bombastic Yanks.

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Fannie Hurst, modern day writer and novelist, believes the government should place an embargo against tourist travel to Europe. She returned today on the Leviathan from Europe, cutting short a vacation that she originally intended should last until the first of the year. Bombastic Americans and jealous Europeans make the other side of the Atlantic anything but a pleasant place for Americans, she said.

"No matter who is responsible for the conduct of certain French people toward Americans," Miss Hurst said, "the situation is acute, despite what may be said to the contrary. It is the old story of the man on top being generally disliked. The American position today is generally resented by the people of Europe.

"The type of American who is responsible for certain acts in Europe is a sensible, level headed person in Duluth, but he does not bear transportation well. Abroad he is bombastic, and everything he does is opposite to his general characteristics.

"It is deplorable, and every thinking American in Europe blushes for the acts of the others. I decided I would see Americans at their best, and came home. You get these people back from Europe to Duluth or Fort Worth and the mantle falls from them and they are blessed Babbits again.

"What we need is some sort of quota legislation for American tourists that should keep them home for at least five years. It would be a good thing for America and a better thing for Europe."

Pythians Delay Their Headquarters Plans

Postponement for two years of the Knights of Pythias plans for a permanent headquarters building was the announcement last night of officials at yesterday's session of their biennial convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Chicago had been mentioned as a favorable site for the proposed structure.

The leper relief question was disposed of with a decision to lay the matter before congress for federal action. Members were loath to invest money in an enterprise which they believe would be controlled by Filipinos.

Recognition was made yesterday of a junior auxiliary known as the Princes of Syracuse, composed of more than 1,000 boys between 14 and 18 in eighteen chapters throughout the country.

Following installation of newly elected officers this morning many of the 20,000 in attendance will depart for Milwaukee. A reception will be held there tonight in honor of Richard S. Witte, newly chosen supreme chancellor.

Needs Tennis Courts for the Picknickers on Sunday

Lincoln park tennis courts are open for play Sunday mornings, but not afternoons because the grass space is needed for picknickers later in the day, said Emil A. W. Johnson, superintendent of the park, yesterday, answering the objections of fans who would play in the afternoon.

Some Hints for the Girls Who Could Use a Few Curves

by Antoinette Donnelly

It is grand to be thin—if you don't look and feel anemic, if you aren't easily fatigued and given to fits of nervous exhaustion.

If your resistance is low, however, there isn't any fun at all in being able to get into a 32 size.

A few pounds underweight are nothing to worry about, but when you get lower by ten or fifteen pounds you ought to do some worrying about how to build up. They are not alarmists who tell us that tuberculosis is on the increase among our young women who fear a curve more than they fear damnation. Neither are they alarmists who warn the young creature who feeds on little else but excitement that she is heading for sanitariums. A great deal of danger stalks this tragic idea about the shame of a rounded figure as young girls interpret it.

Thinness is not esthetic when it is boney and when it affects the color in the face and eyes. Nor is it attractive when it produces a high state of nervous tension.

In order to build up a better beauty foods are important, not only to consider, but to partake of. But there are other things, too. Learning to relax is one of them. Practice composure at meal time and between meals. Still still and stand composedly. Don't wiggle the hands and feet constantly, as this is simply wasting energy that should be preserved.

Get sleep and fresh air. Confining your exercise to dance floors in crowded, stuffy rooms is the worst program in the world to follow if you want to gain weight and health.

The foods that furnish fat are milk, butter, cream, olive oil, cream soups, and a moderate amount of sugars and starches. Don't overload the stomach, but if necessary force yourself to eat nourishing foods whether you have an appetite or not. In the morning and afternoon take an egg-milk drink, or ice cream, now that the open season for it is here.

JULE: TRY THE FOLLOWING exercise for reducing the legs: Stand with feet together, hands on hips. With left foot firmly planted on the ground swing the right foot forward and backward five times, then sideward and back five times. Repeat with the other foot. For additional exercises send a stamped addressed envelope.

LOUISE J.: TO FILL OUT THE hollows in your neck, massage is helpful, but the results will be accomplished more quickly if you will combine exercises and massage. Deep breathing exercises and swimming are excellent. If you wish other exercises, send me a stamped addressed envelope and I'll forward them to you.

U. S. Pays $248,327 to Vocational Teachers Here

The board of education received a government check for $248,327 yesterday to pay one-half the salaries of teachers of vocational subjects in the continuation schools in accordance with the national vocational law of 1917.

The board, with the help of the government, was able to maintain twelve continuation schools attended by 19,275 pupils between July, 1925, and May, 1926. The students, who are completing their education while employed, attend eight hours a week for fifty weeks until they reach the age of 17.

The work at the Washburne school, 14th street and Union avenue, the largest of the schools, is devoted largely to the training of apprentices in the skilled trades. Employers have found the training at this school so valuable that they are paying an aggregate of $250,000 in salaries to their employés while they are studying.

Rich Britons Don't Wash, Can't Cook, Says Marquis

DAVENTRY, England, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Marquis of Northampton said that many rich people in England are dirty and have been badly brought up, in a recent speech here. "I know many rich people who have never been clean all their lives because they have never been taught otherwise," he said. The noble marquis also said the cooking in English homes is worse than in any other country he has visited.

John Alden Carpenter House in Rush Street Is Taken by Paepckes

BY NANCY R——.

The Walter Paepckes have taken the handsome old house at 700 Rush street, over which the John Alden Carpenters have presided these many moons, and will occupy it early in October, in ample time for the festivity of the winter season.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter are in town just now, engaged in one of the most heartbreaking of hot weather tasks—moving. Their household effects are being transferred from Rush street over to the tiptop apartment at 942 Lake Shore drive, where they can be as secluded as they please—except for the fact that most of the world wends its way to their hospitable door when they're in town.

And they are to be in town for part of this winter, at least, although there are plans for European jaunts in the air. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter are planning to go abroad for a several weeks' sojourn some time during the cold season, while their charming daughter, Ginny, is probably going on a trip around the world with her uncle, Joseph Winterbotham. But before then, just as soon, in fact, as their present tedious job is finished, the whole family is running off to wind up the summer at their beautiful country place at Charlotte, Vt.

The new occupants of 700 Rush street are, unless I am much mistaken, the most youthful the house has known during its long and varied career. It was built fifty odd years ago by George Rumsey, whose brother, Julian, erected his home on the other half of the block. After some years E. T. Watkins bought it, and later still, Cyrus McCormick.

The late Mrs. William Blair, the mother of Edward Blair and the grandmother of the dashing Lucy Blair Linn (Mrs. Howard Linn), was the next occupant. Then came the Carpenters, and now the Paepckes—Mrs. Paepcke is the former Elizabeth Nitze, and as she is not only unusually lovely to look upon, being tall and slender and golden haired, but skilled in the ways of fashionable hostesses, and with a sense of humor and some literary talent, she promises to keep up the traditions of the stately old mansion.

Day's News in Society

Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Healy of 219 Lake Shore drive are spending a week in Washington.

Benson Dushane Jr. of Chicago, to Frederic Chislain Calmeyne, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Calmeyne of Brussels, Belgium, is to take place on Sept. 1 at St. William's, Catholic church, Ten Hills, Baltimore.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Moist Chocolate Cake.

A long time reader of this column called on us lately with a lengthy list of questions in hand, but he was especially in pursuit of a moist chocolate cake for the reason, he finally confessed, that "it sells." He was about to start a tea room in a faraway state, whose main patrons would be college youths. And do you know of any chocolate thing from beverage to candies hard enough to break a jaw—besides all the soft fudges—that a college boy or girl will not eat? They eat some rather poor and dry chocolate cakes, we know, and call them scrumptuous.

Molasses gingerbread, if made at all well, is moist. Brown sugar is a moist sugar, and other ingredients being in reason, a cake made with it will be soft. Any cake made with sour milk or sour cream is more likely to be soft and moist than one made with sweet milk and baking powder. Sweet butter in a cake should make it moist, but the sour milk is a surer agent, perhaps for the reason that it is partly thickened or saturated with its own thickening agent and so it cannot easily be made to take enough flour to make a dry cake, even when such a thickening agent as chocolate is added.

Because it is moist, inexpensive, and simple, we recommend the following for what it is worth: One-third cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, one cup of sour milk, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one and a half cups of flour, two tablespoons of cocoa, one teaspoon of vanilla or use a spice to suit, for flavor.

Just melt the butter [melted butter helps to make a cake moist if it works all right], beat the egg and sour milk separately, and then beat them together. Beat the sugar into them gradually next, and then add the melted butter. Have the dry ingredients sifted and add. Bake in three layers with a medium fire until sides start from pan. Fill and ice with a white icing.

Go Slow on the Love Letters, Girls, If You'd Avoid Regrets

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am in love with a young man a few years older than I. I wrote him two letters expressing my love for him. I thought I would not sign them, and if I received an answer I would be sure he thought much of me when he guessed who wrote those letters. But I never received a reply. Nor have I seen him for a long time. I hope he will see this in the paper and will recognize me as 'Brown Eyes.'"

If a girl got an anonymous love letter she'd be sure of the name of the man who sent it. She might be wrong—but she'd still give him the benefit of the doubt until she had his direct word he hadn't. Men, not being such romantic creatures, would believe some one was putting up a joke on them and throw the letter away.

That's what your adored one did with your letter, Brown Eyes. Let's hope so, anyway. It would not be well to let any man think you would sit down and pen him a billet doux without first having just and reasonable cause.

I cannot imagine anything that would be much more disconcerting to a male than to take an anonymous love letter seriously. He might think he was being marked for a blackmail or a breach of promise plot. Our growing crop of breach of promise suiters, young women who would sue rather than toil, is making life difficult for the romantic lady who sees in a love letter only a tender missile. But this is getting away from your particular case, Brown Eyes.

Your penning two of them involves a feature that does not meet with male approval as a class. The young man may have guessed that you were the writer, and that may explain why you have not seen him for a long time. Men are not generally credited with intuitive faculties, but some of them have caution, which serves them equally well. And a girl in hot pursuit does bestir their caution, Brown Eyes. Take my word for it.

Encourage a young man if he seems to need it, Brown Eyes, Blue, Hazel, and Green Eyes, but never write him a love letter until he has first sworn that you are the only girl in this world and the next for him.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

"Dear Miss Blake: I would like very much to have a boy whom I see quite often write to me this summer while I am away. Would it be proper to ask him to write. Who should write first? THANK YOU."

Drop him a card and put your address on it. If he wishes to correspond he'll make use of the address without your requesting it, dear.

Quaker Oats
"stands by"
you through

That's why millions start their days in this way

TO feel right through the morning, you must have well-balanced, complete food at breakfast. At most other meals—that is, at luncheon and at dinner—you usually get that kind of food.

But at breakfast the great dietary mistake is most often made—a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamines and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clair D. Vallette of Chatham Courts, formerly of Chicago, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Helen Mills, to Alexander Doniphan Jr., of Alexandria. The wedding took place in Baltimore, Dec. 26, 1925, and the young people kept their secret until this month. Mr. and Mrs. Doniphan will make their home in Alexandria after a visit to Mrs. Vallette in her apartment here. Mrs. Vallettee and her daughters have many relatives in Chicago.

Mrs. Charles G. Matthews has joined her sister, Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett, in the latter's summer home, Casa Veronica, on the cliffs at Mackinac.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean have gone to Bar Harbor and opened their summer home there. Mr. McLean has taken with him a number of his best horses to enter in the Bar Harbor horse show.

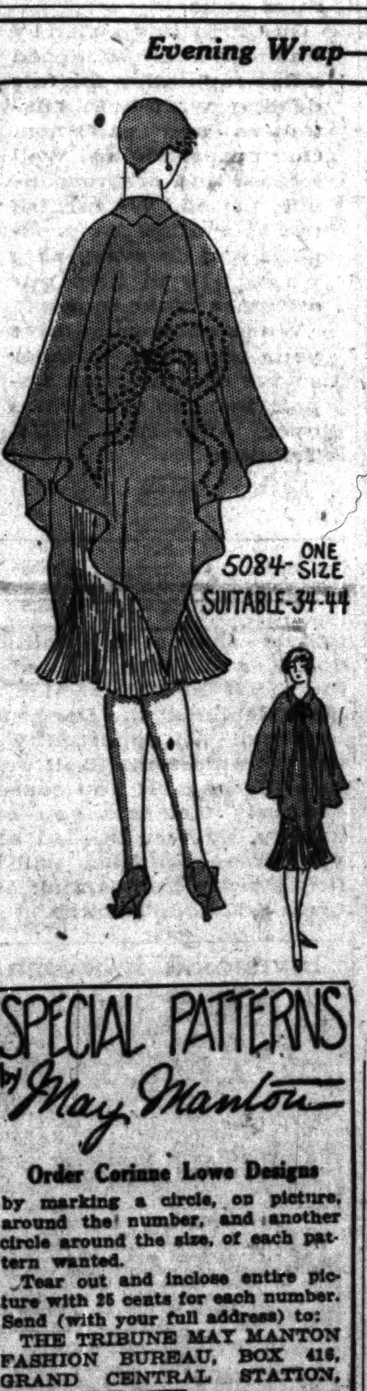
Miss Margaret Backus and Ensign Howe to Be Wed This Evening

A wedding with all of the bridegroom's attendants, wearing the uniform of the United States navy or army, will be celebrated this evening in Kenilworth, when Miss Margaret Washington Backus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Trumbull Backus, becomes the bride of Ensign Hamilton Wilcox Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Howe of Kenilworth.

The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock at the Kenilworth Union church, and will be followed by a reception at the Backus residence on Cumnor road.

Miss Teresa Backus will be her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Elizabeth Waterbury of Waterloo, Ia., and Miss Martha Jones of Chicago. The bridegroom's attendants will be Ensigns William C. Psrenger, Robert G. Armstrong, James A. Morrison, Donald W. Alexander, John O'Shea Jr., Frank O'Brierne, Robert H. Hollenbeck, G. Godfrey Crissman and Lieut. William O. Hanner, U. S. A.

Evening Wrap—By Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Here's a rhine-bow to lighten this black cloud of chiffon—an original decoration for a distinctive little evening wrap! The black chiffon which forms the cape is cut on bias folds and sewed together in such a way that the two long points fall back and front. Only streamers of the self-material bow adorn the plain front. In the back an expansive bow knot of traditional form made of rhinestones carries opulent suggestion. In contrast to it, the tiny turndown collar which finishes the cape is strictly tailored.

Evening wraps, quite as much as evening frocks, should be chosen according to the individual. The one we show above is delightful for the youthful figure—whether that figure is tall or of only medium height. So are the shawls which play so large a rôle on every gala occasion of summer. Those embroidered in brilliant flowers have lost no prestige. But a newer note in shawls is provided by the ones in metal cloth.

Another type of wrap in this fabric is usually well suited to the Juno type of woman. This is the slender coat of tailored persuasion. Fashioned of brocaded lamé in either gold or silver, a coat in this mode combines brilliance with simple distinction of line. It is just this dual advantage which maintains the popularity of metal cloth.

A third variation of the evening wrap combines the advantages of cape and shawl. It is especially good for the woman with well shaped shoulders. The chiffon top of this model is fitted and, several inches below the shoulders, long fringe sweeps to the bottom of the accompanying frock. Often the chiffon is patterned in brilliant flowers and the fringe exactly matches them.

CANTHROX

THE MOVIES AND THE BOB

Whether the movie actresses started the bobbing craze or not, it is certain that they have accepted it and that most of the stars on the silver screen today have bobbed hair. And women, on and off the stage, find that by using the right hair-wash any style of bob is made much more effective.

The best way to bring out the natural beauty of the hair is to shampoo it with Canthrox. This is a simple, inexpensive shampoo which can be obtained at any druggist's. Simply dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and apply it all over the head. Results will be delightful because your hair will be so soft, fluffy and never streaked. It dries quickly and is easy to do up. Canthrox also stimulates the scalp so that the hair is healthy, free from dandruff as well as dirt and excess oil. It costs only about three cents a shampoo.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Ted was much disappointed when he was told the new baby was a sister. He had looked forward to having a brother to play with but he said hopefully to his mother, "Oh well, mother, maybe between us we can make a tomboy out of her."

Yesterday Pattie committed some slight misdemeanor. Running to aunty, she forestalled her, thus, "O, Nanna, I's jus' as ashamed of me as you are!"

A prominent New York corporation can now place a distributor in Chicago and its environs. This corporation manufactures a very important food store equipment and furnishes a cooperative service, having tremendous possibilities in an unlimited and fertile market.

The distributor required must necessarily be a good business man; preferably experienced in specialty sales and specialty sales promotion enterprises. He must be a man who can combine common sense, initiative, hard work and vision with a highly meritorious proposition in order that he might realize the utmost from his efforts. This man should be financially able to make a small investment because the income return is highly profitable.

Confidential correspondence with a detailed report of business record is invited. A personal conference with Sales Director will be arranged.

INSTRUCTION.

A FREE COURSE IN CHARACTER READING.

The heritage of everybody is happiness, yet few people are entirely happy. Most unhappiness in home life, in work or in business is due to failure to understand the people around us. Most of us do not know how to analyze the people we meet. Happiness and success comes to the few who are able to know at a glance just how the people we meet are handled. This is character reading.

The reason more people do not take up character reading is because they do not realize how easily they can master this thoroughly. During the past several years I have made thousands of people happy and successful through my teaching of character analysis.

I believe that character reading should be a part of our regular Chicago High School course so that our future citizens will be equipped to find happiness and success in life and business and, in order to arouse public interest in this subject, I am organizing a class of 25 ladies and am giving a regular 4 lesson course, absolutely without charge of any kind, to 25 interested ladies who will pledge themselves to attend the class each week for four weeks. That's all; no fees and nothing to buy. My first free class will be held after Sept. 15. Make your application for this free course by mail only.
